

All sorts of women his wife... The truth is that when a ship is plunging down the back of one wave and is at the same time heeled over till her hull is close to the water, the wave looks as if it would sweep completely over the vessel and therefore appears as a mountain. How- ever, the height of the mountain is not the height of the wave, but the height of the 100 feet from level to crest, but no verified measurement of the height of the mountain has been taken.

The highest reliable measurements are from 45 to 65 feet—in a line a very remarkable height. Waves having a crest height of 65 feet are not often encountered. The height of wind waves is governed by what is called the "fetch." That means their distance from the place where their formation begins. Thomas Stevenson, author of the "Lighthouse Illumination," is of the opinion that the distance from the place where the wind starts to blow to the place where the wave is equal to 1.5 multiplied by the square root of the fetch in fathoms miles. Let us suppose that it is a gale of wind the force of which is 40 miles from the ship you are on. The square root of 40 miles is 20, which multiplied by 1.5 gives 30 feet as the height of the waves across the ship.

Now let us know that in every storm there are occasionally groups of three or four waves considerably larger than the others. Captain Locky is of the opinion that these are caused by the increased force of the wind in the squalls which are a feature of every big blow. Now, waves travel at a rate which is the result of the force of the wind. The force of the wind is equal to 1.5 multiplied by the square root of the fetch in fathoms miles. Let us suppose that it is a gale of wind the force of which is 40 miles from the ship you are on. The square root of 40 miles is 20, which multiplied by 1.5 gives 30 feet as the height of the waves across the ship.

Montana, Oregon and Washington. The northern Pacific Railroad passing through Minnesota, Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington was the first line to bring the region occupied by these states into communication with the east. Its main line and branches penetrate all sections of these states, reaching its zenith of the chief cities. It is the shortest line to Helena and Butte, Mont., Spokane Falls, Tacoma, Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore., and the only line running through train service from the east through the state of Montana and Washington. Pullman sleepers and furnished Tourist Sleeping Cars are run along the Wisconsin Central and Northern Pacific, and Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars via Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Chicago & North Pacific, from Chicago through to the Pacific Coast without change. This is the Dining Car and Yellowstone Park route.

The large travel on the Northern Pacific line necessitated the inauguration of a new line of second through train to the Pacific Coast, thus enabling this route to offer the public the advantage of two through trains daily to Montana and points in the Pacific Northwest, carrying complete service of sleeping cars, dining cars and regular day coaches. The train leaving St. Paul in the morning runs via the recently completed Air Line of the Northern Pacific through Butte, Mont., making this the shortest line to the latter point by 120 miles.

Colonists for Washington, Oregon and British Columbia points should take other than the Northern Pacific, as by this line only a second through train to the Pacific Coast is served. Second class and Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars are run along second class tickets at Spokane Falls and all points west, enabling travelers to inspect the country without extra expense.
