DO YOU WANT A FREE HOME?

In the Land of Perpetual Sunshine.

The reader will no doubt wonder how a publishing company can afford to give away town lots. To enlighten you we will merely state that the owner of a large section of land in Palm Springs, Riverside Co., California, has taken this novel method of booming the town, believing that by interesting other persons throughout the country, and practically building up the town on the co-operative system, he will more than double the value of the many town lots which he reserves for himself. It is needless to say that the owner of this land intends to make Palm Springs one of the greatest health resorts in the world, it being 580 feet above the sea level.

The climatic condition and grand scenic surroundings will make this comparatively easy. Palm Springs is an ideal winter resort, possessing peculiar attractions to the tourist and invalid like.

It is conceded by many eminent physicians and prominent persons to be the most perfect natural sanitarium and to have the finest winter climate known. It is picturesquely situated in a sheltered valley, nestling close under the lofty mountain range of San Jacinto, whose ramparts are an impregnable barrier to all moisture laden winds and fogs. There is an abundant supply of pure mountain water for both household and irrigating purposes. The streets are beautifully laid out and shaded with palms and other tropical trees. Oranges, lemons, figs, grapes, apricots, olives and other delicious fruits ripen in Palm Springs fully thirty days earlier than in other parts of California, thus bringing fancy prices in the Los Angeles market. School, church and hotel accommodations first-class.

Not the least of the attractions of Palm Springs is the wonderful mineral hot sand springs, possessing medicinal virtues of the highest order. Here is constantly welling up a clean stream of hot mineral water accompanied by pure sand of about 100 degrees F., and containing magnesium, sodium, iron and sulphur. Rheumatism, kidney and skin diseases yield quickly to regular bathing in these waters.

These lots, 25 feet front each, have been placed with the "Sunshine Publishing Co." with instructions to distribute them to our readers absolutely free. Why not be a real estate owner?

Every person who sends us $2.50 for one year's subscription to "Sunshine" will receive a warranty deed to a town lot in Palm Springs, California, free of charge, with taxes paid until June, 1899.

"Sunshine" is one of the brightest journals published, and will not only contain local news of Palm Springs and vicinity, but will also contain many interesting stories and useful information to every family. We are particularly anxious that not only every resident of Palm Springs, but also every property owner therein, shall read our paper.

A Catamaran.

Having read to her pupils a description of the sinking of the Merrimac the teacher some days later asked for pupils what the word "catamaran" then used meant. These are some of the answers:

A catamaran is a mountain lion.

The catamaran is a savage officer in the Fillipose Islands.

A catamaran carries clubs in a golf game.

The catamaran is the place in Chicago where the Cat Show was held.

The catamaran was a convention hall prize.

The catamaran is the proper name for a catboat and war ram together like the Catadin.

Why Breed Scrub Hogs.

The feed and treatment of sows, writes A. N. Springer in Land and Living, have much to do with the extent of their profitable period. At no time should they have an all corn ration, but it should be supplemented by milk, bran, slop, grass, etc. Corn is the worst feed to give a sow—that is, for a main article of food—but often it is the only thing they get. A sow fed through the winter on corn alone, or with mayhap a bucket of slop occasionally, is not in fit condition for farrowing healthily. Her system is apt to be feverish and the unnatural craving will very likely lead to her devouring her pigs. The pigs, too, are very apt to be a sorry looking lot, and if they live will never give the owner much pleasure, pride or profit. The remedy is to feed plenty of nitrogenous foods. A rye patch makes excellent green pasture for hogs in winter. Lacking this and other grass or root crops, then feed plenty of bran and shorts in slop. A liberal variety is the key to success.

Shotes, too, up to within a month or two of selling time should have a good variety of feed. The last two months the corn should predominate. But it will always pay to give a little variety by way of condiment. The best time to sell hogs is when they are fat, regardless of prices. Some are even now selling half fatted stuff. Ask them why and they say; "The corn is worth more than the hogs." To sell a half-fatted hog is not business unless there is a weightier reason than that of price to be considered. Good shelter for all hogs at this time of year is an imperative necessity. A bunch of hogs sleeping in the farm corner and squealing as only a cold pig can squeal does not make pleasant music to one who likes to feel that his stock is warm and well fed. Especially are dry, warm quarters desirable for a sow and pigs. A cold pig is a distasteful pig, and a dissatisfied pig will not eat as it should.

