

REUBEN JAMES. Three days of war had passed, and he left the kitchen and the kitchen sink of Naples left him. And never since the Argo rested in the bay. Such people and villans have called in company. As the men who went with Preble to the ship. Stewart, Bainbridge, Hill, Deaneur, how they were treated. Lawrence, Purser, Triggs, McDonough, every star that lights his banner tells the story. But one common sailor is the splendor of his name. Reuben James was first to follow in Deaneur's lead. Of the hands who in getting into battle took his sword. The first of the splendor of his name, till his blood was running fast. And they fell before the mast. Cleared the deck and the ship. There, that will do. Now get a pair of trousers. And the door the lower-hatch he left and brought him low. Little merry notes the corair, his high voice was raised to stay. When a richer prize allured him where Deaneur struggled.

"Help!" the Turkish leader shouted, and all his soldiers lighting their eyes to the Turkish leader. Reuben James, disarmed, arms, saw the sailor strike. "I heard the sailor's taunting cry. "You are a coward," he said, "I will show you a coward's trick." A still and a cowardly prize. A dog's name can do. As the Turk's a quivering, aliding, in the blood around his feet. The Turkish leader, with a sword, vengeance doubly sweet. Swirl and swirl, he left the sailor's head below. And a confession! He should Reuben James saved the boat; so the sailor was made dead. So the love that moves the lowly lights the torch to find and prize. Yet we erode him not his honors, for he whom like the eagle, for God never ranks his sailors by the sword and the death.

JOHN DEBBS. CHAPTER V (CONTINUED). The day was drawing to a close when Mr. Atwood came home. He was a little out of spirits, as he had a headache and was tired. He found a letter on the table, which he opened and read. It was from his mother, and it was a very kind letter. He read it with interest, and then he looked at the clock. It was nearly ten o'clock, and he had to go to bed. He went to his room and lay down, but he could not sleep. He thought of his mother and of the letter she had written to him. He felt that he was very lucky to have such a kind mother. He thought of the letter she had written to him, and he felt that he was very lucky to have such a kind mother.

OHI MY BACK! DR. HILL'S ENGLISH BUCHU Kidney. INVESTIGATORS IN USE. Reuben James was not entirely forgotten by his lady-love, and he did not remain long in the land of the living. He was longed for and missed. As soon as she could she went to his grave, and she seemed out of spirits. Elizabeth was very kind to her, and she was very kind to her. Elizabeth was very kind to her, and she was very kind to her. Elizabeth was very kind to her, and she was very kind to her.
