The Doings and Stoppings to Our Two Peninsulas Wisely Set Forth.

Much Information Compressed.

Strange Predicament of a St. Joseph Woman Deserted 30 Years Ago by a Married Again.

A Combination of Whisky and Indian Remedies Settles a Hotel Matter.—Logging Accidents.

Stole a March on the Captain.

When Capt. Simons, of St. Joseph, deserted his wife 30 years ago, she waited for him eight years, and then married another man. Supposing him dead, she lived for a certainty that she was a widow and entitled to become a sharer of Noble's soldiers' home pensions. She was never before known to keep out of sight eight years, and it was fair to presume that he had no pension in the matter. Very recently word was received that he was alive and well, and was coming home to make a visit, and there were shipwrecks in his ship, of course, but Mr. Martin and Mrs. Simons-Martin set about having them removed. The machinery of the divorce mill was set in motion well oiled at every point of friction and before the captain dropped his anchor in Jones, Mrs. Martin-Simons had become Mrs. Simons by divorce, and Mrs. Martin by marriage. Capt. Simons has not yet arrived.

Slipped Through the Bars.

Sheriff William Beard, of St. Joseph county, offers a reward of $150 for the arrest, and delivery in any jail in the United States of James Donovan, alias McCoy, who escaped from the county jail at Centerville. The front door to the jail is left unlocked, and the keys hang in the office, inside. The supposition is that some one from the outside entered, unlocked the cell room, liberated Donovan, relocked the doors and returned the keys to their proper place. Published descriptions of him say that Donovan is 5 feet, 11 inches high, weighs about 170 lbs., has brown hair, has a heavy, sandy mustache and blue eyes, and "is large mouth when he laughs." It is thought that he is in good health, fond of laughing just now. The sheriff isn't.

Good Indians Now.

Two Indians, Mitchell Blackman and Long John, of Traverse City, by name, do not seem to have made good resolutions on New Year's day. They got drunk at Acme, near that city, and took a walk along the track of the new C. & W. M. branch. A locomotive struck them, cut the head of one of them completely off, taking off the top of the head of the other one. When found one of them had four bottles of whisky and the other three.

Prof. Davenport will Return.

It is understood on good authority (often that Prof. Eugene Davenport, who last fall went to Brazil to become president of a government agricultural college at a remarkable live salary, will return to this country at the end of a year. His determination is based upon the fact that the prevailing ideas of the country upon agriculture are so very crude, and the prospect for rapid development so poor, that there is no room for the patience to watch the progress.

Logging Railroad Collision.

A special from Muskegon to Grand Rapids occurred on Hackley & Hume's logging railroad on the Muskegon river, near that city. One man was instantly killed, his body being fearfully mangled. Another lost a leg. The accident was caused by a locomotive running off down a steep grade and colliding with a locomotive.

Accidentally Beheaded.

A frightful accident occurred at Pack's railroad camp, near Alpena, whereby Jerry Burcer was instantly killed. While loading the chain binder and he fell under the wheels by which his head was nearly severed from his body. He leaves a wife to mourn his loss.

Horse Medicine.

Samuel F. Wood, a well-to-do farmer, of Rose township, Oakland county, died from the effect of poison, having taken horse medicine by mistake. He leaves a wife and four children.

SENATE.—At the session of the 25th but little business was transacted, owing to the expected message from President Harrison regarding the Chilian affair. A few bills were introduced and referred, committees reported and other routine matters disposed of. Among the bills introduced: Ordinarily a presidential communication attracts practically no attention and the reading may be dispensed with, Mr. Hoar's appearance to attend to other duties. Things were different today? Twenty-five democrats and 40 republicans were in their seats when the reading commenced and but one of them moved; that one was Mr. Hoar, and he left the chamber. Few heard more distinctly. The reading occupied over 30 minutes and when finished by Secretary Cox, Mr. Sherman was recognized, printed and referred to the committee on foreign relations. A resolution from the committee on rules was then presented by Mr. Call duly elected was placed on the calendar. In respect to the memory of Justice Bradley, the senate then adjourned. HOUSE.—Speaker Crisp presided having recovered his health. The reading of President Harrison's message was listened to with rapt attention and warmly applauded, when finished, by both sides of the house. It, like the senate, was printed and referred. After a small amount of routine matters the house adjourned.

Fifty Killed by a Falling Roof.

During services in a church at Slobodsket, in the Government of Vratka, Russia, the roof gave way and fell upon the worshipers beneath. A scene of the wildest excitement followed. The villagers rushed to the scene of the disaster and began to rescue persons imprisoned by the fallen timbers, boards, etc. The wreckage was soon cleared away when it was found that 50 persons had been either killed or fatally injured.

The third district republican convention at Doughlasville, La., has instructed its delegates to vote for Harrison.

