Some people can barter if they can't be president.

A gem of thought is often impaired by a bad pencil.

The lead pencil is sometimes hard pushed to make re-marks.

The way of the transgressor is oftentimes the shortest route to Canada.

After suspicion is once directed toward a man it is difficult to side-track it.

A bachelor may have no real happiness, but he escapes a bit of real misery.

The man who always says exactly what he means is more numerous than popular.

When a woman has troubles confide in a physician. When a man has troubles he consults a lawyer.

There are times when the average boy would like to assume the role of a man for a few brief moments.

INDIANS USED IT FOR ONE DAY AS A JAUNTING CAR

Carried Many a Red Skin "Him"—And After the Origin Was Over—Was Sold to the Cheyenne for one Bottle of Whisky—"Good Old Days."

(Special Letter.)

When Cheyenne was a much smaller place than it is now, in fact, it was so small that one had always to speak of the place as Cheyenne City. It was characterized by a familiarity with the Indians which the town would now blush to own. Much of the time the warriors of the Cheyenne tribe were street loafers, who had to be pushed out of the way if any one was in a hurry, but there were times when the Cheyenne warrior drew his white arrows in cash from the Great White Father, and then he was an object of consideration until he had spent it. There was a man in Philadelphia which looked out of the Washington end of the transaction on the score of philanthropy and Indian rights, and made sure that the Indian got the cash. The citizens of Cheyenne and every other town which had an Indian agent looked after the other being street loafers, who had to be pushed out of the way if any one was in a hurry, but there were times when the Cheyenne warrior drew his white arrows in cash from the Great White Father, and then he was an object of consideration until he had spent it.

EVERY INCH A KING

Kalaaua Was When It Came to Muck Mixing of Drinks.

Here is an episode in the career of the late King Kalaaua, says the San Francisco Record. During one of his visits to this city he was taken to Mare Island on a naval vessel, and the guests on this occasion included a doctor or two army officers, some of whom were young, lively and out for fun. The navy captain and the army officers had a quiet little talk and it was agreed that, as the navy officers had their regular work to do, they could not take a social jaunt after drinks, but the duty of the army officers to see that his majesty was properly cared, and, if possible, laid out on the trip to the island. The fun was not fast and furious in the officers' quarters and the flowing bowl was kept in constant motion until after midnight, when, on every occasion Kalaaua drank to the full limit, accepting—every draught from an army man.

THE HEARSE ON ITS ROUNDS.

Known in Europe centuries before the Christian era, the hearse is not generally known, it has many skillful women practitioners since the third century before Christ and their genius has done much to develop the science of embalming. Agnodice was a woman physician in Europe on record. After restoring her desire she practiced among the women of Athens with extraordinary success. In time, however, her secret leaked out and she was arrested and imprisoned. The women of Athens upon hearing that she was finally released.

SAFE FROM INVASION.

This temple and dwelling of priests, perched high on a crag in the middle of the Yangtze River, China, the little below Hankau, is as safe from intruders as Gibraltar. Earthquakes and floods have no terrors for them, who live serene high above the petty annoyances of daily life endured by the city dwellers, devoting their time to religious duties.
