What Shall We Do.

A serious and dangerous disease prevails in this country, dangerous because so deceptive. It comes on so slowly yet surely that it is often firmly seated before we are aware of it.

The name of this disease which may be divided into three distinct stages is, First, Kidney trouble, indicated by pain in the back, rheumatism, lumbago, frequent desire to urinate, often with a burning sensation, the flow of urine being copious or scant with strong odor.

If allowed to advance, this reaches the Second stage, or Bladder trouble, with heavy pain in the abdomen low down between the navel and the water passage, increasing desire to urinate, with scalding sensation in passing, small quantities being passed with difficulty, sometimes necessary to draw it with instruments. If urie acid or gravel has formed it will prove dangerous if neglected.

The Third stage is Bright's Disease.

There is comfort in knowing that Dr. Kilmer, the great kidney and bladder specialist, has discovered a Remedy famous for its marvelous cures of the most distressing cases and known as Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

It is sold by all druggists.

As a proof of the wonderful virtues of this great discovery, Swamp-Root, a sample bottle and book of valuable information will be sent absolutely free by mail on application to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in the Birmingham Eccentric.

OVERPERSUADED BUT SATISFIED.

An interesting letter from Mrs. T. L. Reynolds, of Eaton Rapids, Mich., to the manufacturers of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure & Nerve Restorer:

"MESSRS. DRAKE & RHODES.

"DEAR SIRS:—I have been troubled with Stomach troubles for over two years. I was induced to try your Dyspepsia Cure & Nerve Restorer. After using three boxes my stomach trouble left me. It has been over Six Months an I no signs of its returning. I feel as if I wanted to speak in praise of your Medicine, you are at liberty to publish this to my friends, and those suffering from any stomach trouble.

"Very truly yours,

"MRS. T. L. REYNOLDS."

The title Mrs. Reynolds gives her letter is appropriate, from the fact that she had tried so many preparations for this disease without receiving any lasting benefit, that she very reluctantly consented to try this new treatment. Drake's Dyspepsia Cure & Nerve Restorer is a combined method treatment in tablet form, which does not contain Opium or Calomel, and will not harm the most delicate stomach. For any form of stomach or nerve trouble this treatment has no equal. For sale by F. Hagerman, Druggist.

For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night; and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. OBITUARY.

Died Tuesday, March 28, 1899, at his home in Southfield, Edward Crawford, in the 79th year of his age. Deceased was born in Essex Co., New Jersey, Oct. 14, 1820. He was one of a family of 11 children, all of whom are now gone. He came to Michigan with his parents in August, 1831. In June, 1843, he was married to Miss Cornelia Beardslee, and then settled down on part of the old homestead and for 56 years they quietly lived and worked together. To them six children were born of whom five, with the widow, live to mourn the loss of a kind father and husband.

The funeral was held at his late home Friday, March 31, Rev. Eugene Allen officiating, and the remains placed in Greenwood cemetery.

Father, we miss thee,
We never shall forget
Thy soft gentle footstep
And thy kind loving face.
Our home is now lonely,
The home thou hast left,
To dwell with God's children,
To live with the blest.

Interesting Relics.

Mrs. Claude Harris, of Troy, is the owner of three of the most unique invitations it has ever been our lot to see. One of them is a card inviting people to attend a ball given at the home of O. J. Niles, in Troy, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 2, 1848. Page's band, an organization famous in those days, furnished music for the occasion. Mrs. Harris informs us that only two of the eight managers of that party are alive at the present time. Another one of these relics is an invitation to a New Years ball given in 1829 and the third one tells of an Independence ball that took place July 2, 1825. One strange feature of the parties given in those days was that the daneing began in the afternoon. If interested in relics ask Mrs. Harris to show you these invitations. They are certainly worth seeing.

Foot Ball.

An old friend of the Eccentric sends in the following breezy skit and wishes to see it in print:

REFORMED THE OLD GENTLEMAN.

"See here, my son, you must either retire from the junior partnership I've just given you or you must quit football," and the old merchant sat very straight in his office chair.

"If it's a mere matter of choice, I prefer football."

"Of course you do, just like any other feather-headed boy, but your decision involves all your future prospects. Once out of here you must shift for yourself. Understand that."

After much discussion the old gentleman consented to let the young man play one more game and to be present as a witness, much as he disliked the "brutal and barbarous" sport.

With his ulster collar about his ears, his face enveloped in frowns, and his hands in his pockets, the stern man of business saw the kick off. Inside of three minutes his hands were beating the air while he shouted encouragement to the home eleven. "Go through 'em!" he yelled excitedly. "Tear 'em up! That's it, boys, pulverize 'em! Dynamite them! Go it, Charley!" as his own son tore around the end with the ball. "Get there, boy! Whoopee! Never mind what I said today. Beats anything I ever saw," and the florid-faced old gentleman who had been rushing along the ropes like a madman was right there at the goal, still puffing and shouting.

Now father and son go to the games together.

THE STAGE.

AT THE LYCEUM.

Ralph E. Cummings and his company present Henry C. DeMille and David Belasco's powerful society drama, "Men and Women," for one week at the Lyceum. This play marked the commencement of Daniel Frohman's career as a successful New York manager, and aside from a single performance given by the Cummings company last October, the play has not been seen here for several years. It requires the services of a large number of players and the character drawing is varied, skillful and entertaining to a marked degree.

AT WHITNEY'S.

That ever popular play, "The Span of Life," is the attraction at Whitney's this week. The play is presented by an excellent company and with the same attention to detail that characterized its first production here. The action of the piece takes place alternately in England and Africa. The first scenes are on the coast of Derbyshire. Few things more thrilling than the escape of the mother and her child over the bridge of human bodies have ever been seen on the stage.

AUGUST FLOWER.

"It is a surprising fact," says Prof. Hourton, "that in my travels in all parts of the world, for the last ten years, I have met more people having used Green's August Flower than any other remedy, dyspepsia, deranged liver and stomach, and for constipation. I find for tourists and salesmen, or for persons filling office positions, where headaches and general bad feelings from irregular habits exist, that Green's August Flower is a grand remedy. It does not injure the system by frequent use, and is excellent for sour stomachs and indigestion." Sample bottles free at Whitehead & Michell's.

Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

Debtors, Attention!

You Can't Dodge Them

Did you ever try to dodge the rain-drops? Did not succeed very well, did you? It's just as useless to try to escape from the germs of consumption. You can't do it. They are about us on every hand and we are constantly taking them into our lungs.

Then why don't we all have this disease? Simply because these germs cannot gain a foothold in a strong throat and lungs. It's when these are weak that the germs master.

The body must be well supplied with fat. The danger comes when the blood is poor and the body is thin. If your cough does not yield, and your throat and lungs feel raw and sore, you should not delay another day. Take of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites at once. It will heal the inflamed membranes and greatly strengthen them as well. The digestion becomes stronger, the appetite better and the weight increases. The whole body becomes well fortified and the germs of consumption cannot gain a foothold.

It's this nourishing, sustaining and strengthening power of SCOTT'S EMULSION that has made it of such value in all wasting and exhausting diseases.
