Oxford Methodists are Enjoying a Genuine Church Row—Michigan's New Retaliatory Law Promises a Revenue of $12,000 or $15,000 a Year.

Church Row at Oxford.

A fist fight was narrowly averted in the Sunday school rooms of the M. E. church at Oxford on the 11th. In 1896 Rev. Mr. Lowrey was placed in charge of the church there. He did not prove acceptable to a majority of the members of the society, and much ill-feeling was expressed when the conference last year, despite protests, returned Mr. Lowrey. Now that charge again. Trouble has been brewing for some time and the climax came on the 11th when the reverend gentleman demanded the resignation of the Sunday school superintendent. Couple because he refused to demand the resignation of a certain lady teacher whom Mr. Lowrey considered was not eligible to teach a Sunday school class because she was not a member of the church. It is feared that the pastor and wife moved the church and Sunday school completely disrupted. They are the talk of the town.
