The village of Birmingham is fast assuming proper appearance. The trees that overtop the streets have been freed, the shrubs are trimmed, the fence has been removed. The streets will be graded and two sidewalks will be laid so that this avenue will be the best approach to the village from the Southfield section and the west. Lot 17 of this handsome subdivision has a living brook which runs a heavy stream forming a brooklet of a pure cold water as was ever seen. A scale of prices has been fixed on these lots and Stanley and Clay are ready to do business.

It is laughable to hear the comments of the people on the subject of the fountain on the corner of Saginaw and Maple avenues. It has failed to suit any one so far, but the latest change is said to be the case and we think it will meet the particular case after the grass has commenced to grow about the new barren mound. No one will dispute the fact that the one near the depot is a very beautiful one and that the fountain on the corner of Saginaw and Maple avenues is a fine specimen for 'Bee Har', and like it, is fascinating and instructive.

First-class Single and Double Rig. I have recently prepared for my traveling business at considerable expense a set of Improved Coaches for preserving the heat. This coach keeps the heat from direct sun by the means of the double glass and does away with the old-fashioned blankets.