TO UPHOLD OUR HONOR

CHILI COMES TO TIME.

President Harrison Makes a Decided Demand and Chili Promptly Accedes to It.

The question at issue between Chili and the United States has assumed a most acute phase. This information is to the effect that the Chilian government has received from the government of the United States an ultimatum which in the strongest possible terms states that diplomatic relations between the two countries will cease unless the offensive circular note issued by Senor Matta, minister of the Chilian foreign minister, in regard to the Baltimore affair, is withdrawn. Furthermore, the ultimatum demands that Chili immediately make reparation for the "attack by the mob upon the Baltimore's sailors in Valparaiso, and that she make an apology for those attacks. The ultimatum concludes with the statement that the United States will tolerate no further delay on the part of Chili in answering the demands of the American government. Nations are jealous of interference everywhere in the world, and while it cannot be said that the excitement has reached the state that is commonly known as the "war fever," yet the natural martial instincts of the Chilian people are without doubt greatly aroused. It has been definitely ascertained that Senor Pereira, the Chilian minister of foreign affairs, has not sent to the minister here Egan a final notification that the Chilian government will reply at once to the note which was sent between Chili and the United States government to the effect that the ultimatum of the United States.

The New York Herald has the following from its Valparaiso correspondent: I had an interview with Eduardo Matta and Judge Altman, both of whom are members of the council of state. When I informed them of the nature of the ultimatum sent by Secretary Blaine, they expressed considerable surprise at its terms, and without formally committing themselves, both agreed that it would be a supine act to now withdraw Matta's letter.

Chili's reply to the ultimatum is in effect as follows: Chili agrees to withdraw the offensive note sent by Senor Matta to all the Chilian ministers abroad and acknowledges that its issuance was the result of error of judgment. Chili also withdraws its request for the withdrawal of United States Minister Egan. In addition to this the Chilian government in its answer proposes that the affair of the attack on the Baltimore's sailors in Valparaiso be referred to the arbitrat on of some neutral union. If this proposition is not acceptable to the United States government, the Chilian government suggests that the matter be submitted to the decision of the supreme court of the United States.

Crippled People Cremated.

The most terrible fire ever known in Indianapolis was that of the awful death of 16 crippled and surgical inmates occupied by 250 patients, mostly women and children and nearly all of them helplessly crippled, locked in their beds. The building were large frame structures and the oldest in the city and had been for years regarded as unsafe and unfit for human habitation by many crippled people. The entire fire department of the city was called out and the fire was under control before the buildings were not looked after but all put forth their best efforts to rescue the helpless inmates. The fire leaped up through the floor of the building in which it started, reached the stairway, thus securing a draught, and swept through the second floor from room to room and hallway to hallway. Then the third and fourth floors were quickly reached, and across the alley the fiery tongues leaped during the adjoining building. On the second and fourth floors, where the horrible work was done, the building were very old, a work of narrow halls, entrances and stairways. The fire could not have chosen a building more destructive, however, for the small rooms throughout the building were from one to four beds, all occupied by helpless, many of whom were helpless. When they became aware of their peril their fright was awful. They became frantic in their efforts to reach a place of safety. Every effort was made by the fire, police and ambulance forces to rescue the caged unfortunates, and acts of heroism and daring were performed by the men that should perpetuate their memories. At last the dreadful night long had passed all the inmates and turned their attentions to the burning buildings and after a two hours fight the fire was extinguished. Then came the search of the ruins. The first thing that greeted the searchers on entering the structure was the charred bodies, burned almost into one mass. The men proceeded through the halls more than half filled with debris, and many of the cripples were not even able to reach the windows. The bodies were found in all sorts of horrible positions, being roasted and burned in many cases beyond recognition. The search continued until 9 bodies were found and many more may be discovered when the debris is cleared away from the lower floor and the cellar.

Presidential Preferences.

The members of the house and senate who were in their seats on Wednesday, were polled as to their presidential preferences. A number declined to commit themselves, but two-thirds of all the members on both sides were ready to declare, and two-thirds of the democrats favored Hill. Only six republicans were outspoken and only four democrats were for Harrison and uncompromising Cleveland men.

A Society to Commit Murder.

The suspicion that there was an organized conspiracy to kill Judge Botkin, Attorney Finney, Governor Lewelling and three other persons in southwest Kansas, has been fully substantiated at Topeka. Here are the names of the men in the various counties, who have furnished information, and whose forename have always been correct: Ford county, not known; Clark county, time to reveal the full enormity of this criminal organization, they have detailed enough of its operations to show that the three separate oaths bind the members to obey the order of the inner council, even though they know not who that council is or where it holds its meetings. The members swear to obey these orders without question, even though they may be commanded to take the life of their dearest relative.

Evicted in the Snow.

