Next door—February 12, 1891. SHARP STICK after the first issue in March. Remember that the B. D. C. hop is to-morrow night.

Mr. Alonzo Partridge and Eugene Brooks attended the regular annual meeting of the Grand Chapter at Grand Rapids and report everything lively and as having had a grand time riding the Grand Coast. They witnessed the dedication of the Masonic Home a project that has cost many thousands of dollars and will be of great good in the state for all time to come.

The good old fashioned idea of valuing the sending instead of growing obsolete is being revived and to supply this demand Whitehead & Miller have a very large new stock of the choice, sentimental kind and a fair sprinkling of those others that are horrible caricatures of the thing and which would only disgust to the receiver.

As usual for the past ten years one day last week Mr. A. Partridge paid his annual presents to Mrs. Ferguson at Mrs. Clara Alger's on the occasion of the good lady's 94th birthday. Mrs. Ferguson's health is quite poorly and for many months she has been a great sufferer so that it is hardly possible that she will be spared to see her 100th birthday.

It would seem as if circumstances were combining to knock out the Detroit & Birmingham plank road. Everybody knows that the Detroit & Birmingham plank road is fighting it on the Detroit end of the line and the teams hauling timber over the end of it are cutting it off to pieces and meanwhile the rails are being laid on the whole road and it is a question of time when it will be struck on a wheelbarrow. Ooh, how! I wish that those poor little boys do this again summer?

Capt. George Baldwin died at his home in Traverse City on Saturday morning at 7 a. m. For many years he sailed the large passenger steamer City of Traverse, which plied between Traverse City and Chicago. Funeral at Chicago on Tuesday the 10th. Capt. Baldwin was a son of Gen. Theophilus Baldwin and a brother of Stephen Baldwin, of Detroit, and John Baldwin, of this town.

Mr. E. S. Chamberlin, of the Watkins Farm, has a pitcher in decorated pottery on exhibition at the store of Whitehead & Miller. The knowledge and skill to do this work she is willing to teach others and it is a very handsome thing to be able to do. Any old cracked, broken or otherwise unworkable, treated by this process, becomes a beautiful object and one greatly to be admired. Her terms are quite reasonable and the knack of this work can be learned by anyone. See the pitcher in yellow roses and apple blossoms.

Mr. Fred Honeyman was found dead near home in Redford, near Sand Hill, last week Thursday, February 3rd. He was the evening at the home of Mrs. E. L. Beardslee, after a long and painful illness lasting a period of seven years. Funeral was held from the late home on Monday, February 10th, at 8 o'clock, P. M., conducted by Rev. Clemens, assisted by Rev. Bird. Remains were interred at Greenwood cemetery followed by a large number of relatives and friends. She has a husband and two children to mourn her death.

Adolph Eggars is the jeweler of Detroit and with Marshall Barnard as his first man, they do most remarkable business in their line. Selling gold watches at 10c a piece. The peculiarity of this firm and they have sold in this way hundreds of them. Their repair department is noted for good work and low prices. Read their ads in another column. Don't fail to follow its directions.

Rollin S. Schuyler has been a very sick man and attended by Dr. Ide, of Oxford, who pronounced his trouble obstruction or stricture of the bowels. He was examined by five doctors who partially agreed. Mr. Schuyler was taken to Grace Hospital in Detroit last week and underwent an operation and was relieved of a gall stone nearly as large as a small hen's egg, since which he has rallied and is recovering slowly and surely.

Hurrah for G. G. Fenwick, the popular proprietor of the Camp Martine lunch houses, Griswold street, Detroit. Congratulations are rarely now in our city. He received a telegram from the New York poultry show that his flock of Partridge Cochins had captured first prize. A very important fact when you consider that competition was open to the world and the number of competitors were up among the thousands.

The sawmill industry with its long building necessities employ men and are 18 houses. Messrs. Schindler and Russell are running the mill for all it is worth and making money as Mr. Stricker says in our paper. For saving and he in turn gets enough out of the sawed timber to pay him, so all are happy and when the sawmill whistles every one is joined in by the water wheels, verily it seems to us "we do grow."

W. A. Campbell seeing the possibility of a manufacturing enterprise ever coming to our midst, informs us that he will be only too willing to donate three acres of land to any enterprise or manufactory that will locate in this place. A very generous offer, indeed, but there is not one individual in the village but who would contribute generously for the absolute purchase of a factory, of any real estate that any manufactory might need.

William Willis formerly of Pontiac, who recently purchased the old G. M. Mill, has been tearing down the old house and place with the intention of building a fine farm residence. Last week while he was superintending the workmen on the job, he suddenly fell very ill and was taken to the house of Wm. Satterlee, near by. At the present writing, Mr. Willis is in a very serious condition and his family are considerably worried over his case.

All those of our subscribers who failed to respond to the gentle reminder of the month, especially, will soon hear from us in a way that will not be forgotten. The "sharp stick" will follow close on the heels of the blue cross, moralism, and they will think that a brick house has fallen on them. Don't cry if you won't listen. Warning is given to you. The first issue in March will tell the story and we hope those who will hear from us in this disagreeable way, will be few and far between.
