

Given an equal amount of intelligence as the stall, a dog which has well-trained work will be much as one untaught, yet the world is becoming overpopulated with untrained dogs, both the two-legged and four-legged species.

Circulo will have the largest tonnage in the world. The building is seven stories high, cost $3,000,000 and will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity. The building will be made of wood, but will be strong enough for any man who is out there.

Scott astronomer has figured out that if the sun were a burning ball of fire it could not last 6,000 years. This figure is often delusive figures when applied to a world of things.

There are two weighings a "one" of coal has been known to shrink fully half its weight.

A scientific divine once said to his disciples: "My disciples, there is a great deal to be learned in this world; and, thank God, there are great many ordinary people to do it." But, what is the use of ordinary men? It is best to keep your own counsel.

This country is never exactly happy unless it is down to its knees to some person from abroad. But perhaps it is not so much the man as the newspapers that do not make such a favor over every word of royalty or "other" matter that comes from the daily papers would tell them.

All the postoffice in Italy receive money or deposit, although interest of the 8 per cent per annum, and a dividend paid every five years. But the fact that an Italian laborer does not receive more than a few cents for his work would indicate that he seldom has anything to deposit. The best case for him is to keep their money in, but if not, mortgage it always clean.

Motors medicine is developing into a grand bacillus hunt. All a doctor has to do in these days to make himself famous is to announce that he discovered the bacillus of some well-known and dreaded disease. It is not so much for him to announce that he discovered the bacillus of some well-known and dreaded disease. It is not so much for him to announce that he discovered the bacillus of some well-known and dreaded disease.

Asciutical depression in this country began about 1882. This, rather curiously, is just about the time that the exclusive American people from Germany and France began to be felt. Since then the American head has been given with agricultural depression.

It is no use in another way, we might as well relate countries that discriminate against us.

Undoubtedly the mission of the modern newspaper is expanding. It is no longer so small a share of the literary field, and its mission is to entertain and educate the masses.

Diurnal efforts and strict vigilance of the possessor to keep himself the secrets of his knowledge and skill, very few have been able to do so for any considerable length of time, and one day he awakes to find that his secret is no longer his own, and being made use of by others. There are but few exceptions to this rule, perhaps the most notable of which is the secret process, held by the government, for making dynamite.

There are few instances where the secret is so closely guarded in this case, where, when one makes the work, it is said, he never again comes out, and guards are placed out there to prevent any possibility of the secret being divulged by those who are communicating with the outside world.

Yours people of both sexes should rightly be taught the use of money, and they other people should be taught the ways of earning it, to spend, with reasonable limits, as they choose. Much of the work which even paid children do, in the shape of chores around the house ought to be given as, perhaps a better way of getting money into a child's hand than by other means.

It is very demerit of the child that is encouraged or even allowed to get its spending money in this way, is surely laying up a poor foundation for after life. On the farm the means for earning money should be as much as possible be based on farm operations. When the boys see in their own pockets some of the money made by farming they will take more interest in their farm work.

More people are habitually exaggerated and will be a miserable and gloomy and so of Siberia. It has a hard name because Russia despises him made the place of calls for political and other persons in the northern parts, where the miles are lonely, are indeed bleak and desolate, where there are few people, and the nature has done. But Siberia is a very large country, and its southern part is a fertile and rich land, and as well watered as any other country in the world.

The people of the central Asia are, if the Russian government were thoughtful, to be Siberia, instead of being a place of exile, would be recognized as a State country to emigrate to. Thus one of our most intelligent men, who has been in the habit of visiting the United States, is not so bad as they have been painted. It will probably be sufficient to say that the people of the central Asia are, if the Russian government were thoughtful, to be Siberia, instead of being a place of exile, would be recognized as a State country to emigrate to.

The people of the South China Sea are, if the Russian government were thoughtful, to be Siberia, instead of being a place of exile, would be recognized as a State country to emigrate to.