A distressing scene was witnessed at Shenandoah, Pa., the result of an old law suit over land. The heirs sued Mrs. Catherine Feaney, the successful litigant, with the assistance of Sheriff Conury and two deputies, called at her humble home for entrance to the disputed property, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Valerious and another tenant, with their families. They were forced out, and all their household effects thrown out after them into the snow and the threats and curses of the unfortunates. They had the sympathy of a large gathering of spectators, whose anger was only controlled by the presence of the sheriff and his deputies not to interfere.

An Unusual Accident.

A shifting engine at Carrie furnace, at Rankin, Pa., ran into an embankment of the Pittsburg, McKeesport & Youghiogheny railroad trestle and dislodged it. A freight train passed over it before the accident and the span gave way, precipitating eight cars to the bottom. Brakeman A. G. Carruthers was killed instantly and Brakeman Charles Hose fatally injured. The cars were demolished.

REBELLION IN BRAZIL

Adherents of Da Fonseca, the Deposed Dictator, Overpower the Guard of the Fort Combining Them.

They Then Capture Two Other Forts and Demand the Restoration of the Dictator's Power.

The Army and Navy Have to Take Captured Forts by Storm.—The Capital Much Excited.

Tried to Restore Da Fonseca.

A Rio Janeiro special says: After a season of comparative tranquility, this city has again become violently disturbed and the excitement have been thrown in a state of excitement approaching the delirious. It prevailed during the uprising which resulted in the dethronement and banishment of the late Dom Pedro and the overthrow and subsequent retirement to private life of the dictator, Gen. Da Fonseca. The trouble began when the government refused for various offenses in Fort Santa Cruze, situated on the east side of the entrance to the harbor of Rio Janeiro and two miles south of the city, and succeeded in overpowering and disarming the brigade and soldiers of the fort at the place. Then armed with the weapons taken from their former guards they advanced upon the town. When the rebels become the soldiers on duty and took possession of the two forts and all the munitions of war and guns which they found in the side of the forts which faced on the harbor. The efforts of the soldiers were directed against Fort Villegagnon. They made the assault and afterwards carried the fort and the government was again placed in possession. The rebels and the gunboats were bombarding Fort Santa Cruz, and so effective was their work that the rebels were forced to haul down their own arms and surrender. The leader of the rebels killed himself when he saw the last chance gone.

The firing during the attack on the forts was plainly heard throughout the city and caused the greatest consternation among the residents. The number of the rebels wounded is not known, but must reach a considerable number as the rebels fought like demons.

"Freddy" Gebhard Tries Gold Cure.

Frederick Gebhard, who became famous through his relation with Miss Langtry, the "Jersey lily," has experienced the last "jab" of the magic fluid known as bichloride of gold at the Keeley Institute at White Plains, N. Y. After consultation in his apartments at the Brunswick hotel, Mr. Gebhard left the city "tackle the gold cure and depend upon its results to adhere to the treatment." Therefore he was met at the train and escorted marched to the institute for his first "jab." He was one of the last to fall in line and marched up to the bar at the Keeley Institute at White Plains, N. Y. After consultation in his apartments at the Brunswick hotel, Mr. Gebhard left the city "tackle the gold cure and depend upon its results to adhere to the treatment." Therefore he was met at the train and escorted marched to the institute for his first "jab." He was one of the last to fall in line and marched up to the bar at the Keeley Institute at White Plains, N. Y. When Freddy passed out of the institute door he took a four-ounce bottle of Keeley whisky with him.

Electric Street Cars Destroyed.

Fire which occurred at Toledo destroyed the car barns of the Toledo electric street railway company. There were between 25 and 30 electric motor cars in the barns at the time and all were destroyed. The building was a one-story brick, about 80x150 feet in size, and nothing but the walls and floor remain. The exact figures are not available, but the loss on the building and cars will reach $100,000, with an insurance of about $60,000.

The Pope is not Ill.

Rome special: The report that the pope was suffering from an attack of influenza is pronounced at the vatican to be unfounded. The officials at the vatican say that the health of the holy father is excellent, having good health, and that he receives the daily reports made by them.

Weekly Review of Trade.

NEW YORK, January 21.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Reports from every part of the country express even greater confidence than before in the immediate future, while in some industries definite though gradual improvement is seen. Rumors of coming war have during the past week had no importance enough to affect money markets or speculation.

The markets for staple products have been stimulated by speculation, which is held in check by the conservative holding. Wheat advanced 1½c and receipts at the Atlantic ports have been small for severe weather, but exports continue large. Corn has declined 1c, with stronger cash, and oil has declined 5½c and coffee advanced a fraction. Cotton has declined and material change in prices is noticed. In woolens there is considerable return demand for light goods and the opening of the spring styles of men's wear for the following season has given buyers confidence. An excellent business is done thus far by jobbers in dress goods and in the medium and cheaper grades unprecedented, and silk goods are fairly strong. Reports from all manufacturing centers show ample supplies, an easier market and except at the south a comparatively light demand with fair or good collections. The imposing failures occurring throughout the country during the last four weeks have been 1,579, as compared with totals of 359 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 413.

