Xmas Presents to be Acceptable Should be Useful.

KNOWING

How hard it is for the average individual to select appropriate Xmas presents, we offer ourselves as your advisers in that direction. We firmly believe the statement that the most acceptable present is the one that is most useful. What would be more acceptable to a rady friend than a nice pair of Shoes, House Slippers, or something of a kindred nature? The same thing with reference to a gentleman friend. Nothing could be more acceptable to him than an easy pair of House Slippers. We could go right on enumerating similar examples, but we believe we have established our point.

EDITORS ECCENTRIC:—
The notice "To all concerned," by Thos. Langley, in regard to trespassing chickens has the true ring in it, for, caling to receive protection from the village authorities he has been completed to threaten to use the shot gun to sare his own property, for it is notorious, we have no marshal who will enforce the laws. It is decidedly unpleas and when you have some choice plant that you desire to protect from the right of the property of the ors of winter by mulching or fertilized to have this seratcide dway by your good neighbors' chickens. Why should citizens keep chickens to forage and trespass upon their property, to say nothing of the nuisance, and rely upon their good anture for their own private good and not not come for the foreign with a short general good and the foreign the foreign good and the foreign good and the foreign good and go

THE GIRL! I WANT.

The following pretty little sentimental production is a clipping handed us by Master Jack McDougal, and is, we between a typical description of Some sweet little girl of Jack's acquaintance. Although rather young to be manifesting interest in romance, yet he displays good taste in his selection:

The girl I want has light blue eyes, As calm and clear as summer Ales, As calm and clear as summer Ales, As sparking as the dew;
As sparking as the dew;
As mouth as sweet as been can be, Amouth as sweet as been can be.

The girl I want has ebon hair.

e girl I want can sigh or sing any time, do anything