A thoroughbred or a good grade of hogs should always be kept. The thoroughbreds are the most profitable, and they are so low that it looks like a piece of foolishness to do without them. If you are skeptical, get a thoroughbred male and cross on your "elm peelers" and see if you do not have the best bunch of pigs you ever owned. A little better than scrub care must be awarded them. Our motto should be "the best," for indeed the best is none too good for one who lives up to his privileges as a swine breeder. Mind, I say "lives up to his privileges," for it is a privilege to raise hogs as fine as the finest and as good as the best! There are four great breeds of swine, with some others of lesser fame, but perhaps just as good in their sphere. The Poland-Chinas by mere force of numbers, if for no other reason, come first, with perhaps the Berkshires holding second place. The third in the list of honor is the far-famed Chester White. And last, but not least (at least in size), are the Duroc-Jerseys. With such a list of notables to choose from, why breed scrubs?

Injuring Insect Friends.

Mr. Hartwell.—Prof. Luger spoke last week on this topic of insects injurious to fruit and the general enemies of the fruit grower, and he said that one important feature is frequently overlooked. We are liable to destroy a great many of the best friends we have in the world in this spraying process. For instance, the green worm that appears on the currant deposits with the wasp. The moth deposits the eggs along the veins of the leaf, and those hatch into the worms. Sometimes the eggs will turn a bluish color, usually before they are ripe to hatch, and you will find on the inside of them a little wasp, the deadly enemy of the worm, and if you spray for the worm, you spray for the wasp and destroy your best friend.

Mr. Bryant.—Would you advise letting your gooseberries go and trust to the wasp?

Mr. Hartwell.—He gave that as an illustration of what is true otherwise.—Discussion at Northern Illinois Horticultural Meeting.

How to Destroy Skunks.

Skunks are very fond of eggs. Break a hole the size of a dime in the shell of an egg. With a sliver put into it strychnine the size of two grains of wheat and stir it well. Place it where the skunks will find it, but where any other animal you do not wish to kill will not get it. Cats will not eat it. Last year I killed eight skunks in that way and seven of them were found dead beside or within 30 yards of the bait. I need not caution people of good sense to handle the poison with the greatest care. Keep it apart from everything else, label it plainly and let only one person handle it. Be sure that it is where children cannot get to it.—Anon.

Unavailable Nitrogen.—The simple fact of a fertilizer containing nitrogen in the form of old leather, dried blood, lungs, liver, etc., as much of the high grade does, as is proved by the combustion tube, is no evidence that its nitrogen will ever enter albumen, gluten, casein or chlorophyl, or the active poisons found in the vegetable kingdom. Neither will it justify placing the value of it at four or five hundred dollars a ton, as is done by agricultural chemists. In our state the plain phosphate, costing $12 to $14 a ton, has been used with much success, and, many practical farmers have told me, with far better results than when they used expensive nitrogen.—Country Gentleman.

Runners of Strawberries.—Whether early or late runners on strawberry plants are to be used for the succeeding crop is a question worthy of consideration. E. A. Riehl says that the early runners should be allowed to grow, and then there will be few if any late ones to cut off. Some varieties of strawberries have the habit of bearing the next year's crop only on the early runners, and if these early runners are not allowed to grow there will in such cases be a total failure of the second year. There are other varieties that will bear fruit no matter how late runners are used.

Preservatives Illegal in New York.—Commissioner of Agriculture Wieting of New York has ruled that butter containing boracic acid comes under the law and cannot be sold as pure butter, and is as liable to the penalties as the sale of artificial butter.—Ex.

The Toynton place, a nice little farm of 70 acres, with four acres of good orchard and buildings as good as anybody's. One mile west of Bloomfield Centre (Circle postoffice), five minute's walk from Long Lake. Basement barn which cost nearly $1,000. House has seven rooms and woodshed, cellar, cistern, well, tool house, chicken house, pig pens, corn crib. A never failing stream runs through the farm. This farm is on the line of the proposed Bloomfield and Orchard Lake Electric Railway, from Bloomfield Centre to Orchard Lake. The price which was $65 per acre before the new electric road was thought of, remains the same, although all the farms in the neighborhood have gone "skiting."

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D.: "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God I am saved and now a well and healthy woman. Trial bottles free at Whitehead & Mitchell's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1. Guaranteed or price refunded.
