Could Not Eat without Pain.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from a severe case of dyspepsia. I could not eat without great pain in my stomach and would be sick and vomit up what I did eat. One day I read of a case cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I told my husband I believed this medicine would help me. He went right away and got a bottle, of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took four bottles and I was cured." MRS. ALLEN RIVERS, Wakanda, Illinois.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has improved its freight facilities in Philadelphia very materially during the past year. A new pier, No. 22 South, which was completed in December, 557 feet long and 140 feet wide, and is said to be one of the finest in the city. Vessels of the deepest draught can tie up on both sides of the pier, thereby affording every facility for the prompt handling of freight. The pier and sheds are lighted by the improved incandescent lights, and well paved driveways have been provided.

This improvement enables the B. and O. to handle about three times as much business as formerly. The different freight yards throughout the city have been improved by the laying of additional tracks, and arrangements have been made with the Pennsylvania Warehousing and Safe Deposit Company by which the B. and O. handles grain, flour, hay, straw, canned goods and other merchandise through their warehouses and elevators.

GOV. PINGREE'S MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE.

Accuses Railroads of Evading Taxation and Says the Legislature Helped 'Em do It After Giving Them Big Land Grants—After Other Corporations, too.

The special session of the state legislature opened promptly at 12 o'clock in both houses with nearly all of the officers present except Edgar Storm, Oberdorffer, Peck, Tefft, Vought and Williams, Colvin came in later. All of the Senators were present at roll-call, except Covell. In the House Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Wm. Stocking was chosen to fill the vacancy of Sergeant-at-Arms Gibson. All of the Representatives were in their places except Edgar, Storm, Oberdorffer, Peck, Tefft, Vought and Williams. Colvin came in later. All of the Senators were present at roll-call, except Covell. In the House Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Wm. Stocking was chosen to fill the vacancy. Three stenographers, representing the governor, were granted space on the floor of the House, just in front of the clerk's desk.

The two Houses met in joint session and heard the reading of the governor's message with close attention.

Gov. Pingree's message to the joint session of the state legislature assembled in extra session, first quoted the governor's call for the extra session, and then continues, in substance, as follows:

You are called upon to consider the question of taxing railroad companies, express companies, telephone companies and telegraph companies, and for the consideration of this question only an extraordinary one. The inequality of our system of taxation as applied to railroads has not been permitted to continue for another year. We have therefore called you together in order that such inequalities may be remedied by proper legislation. I regret the inconvenience and expense which such action has entailed upon you, but I deemed it the most practical way of obtaining the relief which the people of this state are entitled. When convened in extra session the legislature is obliged to confine its action to the matter specially and deliberate consideration which it is intended that it shall consider, and for which it is convened.

No one can read the constitution of Michigan without coming to the conclusion that its framers intended that all property should be taxed, and that the taxes should be based upon the cash value of the property. While it permits the legislature to provide for the collection of specific taxes under the head as they then existed, it does not collect specific taxes from corporations thereafter to be organized. It expressly requires that all corporations hereafter authorized shall be liable to specific taxation, and that the constitution applies as well to special and to general laws. Its continued violation since 1851 has led to many evils. All property, real and personal, should be taxed
