

PINE JOB PRINTING A SPECIALTY.

IN ADVANCE WHOLE NO 650

31 FEB. YEAR. VOL 18 NO 26

"Devoted to our Own Locality, We Labor for its Interests."

Table with 2 columns: Direction (Going West, Going East) and Time (Morning Express, Noon Express, Evening Express, Night Express).

WATKINS STOCK FARM, One-half mile west of Birmingham.

Dress Goods, Flannels, Blankets, YARNS AND HOSIERY New Stock Just Received

AT Frank Blakeslee's, Birmingham, Mich.

HOME NOTES

John D. Evans, he says he won't vote for Governor E. C. ...

Over there at Port Huron the street preacher is made by the police to move on, but the entire force will stand and witness a brutal prize fight to an end without a qualm of conscience...

The sad news of the death of the wife of Charles A. Wilson of Holly was telegraphed to friends in this place one day last week...

Read Ira Stadel's new ad. Farmers who are alive to their interests are always before bringing their potatoes, wheat, barley, etc., to Ira Stadel...

Southland and Ohio tie for the lead in the number of births for the past year, each having reported 134,311.

Chas. Child and Wm. Hawthorne attended the reunion of the 7th Michigan Cavalry at Battle Creek this week.

It is probably not very well known that every column in a newspaper contains from five to ten thousand distinct pieces of metal...

Mr. Clark Vaughn, of Colorado, is back again in Michigan for a visit. His stay depends on how the climate treats him.

For safe and certain remedy for fever and ague use Dr. J. C. McManis' Chills and Fever Cure; it is warranted to cure.

Portrait-nose has mail carriers and all correspondence, papers, etc., in the county seat must be addressed to street and number.

Go. C. Wallace has been buying the father's affairs the past week. Mrs. A. C. Wallace will make her home in the future with her daughter Mrs. Kate Ford of Stanton.

El Baker planted 14 acres of potatoes and dog just 1800 bushels of fine chrysanthemums that he handles every one of them. Twenty-five of the 34 weighed over 20 pounds.

We have received, that prize picture, "The Russian Wedding Feast," from the Detroit Evening News. It is a wonderful reproduction and you should see Miss Staley for particulars.

At the auction sale of Andrew C. Campbell, late proprietor of East Upright, next Saturday the 25th, at 10 o'clock a.m. at Royal Oak, where is an acre a bargain.

I have for sale 31 head of choice stock, which I will dispose of at 13 per cent. Can be seen at my farm 1 mile south of Birmingham on the plank road. Stephen Cooper.

R. C. Hawkins has left with a specimen of his celebrated Pills at the North end of which he has a note for sale for $750 per bushel unshelled.

Regular exercises of Birmingham Chapter No. 59 B. A. M., on Monday evening next, October 27. Every member requested to present. Business of importance. A. Partridge, secretary.

Mr. Collins, banker, of Rochester, Minn., was in our midst Tuesday last looking up printers for the coming merchants' carnival at that thriving city, which is to come off in the near future.

Misses Sarah Hanna and Tom are making extensive preparations for the coming season of military store in connection with their dress making branch at the store corner Maple avenue and Georgia street.

George Melroy for the past year has been a great sufferer from asthma and has decided to try the climate of Colorado. He will have an auction soon and his farm if not sold will be rented seasonally.

Faith of digestion cause disorders of the alimentary canal. Dr. J. R. McManis' Sarsaparilla perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

We forgot to mention in our last issue that Advertiser the photographer of Pontiac is offering a rare treat to all of his customers. Call on him at the old Franklin gallery, opposite Hodges House.

The American Building and Loan Association of Minneapolis, Minn., with an authorized capital of $300,000,000, has established a local board in Birmingham with the following officers: directors, President, J. L. Campbell, treasurer, A. Whitehead; secretary, D. M. Johnston; directors, Ira Slade, W. H. Manser, E. A. O'Neal, J. M. Clement, George H. Mitchell, P. J. Richardson, A. R. Donaldson.

Whitehead & Mitchell's pumpkin is now on deck and the gussing began last Monday. They not only give a new and beautiful $83.50 sewing machine but will also give to the winner a free ticket to Royal Oak and return with 50 cents extra for incidental expenses. Call and get a guess on the pumpkin. It was raised by Wm. E. E. F. and is a beauty. Call in and see the prize pumpkin.

