THE GREAT STRIKE OF 1877.

A Desperate and Bloody Fight on the Railroad Systems.

The most desperate and extensive strike that had yet occurred in this country was that of 1877 by the employes of the principal railway trunk lines—the Baltimore and Ohio, the Pennsylvania, the Erie, the New York Central and their Western prolongations. At a preconcerted time junctions and other main points were seized. Freight traffic on the roads named was entirely suspended and the passenger and mail service greatly impeded. When new employes sought to work militia had to be called out to preserve order. Baltimore and Pittsburg were each the scene of a bloody riot. At the latter place, where the mob was immense and most furious, the militia were overcome and besieged in a round house, which it was then attempted to burn by lighting oil cars and pushing them against it. Fortunately, the stance gave way without bloodshed. The torch was applied freely and with dreadful effect. Machine shops, warehouses and two thousand freight cars were pillaged or burned. Men, women and children fell to thieving, carrying off all sorts of goods—bird shops, parasols, coffee mills, whips and gas stoves. The police feared seven great trains fell of clothes in one house; eleven barrels of flour in another. It is said that a wagon load of sewing machines was sold out of a store; the machines brought from ten cents to $1 apiece. The loss of property was estimated at $10,000,000. In disturbances at Chicago nineteen were killed, at Baltimore nine, at Reading thirteen, and three as many wounded. One hundred thousand laborers are believed to have taken part in the movement, and at one time or another 6,000 or 7,000 miles of road were in their power.

"GOODS MUST GO."

How a Buffalo Man Interpreted a Selling-Out Sign.

A man wearing a last year's straw hat and having a generally faded appearance entered a popular Niagara store yesterday, and, after looking around a few minutes, picked up a number of things from the counter and started to walk off with them.

"Do you wish to buy those articles?" politely asked the clerk, intercepting him.

"Certainly not," replied the other. "Why should I buy them?"

"Then please put them back on the counter," said the clerk, sternly.

"Well, I guess not. Young man, I was invited by the proprietor of this place to come in here and carry these things away."

"Were you, indeed? Then perhaps you have some letter from him directing me to let you have them."

"Letter nothin'. I don't need no letter. The invitation is a public one, and hands right out here in front on your store. What does that sign say? 'These goods must go regardless of cost. Come in and take them.' Well, that's what I'm doin'. I'm takin' them regardless of cost."—Buffalo Express.

Gay Jackets of Fish Skin.

The eskimos of Alaska make jackets of the skin of the red-spotted trout of that region, known as the Dolly Varden, which they tan for this purpose. The Dolly Varden is a handsome fish of a pale purplish gray color; it attains a length of two and a half feet and a weight of ten or twelve pounds. The skin is waterproof, and with its bright red spots makes a very showy jacket.

Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked from ten to fifteen cigars regularly every day. Your remedy, Baco-Cure, has benefited, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being, at least. I tried the sample you sent me, and found it a Godsend. Baco-Cure "Is the Real Thing" in every respect, and I can cheerfully say that it has entirely banished my desire for tobacco in any form. My whole system is toned up and built up wonderfully since I quit using tobacco, and I have not had a headache since I commenced using Baco-Cure. Before, I was troubled with indigestion, which shall mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Oakland, in Liber 1110 of mortgages on pages 401, 402 and 403, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due, and whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of eight hundred and 98-100 dollars of principal and interest, and the sum of one hundred thousand dollars as an attorney fee allowed by law and stipulated in said mortgage, making a total due of the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale in said mortgage has become operative. Therefore, notice is hereby given, by by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such cases provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the east front door of the Court House in the City of Pontiac, in said County, on said day of October, A. D. 1895, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day. The premises described in said mortgage substantially as follows:

Lot numbered seven (7) of Blakeslee's addition to the village of Birmingham, according to the recorded plat thereof, as surveyed May 1803, 1873, and recorded in the Register's office for Oakland County, Michigan.

Dated, July 2, 1895.
