Lord Charles Bereaford wa a Boy.
Lord Charles Bereaford, who would be hard to beat for popularity in the British may, had a favorite hobby as a boy, which was in a way prophetic of his future calling. This hobby or pastime was that of modeling boats, and he was exceedingly skillful in this on whom he had some special affection.

Quite a number of them are in existence. "I would give anything to get one of them back," he remarked one day, "as a reminiscence of my schooloby days. I offered one old friend 50 pounds for a little model, which certainly was not worth five shillings. But neither he nosole myself with the thought that my little