M. D. Bentley, of the Bentley Lumber Company, the live, energetic butler, has bought an entire number of stock, and on the P. O. S. N. Y. There he has invested $25,000 and owns at this time a modern saw mill for fine work.

Mr. Martin Millard, of Gates, Mich., made us a short, pleasant call the first part of this week. We charged the young man with being slow on the trot on a matrimonial intent, but Martin denied allegation and swore the allegation and has accepted a lucrative position in Royce's drug store at South St. Marks.

A copy of the celebrated painting, "The Russian Wedding Feast," is on exhibition at Whitehead & Mitchell's. It is the property of Alice Staley, the News' well known delivery boy, who will take your order and deliver you the picture. See this elegant work and become owner of a copy of this hand-some painting.

Close upon the announcement of the death of Benjamin Irish of West Bloomfield, comes the sad news of the death of that man, which occurred Tuesday night of last week. Mrs. Irish had been in poor health for some time and the sudden cessation caused by the death of her husband, only ten days before, hastened her death.

News of the death of Ira L. Burkhaw, who died at Sand Beach, Mich., came to us last week. He was buried by the neighbors of the Sand Beach Lodge. F. A. M. Burkhaw was a member for 24 years of the Birmingham Lodge No. 44 F. A. M. and was universally respected and highly esteemed by all who knew him.

Martha A. Lane died last week near Franklin from cancer that had eaten into her face so that she was a great sufferer and a pitiable sight. Just one week previous to her death she was the recipient of a pension on account of her late husband, Mr. Lane. It amounted to nearly $1,500.

Just as we go to press the sad news of the death of Steve Goodman comes to us. Steve was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Goodman, a most brilliant young man with the most brilliant prospects. He will be buried at Clark, Mich., where he died. The family have the heartfelt sympathy of a host of friends in this village in this respect. Dark hour of bereavement.

The Woman's Working Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Bruce on Friday, November 7, 1890, at 3 o'clock p.m. Committee to provide biscuit, Mrs. Seaman and Mrs. Frank Allen; committee to provide cake, Mrs. Wm. Allen and Mrs. Taber; committee to provide butter, Mrs. Ed Crawford; committee to provide soup, Mrs. Hunter. Mrs. Kittle Clark, secretary.

Licensed to read, Frank L. Boyden and May R. Smith; George E. Johnson and Edith Everts; Charles P. Burton and Christie Walters; LaMont B. Cole and Alonzo A. Dwyer; Washington F. Smith and Mattie C. Humphrey; Homer Loring and Adie E. McCoy; Joseph Wallace and Mary M. Coyle; Samuel A. Seaman and Ruth J. LaFayette.

This week Frank Blakeslee has a change of address. It is brief and to the point. When searching for bargains remember that Frank's stock has just been reduced and that the prices are just as low as first-class goods can be sold for. If as first-class goods can be sold for. If as first-class goods can be sold for.

Remember the B. D. C. of Oct. 31. The club has secured some fine music for the occasion, the orchestra consisting of five players. Everybody invited to come and have a good time. Bill 50 cents.

The new and handsome home of J. F. Bunde is rapidly approaching a finish. Detroit plumbers are busy putting in a complete job of plumbing and when completed J. F. will have a home with all the modern conveniences.

Messrs A. E. Case and F. Ford have sold their Huron county farm at Sand Beach back to M. D. Wagner and made a nice little plum in the transaction, and now Case and Ford are in the far west looking up a location.

Henry A. Miller, of Southfield, brought into our office five potatoes that weighed just 12 pounds. They are dainties and the best part of it is that Henry has a number of acres and a great big crop of this necessary vegetable.

Over there at Port Huron the street preacher is made by the police to move on, but the entire force will stand and witness a brutal prize fight to an end without a qualm of conscience...

The sad news of the death of the wife of Charles A. Wilson of Holly was telegraphed to friends in this place one day last week...

Read Ira Stadel's new ad. Farmers who are alive to their interests are always before bringing their potatoes, wheat, barley, etc., to Ira Stadel...

