MICHIGAN MATTERS.

IN CONDENSED FORM FOR BUSY READERS.

THE Emperor William announces that he holds his crown by divine will. In other words, his majesty has grabbed from local politics.

A SAN FRANCISCAN has returned from Italy with the information that the Italians do not like American mutoscopes. Hence many Americans do not like the hand-organ.

THE Chinese Admiral Tsing is in fair way of being plucked of his honors, showing the white feather he has had the peacock's feather taken from him—a sort of homeopathic method of cure, by the way.

AND now they talk of making silk from wood pulp. The forests may therefore be looked upon as doomed, unless silk worm should have the time to prevent this threatened interference with industry.

A "SHEEN GOODS" dealer in New York has been fined that he "never paid the police for protection." It is still a left-handed compliment, for he has been carrying on his business under their eyes for years.

A SEGRO who lives in Baker county, Georgia, dreamed three nights in succession of finding money in an old grave. He went to the spot designated in his dream and found a skull and three gold dollars. This is "the stuff that dreams are made of" in Georgia.

AT a test of one of the Sims-Edison torpedoes the other day the speed of the appliance as it went through the water at eighteen miles an hour. His object in doing this is not clear, as the necessity for breaking the modern torpedo to the saddle is not generally understood.

A PERSON announcing herself vociferously as a lady struck a conductor in the face because he did not stop his street-car on a curve as she desired. The conductor refrained from returning her cuff in the ear, a policeman refrained from arresting her. So the advantage of being a lady becomes obvious to the dullest intelligence.

$9,000 New Troops to Move Upon Pekin.

London: The Daily News commenting upon a dispatch stating that Japan has a fresh army of 9,000 men ready to take the field, says it is unlikely that they are going to Korea and that there can be no other destination for them, namely, a dash upon Pekin. The Japanese general has announced with unconcealed glee the capture by treason of Moukden, but he is known to be a master in the art of deceiving the enemy. He could easily send an army to Pekin, a great part of the way by sea.

A dispatch from Berlin to the Standard says it is stated that the Japanese army, which is to march to Pekin, will be accompanied by the Japanese squadron in the mouth of the Pei Ho river. The army and fleet will remain in constant touch.

Trotted a Mile in 2:03 3-4.

At Galesburg, Ill., the great trotting queen Alix beat the world's record by trotting a mile in 2:03 3-4. It was a mile performance from start to finish. The start was made in splendid style. During the mile she went regularly and steadily as clockwork. When the quarter was reached there was a general cry that she would go the first half; she will beat it." From that to the half she seemed to fly, making it in 1:01. The last quarter was the increased her pace a trifle, making it in 1:02½. When she started up the home stretch Alix, with the exception of apparent effort and finished the heat in the fastest time ever made by a trotter. Alix has now dethroned Nancy Hanks' record of 2:04.

Gen. Ezeta in Exile At Central America.

San Francisco: Gen. Antonio Ezeta, the Salvadorean refugee, and his attorneys, Messrs. Rubens and De Quesada, have arrived from Guaymas, Mexico. The consolidation of all central America with Mexico is being considered. The object of the new combination is to raise an army there and proceed at once to oust his enemies. Whether it is to be a filibustering trip to Salvador only, or to effect a union of some sort, of which he has long dreamed, is not known, but there is little doubt that it is one or the other.

A Canal From Lake Michigan to Toledo.

Lockport engineers have just completed a trip up the Illinois river and its branches through Michigan and Indiana in the interests of Toledo capitalists to build a canal to that city. DEADLY TORNADO.

NEARLY 100 PEOPLE KILLED BY A CYCLONE.

Minnesota Town Almost Totally Destroyed by a Heavy Storm Which Carried Death and Destruction to Several Towns—500 Rigs to Attack Pekin.

