If you would move mountains grab a spade and go to work.

Fortunate is the man whose errors are sufficiently ludicrous to pass current as jokes.

Harriet Beecher Stowe is the only woman who is not afraid to mention her age. Harriet is 83.

The downfall of the whisky trust is causing much joy all over the land. May all the others go the same way.

The first fatal parachute drop of the season occurred at Marcellus, Mich., and Fred Pate, of Battle Creek, was the victim.

That "Quick Marry" club at the University of Michigan was organized by young men, but it does not follow that the idea originated with members of that sex.

A Nebraska tornado struck a mule and blew it thirty rods before discovering that it was fooling with a dangerous animal. Both luckily escaped without injury.

The Richmond Times encourages the idea of a change of name for New York. It says the city is getting bad enough to need another alias. This view of the matter is entitled to respectful consideration.

A popular subscription of five cents to be contributed by every person who sympathizes with Laidlaw in his effort to wring that $40,000 out of Russell Sage would enable him to keep up his legal fight and eventually win.

And now there is trouble at Superior, Wis. Only a few weeks ago Rev. C. S. Stark weather, an Episcopal clergyman was chosen mayor of that city, and much in the way of reform was quite naturally expected of him. But now it is claimed that the mayor has granted the saloon keepers and gamblers certain concessions that are not in accord with the views of people who do not even claim to be reformers. A full investigation is to follow.

In England an oak sprang up and grew through the hole of a millstone. It filled the opening and lifted it with its growth. The question arises, will the oak split the tree, or will the tree burst the stone? Finally, with a noise like that of a gun, the stone was shattered and some of the pieces were thrown one hundred yards. An acorn is more than a match for a millstone, and a mustard seed can move a mountain. Faith is a vital force, "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

Public cycles propelled by two men and capable of accommodating two passengers are reported to be traversing the streets of London. Should this mode of getting about become widespread and popular, the question arises, What will the poor passenger do in case of an overcharge? He usually has some difficulty in getting off with both purse and life when toted about by one man and a horse; he will doubtless walk rather than cope with two men.

Governor Matthews of Indiana is having a hard fight with the gamblers who run the race track at Roby. They have for the time being beaten him in his efforts to close the track by securing an injunction, but he declares that he will have all the pool sellers arrested for gambling. Matthews is a hard fighter and he will win in the end. The Roby race track, which is near the Illinois line, has been an eye-sore to Indians for some time and could recently the governor has made the pace hot for them, but the owners of the track have secured an injunction from a judge, and acting upon this will seek to carry on their unlawful business. There is no doubt that Governor Matthews has the sentiment of the state with him, and he will never let go until he has fought the Roby gamblers to a finish.

The postmaster of Radford, a little town in Virginia, complains that "this money order trade has been busted" by a man who has opened a "Bee Hive" store in town, and advertises liberally. People who formerly bought money orders to send to the Philadelphia and New York department stores now patronize the home store. If the owners of small stores in Illinois will be as enterprising in the way of advertising as is the "Bee Hive" man of Radford, they will not need legislative enactments to enable them to keep in business. Of course, the big stores have many advantages, but the greatest advantage they have is the possession of sufficient nerve to advertise liberally and sufficient hustle to keep pace with their ads. A little hustle and the liberal use of printers' ink in the country districts will effectually bar competition small town merchant to hold his own against all comers.

The new woman at Bryn Mawr College is responsible for the latest and best joke about the Delaware peach crop. In Delaware, they say at Bryn Mawr, the people eat what peaches they can and can what peaches they can't. The new woman who is capable of that kind of thing will make her way.

A "tall man with a blonde mustache" is going about Central Illinois claiming to be John the Baptist. He is doubtless an impostor. He doesn't answer the authorized description of John the Baptist in any particular.

Doss Mr. Brockway of Youngstown, O., who has vowed never to deal with Chicago merchants again on account of the erection of that monument to the Confederate dead, realize the misery and distress his hasty act may bring upon thousands of innocent persons?

There is nothing like thoroughness. A farmer near Moline, Ill., made up his mind one day last week to commit suicide. He shot himself four times in the head, cut his throat with a razor, and tumbled himself into a well. He succeeded.