Southland and Ohio tie for the lead in the number of births for the past year, each having reported 134,311.

Chas. Child and Wm. Hawthorne attended the reunion of the 7th Michigan Cavalry at Battle Creek this week.

It is probably not very well known that every column in a newspaper contains from five to ten thousand distinct pieces of metal...

Mr. Clark Vaughn, of Colorado, is back again in Michigan for a visit. His stay depends on how the climate treats him.

For safe and certain remedy for fever and ague use Dr. J. C. McManis' Chills and Fever Cure; it is warranted to cure.

Portrait-nose has mail carriers and all correspondence, papers, etc., in the county seat must be addressed to street and number.

Go. C. Wallace has been buying the father's affairs the past week. Mrs. A. C. Wallace will make her home in the future with her daughter Mrs. Kate Ford of Stanton.

El Baker planted 14 acres of potatoes and dog just 1800 bushels of fine chrysanthemums that he handles every one of them. Twenty-five of the 34 weighed over 20 pounds.

We have received, that prize picture, "The Russian Wedding Feast," from the Detroit Evening News. It is a wonderful reproduction and you should see Miss Staley for particulars.

At the auction sale of Andrew C. Campbell, late proprietor of East Upright, next Saturday the 25th, at 10 o'clock a.m. at Royal Oak, where is an acre a bargain.

I have for sale 31 head of choice stock, which I will dispose of at 13 per cent. Can be seen at my farm 1 mile south of Birmingham on the plank road. Stephen Cooper.

R. C. Hawkins has left with a specimen of his celebrated Pills at the North end of which he has a note for sale for $750 per bushel unshelled.

Regular exercises of Birmingham Chapter No. 59 B. A. M., on Monday evening next, October 27. Every member requested to present. Business of importance. A. Partridge, secretary.

Mr. Collins, banker, of Rochester, Minn., was in our midst Tuesday last looking up printers for the coming merchants' carnival at that thriving city, which is to come off in the near future.

Misses Sarah Hanna and Tom are making extensive preparations for the coming season of military store in connection with their dress making branch at the store corner Maple avenue and Georgia street.

George Melroy for the past year has been a great sufferer from asthma and has decided to try the climate of Colorado. He will have an auction soon and his farm if not sold will be rented seasonally.

Faith of digestion cause disorders of the alimentary canal. Dr. J. R. McManis' Sarsaparilla perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

We forgot to mention in our last issue that Advertiser the photographer of Pontiac is offering a rare treat to all of his customers. Call on him at the old Franklin gallery, opposite Hodges House.

A. J. Simms and family have returned to their Nebraska home. Alice made his visit one of pleasure and profit. He brought home with him a car load of horses which he disposed of with a good margin on the profit side.

Remember the B. D. C. of Oct. 31. The club has secured some fine music for the occasion, the orchestra consisting of five players. Everybody invited to come and have a good time. Bill 50 cents.

The new and handsome home of J. F. Bunde is rapidly approaching a finish. Detroit plumbers are busy putting in a complete job of plumbing and when completed J. F. will have a home with all the modern conveniences.

Messrs A. E. Case and F. Ford have sold their Huron county farm at Sand Beach back to M. D. Wagner and made a nice little plum in the transaction, and now Case and Ford are in the far west looking up a location.

Henry A. Miller, of Southfield, brought into our office five potatoes that weighed just 12 pounds. They are dainties and the best part of it is that Henry has a number of acres and a great big crop of this necessary vegetable.

Over there at Port Huron the street preacher is made by the police to move on, but the entire force will stand and witness a brutal prize fight to an end without a qualm of conscience...

The sad news of the death of the wife of Charles A. Wilson of Holly was telegraphed to friends in this place one day last week...

Read Ira Stadel's new ad. Farmers who are alive to their interests are always before bringing their potatoes, wheat, barley, etc., to Ira Stadel...

Southland and Ohio tie for the lead in the number of births for the past year, each having reported 134,311.

Chas. Child and Wm. Hawthorne attended the reunion of the 7th Michigan Cavalry at Battle Creek this week.

It is probably not very well known that every column in a newspaper contains from five to ten thousand distinct pieces of metal...