The death of Mr. Benjamin Scott, chamberlain of the city of London, is announced by the Royal astronomical society, is announced.

In a meeting of the creditors of the Ames wrought iron iron company, held at Ames, it was decided to grant the company an extension. The company may resume the control of its own affairs.

Robert Hepler has been arrested in Kokomo, Ind., for the murder of Mrs. Goedly and her two children. The trigic murder, which occurred in a peculiarly brutal manner, was prompted by jealousy and revenge. Hepler is a married man, and the woman murdered was a divorced wife.

TO SEE THE WIND.

Anybody Can Do It if They Stand in the Right Place.

"Figs can only grow in a country" is a proverb of some age, and is perhaps a tribute to the understanding of an animal that while nominally the property of brutes is really one of the smartest. But anybody can see the wind if he will stand in the right place, asserts the New York Recorder. They say that you will keep your whittling bladed knife or any other piece of polished metal at a slight slant toward the breeze and look along its windward edge. You will see the air flow upon and fall off on the leeward side. Perhaps so, but you can see it for a certainty on the Western plains on an average summer day. When the sun is well up, say from noon until 2 o'clock, and the earth is getting pretty warm, the heated air rises from the whole country.

The dryness of the atmosphere seems to make it especially elastic, and as you look off toward the horizon it seems to be filled with vibrations. These lie in waves under a stratum of aberration that amounts to obscuration, so that you do not see things when they reach them but only sky reflections, as on water, and as the bright blue color shows at the foot of the hills and woods it resembles a lake spread there. But this hills and woods jutting into it as capes and fringed with trees as islands. This is the famous mirage of the plains and the desert that deceives raw travelers with a promise of water.

It is caused by a stratum of rarefied air has nobility behind it you can see the wind blow through it because it sees it rippling and flowing and causes appearances and effects in the more distant ground surface. When the day is warm, the heat reflection considerable and the wind moderate you can see the waves move as easily as you can see what bend before the breeze.

The true mirage, which results from magnifying these conditions of rising air and a colder stratum, and that brings objects into view that are below the horizon—a phenomenon known to sailors as the distortion that makes the submerged part of a stick seem to bend when it is thrust into water—this mirage is less often seen than the other on sunboard. And there has been some talk lying about it there. Next to the moon hoax there never was a bigger fraud than the one perpetrated on innocent believers by a man who had been thrown up in Alaska, and who swore that back of Muir Glacier was a permanent mirage reflecting the spires and roofs of a city in the sky. Some people said that they must be a city hidden in an unexplored valley to the eastward, and all kinds of fairy stories about lost tribes and civilized remnants and treasure towns were invented to fit the case.

But one day a man who was born in Bristol, England, saw the photograph of the city in the sky and knew it at once, house and grain barns, with granary decked, and all. He said that he had never fall, having running water for stock and plenty of wood within reach. Also some meaning business and wanting above described property, will do well to call at the Eagle Hotel and get full particulars by calling at the Eagle Hotel office.

A Hint for Brides.

A novel wedding present was recently inaugurated by a fashionable bride in New York. She carried an unusually large bouquet and just before leaving the church for the carriage handed her flowers, which proved to be eight separate posies, fastened with different colored ribbons. Each of these was presented to a bridesmaid, and one of these concealed a wedding-ring which would indicate the next bride. The idea resembles the custom of putting a ring, thimble and money in the Christmas pudding and awarding the finder's lot, respectively, as matrimony, spinsterhood, or wealth.

Tit for Tat.

One day a distinguished notary, while breakfasting with a friend at a cafe in Paris, indulged in some stinging comments on the public acts of Marshal Marmont. Suddenly, another gentleman, dining at a neighboring table, rose, approached him, his face white as the tache bristling with anger. "Sir," cried he, tragically, "you shall give me satisfaction!" "Are you Marshal Marmont?" coolly asked the notary. "I have not that honor," was the reply; "but I am his chief aide-de-camp." "Give me your card, then, sir," said the notary. "I will send you my head-clerk."—Argonaut.

White Poplars and Lightning.

M. Govarcf, a Moscow scientist, has discovered that when lightning strikes a forest the white poplar (populus alba) is the one to attract it. It came to the conclusion that the tree can be used as a natural lightning-rod and he submitted a memorial to the effect that the interior advocating that the planting of white poplar be in every house in a village be made obligatory upon the peasants to prevent fire by lightning.

Dense Forests.

It is said that the timber on the Kalama river is so dense that when the trees are sawed off they stand on the stump, not having room to fall.