The New York Mercury wants Chicago "to stop blowing about having 25,000 more children in school than New York until New York builds schoolhouses for those children who cannot now be accommodated." But will New York build the schoolhouses?

The chances are that Cincinnati will be the cleanest city of the Union. The women have organized "a street-cleaning brigade." A woman knows how a broom should be used.

NEWS OF THE HAPPENINGS IN MICHIGAN.

Farmers About Sturgis Warn a Family to Cease Their Devilish Deeds—Attorney-General Elucidates a Point in the Labor Law—Fire at Croswell.

Crop Report for July.

The Michigan crop report for July says: The estimate as given in the yield of bushels of wheat per acre for the state, 9.85 bu.; southern counties, 9.14 bu.; central, 9.46 bu.; northern, 11.82 bu.; upper peninsula, 14 bu. The estimate for the state is the lowest ever made in July. The light yield is mainly because of the drouth that has prevailed all the season and still continues, yet other causes have helped to injure. The number of bushels of wheat reported marketed in June is 527,414, as compared with 1,004,000 reported in June, 1894. The acreage of corn is slightly in excess of and the condition is the same as the average. Oats are estimated at 91 per cent of an average crop. The acreage of potatoes is 6 per cent in excess of average and promises 86 per cent of an average crop. Corn and potatoes seem to have stood the drouth remarkably well and with abundant rain now would yield fairly well. Meadows and pastures were promptly never in poorer condition at this date and the spring seeding to clover is nearly all lost. The outlook for apples and peaches is not very encouraging.

Since then witnesses in the case have been threatened by the receipt of letters and one of the witness was shot at, the bullet passing through his hat. The regulators met in full force and resolved to visit every depredation and letters were not stopped, they would take them. Then they went to Rommel's house and read the resolutions to the family. A fully 100 men composed the committee.

A Clear Opinion on the Child Labor Law.

Attorney-General Maynard has given Labor Commissioner Morse an opinion that proprietors of factories will be subject to the penalty prescribed for the violation of the law prohibiting the employment of children under 14 years of age, even though they do not personally employ such juveniles or authorize such employment, should the work is done on their premises. For instance, is the proprietors let a contract for doing work in the factory by the piece, they are amenable to the law if the contractor employs children under the specified age to do the work. The proprietors cannot escape the penalty by delegating the employment of children to others.

THE NEW GIRL.

President Cleveland Would Have Preferred a Boy, but is Happy Just the Same.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass. reached the village that a girl baby had been born at Gray Gables. This report was soon verified by Dr. Bryant, who announced the glad news. It occurred at 4.30 o'clock p. m., and that both mother and little one were doing as well as could be expected. This is the third child to be born into President Cleveland's family, and all of them are boys. The two eldest are Esther and Richard. The new baby had been expected by the summer resident cottagers for some days, and Mrs. Cleveland herself had given no suggestion of it, and had been seen on the drives, about the village almost daily until a week before. The only regret is that the new comer is not a boy. People in this neighborhood declare that it was also Mrs. Cleveland's greatest desire his child be a boy.

DONTS FOR BATHERS.

Don't set yourself up as a model of grace and skill. Pride goeth before a fall.

Don't forget to keep your eyes open under water. You will see lots of funny things.

Don't go too far out. Life-savers often constitute themselves "cool-killers" indirectly.

Don't exasperate a big man who can't swim well. You will meet him on shore later.

Don't imagine that everybody admires your "style" as much as you admire it yourself.

Don't talk about drowning accidents as if you could have prevented them if you were there.

Don't laugh at the fat man—he can stay in longer, and, perhaps, swim further than you can.

Don't have your tintype taken in a set bathing suit unless you want your self-esteem shaken.

Don't get too fond of swimming backward. Leg flips are usually harder on that most men's skulls.

Don't scream and yell, for if you do you will help nobody would think you were in earnest.

Don't go swimming off the dock's end. Don't unless you want your feet "caught" and drowned.

Don't neglect the first water shower bath of the spring. Dozens of colds are sometimes expensive.

Don't dive "straight" unless you are sure of the depth. Many a man has come to the surface with a sore head.

Don't talk on the beach too long before bathing. Many a man has caught his death of cold while lying in the sun.

Don't leave a bathing suit made in the states shown in the flash illustrated papers. The pillow will need your attention if you do, appear in one of them.