Mr. Clark Vaughn, of Colorado, is back again in Michigan for a visit. His stay depends on how the climate treats him.

For safe and certain remedy for fever and ague use Dr. J. C. McManis' Chills and Fever Cure; it is warranted to cure.

Portrait-nose has mail carriers and all correspondence, papers, etc., in the county seat must be addressed to street and number.

Go. C. Wallace has been buying the father's affairs the past week. Mrs. A. C. Wallace will make her home in the future with her daughter Mrs. Kate Ford of Stanton.

El Baker planted 14 acres of potatoes and dog just 1800 bushels of fine chrysanthemums that he handles every one of them. Twenty-five of the 34 weighed over 20 pounds.

We have received, that prize picture, "The Russian Wedding Feast," from the Detroit Evening News. It is a wonderful reproduction and you should see Miss Staley for particulars.

At the auction sale of Andrew C. Campbell, late proprietor of East Upright, next Saturday the 25th, at 10 o'clock a.m. at Royal Oak, where is an acre a bargain.

I have for sale 31 head of choice stock, which I will dispose of at 13 per cent. Can be seen at my farm 1 mile south of Birmingham on the plank road. Stephen Cooper.

R. C. Hawkins has left with a specimen of his celebrated Pills at the North end of which he has a note for sale for $750 per bushel unshelled.

Regular exercises of Birmingham Chapter No. 59 B. A. M., on Monday evening next, October 27. Every member requested to present. Business of importance. A. Partridge, secretary.

Mr. Collins, banker, of Rochester, Minn., was in our midst Tuesday last looking up printers for the coming merchants' carnival at that thriving city, which is to come off in the near future.

Misses Sarah Hanna and Tom are making extensive preparations for the coming season of military store in connection with their dress making branch at the store corner Maple avenue and Georgia street.

George Melroy for the past year has been a great sufferer from asthma and has decided to try the climate of Colorado. He will have an auction soon and his farm if not sold will be rented seasonally.

Faith of digestion cause disorders of the alimentary canal. Dr. J. R. McManis' Sarsaparilla perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

We forgot to mention in our last issue that Advertiser the photographer of Pontiac is offering a rare treat to all of his customers. Call on him at the old Franklin gallery, opposite Hodges House.

A. J. Simms and family have returned to their Nebraska home. Alice made his visit one of pleasure and profit. He brought home with him a car load of horses which he disposed of with a good margin on the profit side.

Remember the B. D. C. of Oct. 31. The club has secured some fine music for the occasion, the orchestra consisting of five players. Everybody invited to come and have a good time. Bill 50 cents.

The new and handsome home of J. F. Bunde is rapidly approaching a finish. Detroit plumbers are busy putting in a complete job of plumbing and when completed J. F. will have a home with all the modern conveniences.

Messrs A. E. Case and F. Ford have sold their Huron county farm at Sand Beach back to M. D. Wagner and made a nice little plum in the transaction, and now Case and Ford are in the far west looking up a location.

Henry A. Miller, of Southfield, brought into our office five potatoes that weighed just 12 pounds. They are dainties and the best part of it is that Henry has a number of acres and a great big crop of this necessary vegetable.

Over there at Port Huron the street preacher is made by the police to move on, but the entire force will stand and witness a brutal prize fight to an end without a qualm of conscience...

Items for this department are earnestly requested by the editors and all such items will be handsomely rewarded. Reading, Grace Orange county, N. Y. He was of Scotch descent. His father removed from Scotland to the north of Ireland, thence to this country, where he settled for a time near the Hudson river. In 1829 he married the wife of a Michigan, looking upon a tract of land in the township of Wing Lake, Oakland county. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son Andrew, then eighteen years of age, was left with his widowed mother the head and support of the family. He was a hard-working young man and met with many discouragements. His wife was a devoted and devoted wife. He was a man of energy, a man of faith and Christian character. He was one of the first members of the Wing Lake Presbyterian church. He was the father of ten children, six daughters and four sons, three of the daughters are still living. In 1832 the cholera raged in Detroit. Mr. Wallace, visiting that city, contracted that terrible disease and returned home to his home in Wing Lake. By his death his son