FROM THE FAR WEST.

C. I. Johnson's Trip from Detroit to Spokane via San Francisco. Spokane, Wash., Aug. 2, 1907. On July 21st at 12:45 p. m. boarding the Wabash train I started for the far west... We crossed the Mississippi river into Iowa. Here we crossed through cornfields, the corn being ahead of Michigan corn. We were run to Grand Junction where we were switched off with the promise of taking the next train. The next train which came along in about half an hour would not let us on until we waited another hour for a second train with a live route. After waiting until morning we caught a train which carried us to Council Bluffs where we crossed the dark muddy waters of the Missouri into Nebraska at Omaha. At Omaha we took the Union Pacific. By the way, here I dropped in with two men from Wisconsin who were with me for several days. We rose all day until midnight in Nebraska. All corn, corn and corn. The first sight of corn I ever saw. At about 12 p. m. we arrived at Julesburg five miles into Colorado. Here we stopped till morning, then pulled out for Denver. A good share of it, however, has been irrigated to raise crops. We ran for miles along the North Platte river which for the most part is nearly full of yellow water. It is 570 feet above the sea level. Occasionally, however, it widens out, here a body of water. Further up the water is almost all used for irrigation purposes, leaving the stream nearly dry. Arrived at Denver a fine city situated at or near the base of the mountains. The Capitol building, situated on an eminence, is a fine structure built of marble all quarried in the state. From the north Julesburg five miles into Colorado. Here we saw a snow storm on the mountains from the base of the Capitol. It looked fine to see a snow storm on the top of July. Denver has many fine business houses and it is called the Queen City of the West. It is 5770 feet above the sea level. Streets are long, wide and shaded with fine trees. From here there is an unbroken view of the Rocky Mountains to the west and a view of Long's Peak on the north to the summit of Piz's Peak on the south. Staid two days in Denver after which we took the train for Colorado Springs and Pueblo and thence to Leadville. Leadville among the clouds is 10,185 feet above the sea level. Snow four inches deep here on the 4th of July. The water in the mountain camps in the world is the largest electric lights, fine business blocks and residences. Salt Lake City was the next point of interest. It is 7400 feet from Denver. Two days were spent in viewing the city laid out by Brigham Young. Wide streets crossing each other at right angles with a system of running water on each side. The only city in the United States with running water in its streets. Population 60,000. About 30,000 Mormons, and they seem to be a happy people. Their religion is before based on the Mormon Temple is an immense structure built of marble quarried in the state at right angles with a system of running water on each side. The only city in the world with running water in its streets. Capacity of 14,000, is a fine office to construct that your correspondent standing in the city and could not hear parishes whisper in the ether and the sound of the Klondike (r) and will not return without bringing an armful of gold with him. Said armful weighs about 10 lbs., oh Willie?

THE STAGE. AT THE EMPHIRE. The twelfth performance of James A. Herold's "Shore Acres" in Detroit was given Monday evening at the Empire. Mr. Herold again acted the part of good old Nathaniel Berry, and familiar faces were seen in most of the characters. Mr. Herold has given us a play on novel lines. It is a theatrical in dialogue and form, quiet in treatment, devoid of vociferous climaxes and quick curtains, and as far removed from the fever and fret of conventional melodrama as it is possible for a dramatic play to be. The local audience was very appreciative of the play, and the management of the play upon the stage, the scenery, the effect of light and shadow is cleverly done. It thrilled the audience, and was well received by the press. Next week - The H. W. Williams' Co. one of the best vaudeville attractions traveling this season, will be the bill the coming week. This company is composed of only star performers, and unusual care has been shown by the management in selecting art that will not only please the public but be instructive as well.

COUNTY LINE CULLINGS. A good deal of wheat sowed last week. John Redick, of Eraston, is visiting relatives at Warren. A Babcock entertained company from Windsor last Sunday. Mr. Danby has laid a lot of good sidewalk the past week for Warren. The Warren brick yard has furnished a lot of brick for the Masonic Hall at Pontiac. Joe Baumgartner sold 130 worth of potatoes to C. Cliff. They were raised on M. Hall's place. Mr. Pallister has a fine lot of lambs for feeding this winter. A number of them would weigh 15s and over. Win. Woodruff will make a good thing of his feeding. Antioneur Blunt, wife and baby are visiting relatives at Fort Hope the past few days. Our worthy autoist took a run with him. We shall probably hear some yarns on his return which will equal his clever seed story.

State Sunday School Convention. The attention of all persons connected with or interested in Sunday School work is called to the fact that the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Michigan State S. S. Association will be held at Port Huron, November 16, 17 and 18. This gathering being international and interdenominational in its spirit and aims, and withal spiritual, edifying educative in its methods, we can confidently commend it to the general patronage of the public. The sessions will be held in the new and magnificent auditorium now approaching completion. The program already adopted will be eminently practical and helpful and ably sustained from outside the State by Alfred Day, general Secretary of the Provincial Association; Mrs. J. W. Barnes, of New Jersey, a primary worker of national renown, and E. O. Excell, of Chicago, who will conduct the song services. The Michigan R. R. Association has granted a rate of one fare for the round trip from all points in Michigan. Dates for the sale of tickets Nov. 15 and 16. Return limit 19th. Entertainment so far as lodging and breakfast is concerned will be provided by the people at Port Huron. Dinners and supper at 20 and 25 cts. [Programs in full with further details will be supplied to the schools and workers soon.] J. M. Davis, Kalamazoo, Pres. Assn. E. A. Hough, Jackson, Chairman Ex. Com.
