

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE

Prof. R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Hartsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed.

From the Republican, Columbia, Ind.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, the late instructor of natural science in the famous Hartsville, Ind., College, is well and favorably known not only as an educator, but as a sufferer of the gospel, as for a number of years he was pastor of the United Brethren church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Hartsville.

Some time ago he had a severe illness which was cured almost miraculously. A reporter hearing of this, called on him regarding his experience. Prof. Bowman said in the midst of the worst of his illness he was called, but he cheerfully gave him his experience.

SISTER ELIZABETH

Nothing is more mortifying to a person, appearing as an accident, as a maiden lady in a lady-like dress, than to be called a sister. It is a name that others begin to think her too old for the society of young people.

Several other invitations were sent as of yore to Miss Whittaker, and she was fast forgetting that it was an old friend who was calling. She had overheard the evasions and ill-natured remark, "Just see that Elizabeth Whittaker. What youthful air she does put on!"

How those words rang in my ears long after the moon and stars were shut out, and I was alone in my own room. How I catechized myself, and tried to reason with my feelings. Yes, I had been ever trying to look young, and had approved of my own efforts as a matter of course.

How my heart yearned over that favorite sister of mine, who was now lying in the arms of death, and how I wished I could have been there to see her last moments.

My own mother I cannot remember she dropped and faded when I was an infant, and my grandmother, who was not one to call out the ardent affection, which but few had power to bestow, she had bestowed on her.

I thought of all this as I watched her form on that June morning, and realized how I had been a second time orphaned when her mother was taken from us fifteen years ago.

Little, who was five years her senior, had always been a self-reliant woman, and I could never regard her as needing that loving watchfulness that our younger sister seemed to bestow on her.

These reflections made me more calm and contented, and I could not help smiling at the memory of the time when they first met in the evening.

"Oh, Elizabeth," said Corbie, "Do you know we saw an old friend of yours. And he is coming to call on you today."

"An old friend of mine?" I queried. "Yes," said Corbie, "Mr. Loftus, he is visiting at the hotel, and has just returned from a long foreign tour."

WISE ADVICE TO HUSBANDS

Those Who Have Alling Wives Will do Well to Accept It. Do not wrangle and quarrel, and finally run to the courts and try to get a separation from your faithful wife; but just stop a moment and think! Your wife, who was even-tempered and amiable, and all that was lovely when you married her, has changed. Now she is peevish, irritable, jealous, discontented and miserable—in a word, she has become a disorder of some kind.

How is not the remedy for this condition, she needs medical treatment. Her entire system is in fact out of order. My advice to you, sit down and write a letter to that friend of yours, Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., and state fully and freely the whole case to her and she will kindly advise you what to do. Give your wife that chance, good man!

Compound and found it to be of great benefit to me. The doctors said I had womb trouble. I had the headache all the time, also a terrible backache, was nervous, cross and irritable. I looked so pale that people would ask me what was the matter with me. I had been married for about four years, until one day about in despair my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I commenced its use, and much to every one's surprise, it cured me. It has completely changed my disposition for the better also. Several of my neighbors, who had been suffering from the same ailment, are taking it, and are much pleased with the result.

The Man who is Raising a Big Crop

Realizes that the harvest time is ahead. Ideal farming comprehends not only the growing of the tallest grain—the best for the best farming that pays. It comprehends something more than this for it is a harvest time, and just in proportion a crop is saved successfully, speedily and economically, in just that proportion may be measured the season's profit.

McORMICK

Harvesting Machines are the profit-bringing kind; they are built for long wear, hard work, light draft, and in short, to satisfy. There are other kinds that do not do as much, but there's nothing cheaper than the best.
