Harris for Slippery Sam and that indelible work, advertiser and general hustler, George Kitz, whose advt appears this issue for the 4th annual time in this general paper. Slippery Sam is the great hustler. Slippery Sam is the great hustler. Slippery Sam is the great hustler.

The Campbell sub-division is putting on a jolly spring air and showing a decided lift. Sam Jackson's, a home built there is an ornament and a valuable acquisition. Wm. A. Parks has moved the house from Mrs. Uter's lot, corner Maple avenue and Chester street, on this sub-division, and will give a general overhauling, put on new siding, re-shingle and paint it up and when completed he will have a neat and tidy home as anyone, and Alex. C. Cannon has the contract to build immediately three cottages. One is already sold to Mr. John Felder.

August Miller, son-in-law of Joseph Parks, who lives west of this village, was discovered coming towards his home last Monday afternoon, holding his head in his hands, apparently in great pain. He was cared for and Dr. C. M. Kaysale immediately summoned and found the sufferer in a critical state.

He was incoherent, could not tell how it happened, his tongue apparently paralyzed and two small holes in his head, one through the ear which bled plentifully, and the other near his temple showed plainly that pitchfork tines had pierced the brain, but he kept his wits as a mystery. We hope the sufferer will speedily recover.

Wait for the Big Show

Fred Locke's Monster Show!

Wait and Look For It

Monday, May 16, '92.

Fred Locke's show here is always patronized by every body. Every body knows that a good entertainment is a good one and one worth the money.

Don't forget the day; next Monday, May 16, '92.

GRATEFUL FOR INFANCY.

Mr. Harman Thought His Face was Fading. On an Atlantic steamer bound for New York a few years ago the usual entertainment for the benefit of the Harman Society's orphan was projected. There happened to be on board a good many "professionals," and the Harman Society's orphan was projected.

As he was the person most desired efforts at last made to change his mind and the committee arranged for Mr. Harman to undertake the mission, and after starting the case and making the Harman Society's orphan was projected.

"I refused all these people," said he, "and I am going to be a part in this sort of entertainment; but if you ask me Mr. Harman, I cannot do it. I am glad to do anything that will please you."

Mr. Harman felt much compelled, but protested a little when the man continued:

"You did me a great favor once, Mr. Harman, and I have never forgotten it. You may not know me, but I am under great obligations to you."

"Why," hesitated the great showman, "I do not remember you."

"Oh," it was thirty years ago Mr. Harman. I took the price at your first play and now I have found you."
