

Tommy O'Dowd's Christmas.

He sh a d o w s of Christmas eve were falling over the city as George O'Dowd...

He sh a d o w s of Christmas eve were falling over the city as George O'Dowd...

The Little Fellow Sat Up Right.

Tommy, ye amouhon, you, get the sitchman a chair.

It was 11:30 when Tommy arrived at home and greeted his wife.

Freddie!—I want a watch for Christmas.

"Well, I remember his having done so last week before Bob Luke disappeared," said Jack.

With him to the engraving office and then Ill go home with you.

"Dear Molly: Detained down town by important business. Will be home at 11 o'clock."

"So that's you, little scamp! Sure you had the heart of me ar bruk."

Tommy, ye amouhon, you, get the sitchman a chair.

"I hope you will excuse me, Mrs. O'Dowd," said Tommy.

In such general converse the time passed, until Tommy and his wife were tucked away for the night.

"Well, I remember his having done so last week before Bob Luke disappeared," said Jack.

"Yes," replied Sullivan. "I remember quite well the dog with him."

"Well, I remember his having done so last week before Bob Luke disappeared," said Jack.

A FELON'S LOVE.

BY HENRY W. NESFIELD.

CHAPTER XVII. He there could be no doubt but that ample supply of water was to be found.

CHAPTER XVIII. Jack Hall claimed that right, and looked to the charge of the troopers.

CHAPTER XIX. It was, as he surmised, no native encampment. There was a chimney at one end of it.

CHAPTER XX. Presently he heard voices. Then a woman came out towards the gully.

CHAPTER XXI. "There can be no doubt about it—they are there," he said.

CHAPTER XXII. A gentleman relates to the Farmers' Review a story of the destructive work done by a pet bantam.

CHAPTER XXIII. From Farmers' Review: Cold win's remind us that cold winter on the south side was ready for the roof.

CHAPTER XXIV. The most active volcano in the world is Mount Sangay, 17,190 feet high.

INTERESTING CHAPTERS FOR OUR RURAL READERS.

CHAPTER XXV. At a new feeding-farmers in Tasmania, G. L. Barrow said: "The work required to build up the stock of hay they will last a long time."

CHAPTER XXVI. In an experiment carried on by the Minnesota Experiment Station the following conclusions seemed to be warranted:

CHAPTER XXVII. Tuberculin by hypodermic injection is as accurate a diagnostic agent for bovine tuberculosis as is tuberculous sputum.

CHAPTER XXVIII. Tuberculin by hypodermic injection is as accurate a diagnostic agent for bovine tuberculosis as is tuberculous sputum.

CHAPTER XXIX. Tuberculin by hypodermic injection is as accurate a diagnostic agent for bovine tuberculosis as is tuberculous sputum.

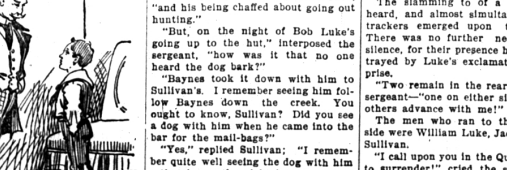

CHAPTER XXX. Tuberculin by hypodermic injection is as accurate a diagnostic agent for bovine tuberculosis as is tuberculous sputum.

CHAPTER XXXI. Tuberculin by hypodermic injection is as accurate a diagnostic agent for bovine tuberculosis as is tuberculous sputum.

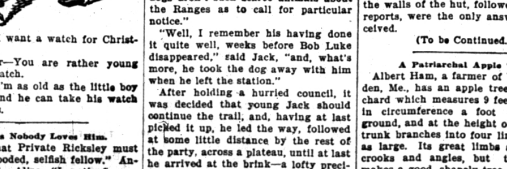

CHAPTER XXXII. Tuberculin by hypodermic injection is as accurate a diagnostic agent for bovine tuberculosis as is tuberculous sputum.

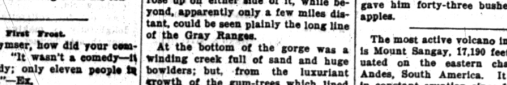

SAY, MISTER, LIP ME UP.

Don't let it.

Freddie!—I want a watch for Christmas.

Freddie!—I want a watch for Christmas.