St. Paul: A narrow strip of country 200 miles long was laid waste by a hurricane which was in reality a cyclone, equal in a regular cyclone. In the path of the "twister" are seven towns, devastated farms and several hundred dead and injured people. Starting about ten miles south of Spencer, in northwestern Iowa, the storm swept across the state just north of Emmetsburg and in Algona, wiping out the little town of Cylinder and damaging Hurt, Britt, Forest City and Manly. After passing by Manly the path and ruining the country northwest of Osage, it bore off to the northeast crossing the Minnesota line, and wrecked the little town of Leroy, where a bad fire added to the destruction. Spring Valley was right in the path of the cyclone and suffered severely. The little towns of Homer and Lewiston were badly damaged. After crossing the Mississippi and doing considerable damage to farm buildings in Winona county, the storm seemed to have spent its force. A smaller storm did some damage at Minneiska, which was not in the path of the main cyclone.

The path of the storm was not wide, but it had all the characteristics of the deadly tornado and the ordinary cyclone. Just how many lives have been lost will never be known. In Mason City reports 14 dead in that vicinity; Britt, 19; Algona, 26; Osage, 5. Minnesota Spring Valley and vicinity report 5 dead, and Leroy, 3. This does not include the fatally injured, and it is believed that other fatalities will be reported in the more remote country districts.

Although the storm's path was narrow it is estimated that $500,000 damage was incurred to property.

$1,500,000 AND THREE LIVES

Was the Loss Inflicted Upon Portland, Oregon, by Hungry Flames.

The most disastrous fire in the history of Portland, Ore., broke out in the dock of the Pacific Coast Elevator company, and swept for three hours, destroying property valued at nearly $1,500,000. The scene of the fire was directly on the water front in the north end of the city, and it was at least 1 o'clock before more than one engine could reach the point of alarm. When the engines arrived the fire was beyond control, and in half an hour from the time it started the docks for half a mile were on fire. Nothing could be done but to let the fire burn itself out. The large steamboat, Willamette Chief, was burned, and the Shaver was used as a towboat and was valued at $15,000.

The dispatch from Berlin to the Standard says it is stated that the Japanese army, which is to march to Pekin, will be accompanied by the Japanese squadron in the mouth of the Pei Ho river. The army and fleet will remain in constant touch.

A CANAL BOAT OUTING.

FOR WARD, AND THE BOAT WAS FAST ASHORE, TOO.

How Four Clerks Fared for Under Sixty Dollars They Spent a Month in Canal Boating—Fried Fish, Bacon and Eggs Were Their Diet.

One good result hard times has brought about, and that is the introduction of health into American households, and many of our young bachelors who once regarded saving as a synonym for meanness, by now exercising their frugality by making two short ends meet. For several years past four young bookkeepers have been accustomed to take their vacation together, and have spent their short but merry weeks at Atlantic City. This was plainly impracticable this year, says the Philadelphia Times.

One of the party had been at Bordentown a few weeks before and come back full of a plan that seemed feasible for an outing that would be novel and not costly. Captain Mose Hemsher of the Golden Hart, had in many words, "got tired of sailing on the Raritan canal for his wittles and close," and so beached his boat in a sheltered nook on the Delaware river, a little above Bordentown, and in company with his wife and family, Joshuway, kept house, and here the captain was approached, and at once made a bargain to rent his boat and cabin for the month of August for the sum of $15. Our quartette took possession and laid in stores, three bushels of potatoes, fifteen pounds of bacon, sugar, tea, coffee, hard tack and flour.

The situation was a lovely one; a sandy beach and chestnut overshadowed the boat, which was dry as a bottle, the cabin was roughly furnished, and held six bunks.

And now vacation began in earnest. Bathing, of course, hung in the hole, which was as clean as a whistle; wash could make it, and pipe in mouth everyone took his ease.

Next morning the volunteer cook realized his error. All the rest developed a remarkable fastidiousness in taste. The man who took tea and coffee to enjoy character of his beverage and the coffee drinkers made remarks that were not complitments. At last Boston, with an air of cold reserve, took hold of the pot, put in, a bulkhead has been added and a screened cupboard in the rear of the cabin, which averages 3½ daily, and a fine meal will be taken to make both ends meet after all necessary articles for running the kitchen have been procured. Most of the cooking is now done in the cellar, and a platform erected on the roof has been
