

TRIANGLES OF DISCRETION.
 She drew her little hand away.
 And, putting, warned me not to tease.
 Was it in truth, or just in play,
 She drew her little hand away.
 That rare and radiant summer day,
 When we sat side by side at ease?
 She drew her little hand away.
 And, putting, warned me not to tease.

At the Wedding Breakfast.

BY HELEN A. SMITH

She looked at him with a smile that was not a smile, and he looked at her with a smile that was not a smile. They were sitting at the wedding breakfast, and the air was thick with the perfume of the flowers and the music of the strings.

"You are a fond of golf as you claim to be," said the young man abruptly, changing the subject, "and ever pass through my present abiding place. I can show you the finest links on which you have ever played."

"I suppose when you are not preaching you play golf?" interrogated the young woman sarcastically.

"That is just about it, at least I take it for recreation and—"

"Who is that distinguished looking old man?" interrupted Marion.

"That," said her friend, with a faint suspicion of a smile, "Oh, that is Mr. Miller, minister of one of the largest Unitarian churches in the city."

"Is there any man in this assembly who isn't a minister?"

"Why, yes, mine of the other men present was Mr. Miller and myself. I assisted him in the ceremony, that morning. You said that you were at the church to-day?"

"No, I was not. I was at the office."

"I thought you were at the office," said Marion, looking at her with a smile.

"I was at the office," said Marion, looking at her with a smile.

WRITER OF RARE GIFT
WAS THE LATE PREMIER MARCHAND OF QUEBEC.

All of His Works Were Written in the French Language—Greatly Admired in Canada, Europe and the United States.

Felix Gabriel Marchand, prime minister of the province of Quebec, died last week in Montreal. For six years he held the office of premier and for a long time he was the leader of the opposition in the Quebec parliament. Mr. Marchand was born at St. Johns in 1822 and was educated at St. Hyacinthe college. He was a distinguished and only son of an old and noble family. His political career was a long and brilliant one. He was a member of the Quebec parliament for many years and was several times premier of the province. He was a man of great ability and was highly respected by his fellow citizens. He was a man of great ability and was highly respected by his fellow citizens.
