Christmas Shopping

Two miles right up the gulch. That's "Poor Man's Gulch," the one remaining with its reputation to the "Man's Gulch." This now is China town, come in and shake hands with Ah Sin. He's the same heathen who couldn't play cards, but his bank account today is about six figures and he's high money making him a town and now lets go see High Monk and his old stage—the same. That is his old stage and he's in a building and he's got a lot of that and several other relics. He has five six miles all set up, skinned and stuffed—natural and set in his life.

J. ALLEN BIGELOW

Tells More of His Interesting Western Stories. Detroit, S. D., Sept. 1897.

Dear Mr. Howell: Last night I was up this morning and said, "Let's get in our old clothes, get a bush of wood and I'll go to Homestead Mine and visit today." So here we are at Homestead Mine. It's a swell one. Mort is staking his with a solid iron looking man. Carson, this is my father from Michigan, and in 30 minutes we were well acquainted. He was a Mr. Carson, well known. He was a Mort's father. He told me he had a father who was a Michigan, didn't believe it though. I had a daddy once, the best of Mr. Carson he used to go around and make horses—didn't realize it, tho'. He was an old stock rider would stay at home and work around the ranch. He'd rather take his gun and go off all alone and would be up in front of a band of Indians, skip out among the hills and draw and crows. Mother used to argue with him, but no use, he would look at her with those great blue eyes, take her in his arms and say, "There, there, Pa, I just get, anyway, and can't stay. He was a big different from his father, except he was very stern in his family, except with mother, and you know that's apt to be the case. I'll be sure to see you on a morning if he ever caught me in the or a saloon."

Suits for Boys

If you can think of any kind of a suit for your boy at a fair and reasonable price we are prepared to fill you order from the largest and complete stock of new goods in the city of Detroit. We are particular to handle nothing but all wool clothing. We do not sell shoddes at any price. If you want the best for the least cost you will consult your interest by trying us before going elsewhere. Our suits for boys run from $2.00 upwards. But we can refer and ulsters that we expect more strikingly than of any other distinct kind. We have them as low as $3, but our blue chinchilla refer for boys 3 to 17 years of age at $5 is probably the greatest value you ever saw in a garment. Thousands of boys here in Detroit are wearing them and we are continuously pressed to keep our stock complete, but we do it. Send in the boy's measure and $3 with an order for one of these splendid referers.

MORTUARY.

Daniel Stewart Died At His Home in Detroit Sunday.

Daniel Stewart, aged 71, one of the best known grain men in Michigan, died at his residence, 1367 Grand street, west, shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday. He was a native of Scotland. Mr. Stewart attempted to pare corn on the ball of his left foot about four weeks ago and cut his foot. The cut became very sore, and for the past three weeks he has been compelled to remain at home. About two weeks ago pneumonia set in, and although everything known to medical science was done for the sufferer he passed away. All the members of the Sons of the United States were present when death came. The funeral was held in Argyleshire, Scotland, Sept. 22, 1897, and was very impressive. He engaged his services to the Michigan Central, taking charge of this capacity for several years and then purchased a farm in Oakland county, which is now the noted Watkins stock farm, and went to live there. In 1877 Mr. Stewart again moved to Detroit, and engaged in the grain commission business for himself at 312 and 314 River street, where he continued to work on, after which he died at his home, 1367 Grand street, on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1897. Mr. Stewart took his two sons into partnership with him, and carried on the business under the firm name of Daniel Stewart & Sons. Subsequently one of the sons withdrew and went into the same business for himself in Chicago.

Death of A. W. Hovey.

Augustus W. Hovey died Monday night of heart failure, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Stephen Baldwin, on Madison street. Mr. Hovey was born in London, N. Y., in 1817. For nearly 40 years he was in the newspaper business as printer, editor or publisher. He came to Detroit in 1857, removed to Pontiac and became editor of the Herald.
