

THE BIRMINGHAM ECCENTRIC

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR IN ADVANCE
WHITEHEAD & MITCHELL, PUBLISHERS
BIRMINGHAM, FRIDAY, NOV. 4, '32

A FARM JOURNAL

Great Offer

From now to December, 1932, nearly 5 years.

By special arrangement made with the publishers of the Farm Journal, we are enabled to offer this paper to every subscriber who pays for the BIRMINGHAM ECCENTRIC, all arrears, and one year ahead, both papers for the price of one, only our paper one year and the Farm Journal from now to December, 1932, nearly 5 years. The Farm Journal is an old established paper, enjoying great popularity, one of the best and most useful farm papers published.

This offer should be accepted without delay.

To Our Friends.

When trading with any of our advertisers either in Birmingham, Pontiac or Detroit, it will be a great favor to us if you will mention the fact that you noticed their advertisement in this paper. A word from you at the time of trading, costs you nothing and benefits us greatly. Will you be good and do so?

HOME NOTES

WHEN AUTUMN PASSETH BY.

A perfume rare of ripening leaves
The zephyr plumes of blue,
And all the sound of blowing sheaves
Blends with a cricket note,
Each hanging from a corner eave
Breathes the dreamy day,
And all her feet rich fragrance flings,
When autumn passeth by.

Strange memories the spirit bind,
And words a haunting spell,
Word voices echo on the wind
And whisper beauty's kin,
A creature a lovely star
Comes forth to gleam in light,
And sends its quivering light
When autumn passeth by.

The sweetest song that ever flows
Hath songs in its strain;
The keenest joy that mortal knows
Is along with pain,
So life and death combine their art,
They charm the ear and eye,
And lovely paths we learn to start,
When autumn passeth by.

"Mushrooming" is the order of the day.

Science tells us that the difference between the temperature of the air under the branches of a single tree, densely leaved and the surrounding air on a hot day is 20, 30 or even 40 degrees. In winter the reverse is true, yet people refuse the traveler on the street these comforts by refusing to plant trees in front of their homes.

John Pound, the reliable dry goods merchant of Pontiac, needs no introduction to our readers, as he is well known by most of them, but he is among our advertisers again and in every department with the very latest novelties. See his new ad this week and then give him a call at your first opportunity.

Clare Aldrich is in possession of an old-time paper, the name of which is the "Richmond Enquirer," and dated at Richmond, Va., March, 30, 1863. The news of this paper consists mostly of war, which was waged between the north and south at that time. It is a small sheet, being a five-column folio, and very yellow with age.

Lager beer signs were promiscuously posted upon the residences of some of our most prominent prohibitionists by the Hallow'een elfs and liberal contributions of disabled veterans, old signs and a general conglomeration of debris were made to various citizens around town. As yet we have not been informed of any serious depredations being committed.

An exchange says a local merchant asked the other day: "Have you noticed the advertisement I have on the fence out west of town?" "No," replied the customer, "but if you will send the fence around to my house some day I will read it over and see what you are dealing in. Fact is, I'm reading newspapers and don't get much time to study fencology."

A very enjoyable Hallow'een party was given in Library Hall Tuesday evening, by the young ladies of Birmingham. There were about 50 in attendance, including four young gentlemen from Pontiac and two from Detroit. The finance receipts were most encouraging, the refreshments excellent and the occasion was an illustration of the ability of the Birmingham young ladies to entertain.

We would say to our readers who keep poultry that you will undoubtedly receive a call from our townsman, Chas. Hoffman, in the near future, and it will be of benefit to you to give him an order. Mr. Hoffman will introduce the Eureka Poultry Mixture and Lice Killer, which speaks for itself as a useful article of its kind. It is inexpensive and will no doubt find a ready sale, at least we hope so.

WHAT PLEASES THEM.

THE WOMAN.
It pleases her to be told that she is fascinating.
It pleases her to be called a well-dressed woman.
It pleases a woman to be called a sensible little woman.
It pleases her to depend on some man and pretend she is ruling him.
It pleases her to be told that she improves him by her companionship.
It pleases her to be treated courteously and with respect, and to be talked to reasonably.
It pleases her to be treated sensibly and politely, to be considered and questioned and not to be treated as a butterfly, with no head or heart.
It pleases her to be loved and admired by a man who is strong enough to rule and kind enough to make his way her rule, to load her and take care of her.
It pleases her to find happiness in being rated by an intellect that she can look up to admiringly, and one to whom her own mind bows in reverence.

It pleases a man to have a woman love him.
It pleases him to have a woman lead him in the way he wants to go.
It pleases him to have a woman some times treat him as a great big baby, to be carried for a moment in her arms (he doesn't mind being carried).
It pleases him to have a woman thank him great and good and true, and favor him with her attention accordingly.
It pleases him to have a woman's bright eyes, expressing the approbation, approval and admiration he so much craves.
It pleases him to have a woman's hand smooth away the careworn expression and wrinkles from his brow.
It pleases him to have a woman's strength help him over the weak places in life.
It pleases the woman who tries to be in good to have a sweet woman lead him in the way called beautiful. A woman can sink a man to dismal depths, or help him to dizzy heights. Her trowels can press him, her smile lure him.
