

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

DEPLORES PREVAILING SPIRIT OF UNREST.

The True Source of Contentment and Happiness is a Christian Life—The Cause of Discontent—Faded Spiritual Condition.

(Copyright, 1906, Louis Klopfer, N. Y.)
Washington, Nov. 25.—From an unusual text Dr. Talmage in this discourse strikes the spirit of unrest which characterizes so many people and shows that the happiness and usefulness so much to be found in stability.

Text, Jeremiah 17: 26. "Why shouldst thou boast thyself so much to change thy way?"

Homely is the illustration by which this prophet of tears depicts the condition of the nation to which he wrote. Now they wished aid with Egypt, and now with Assyria, and now with Babylon, and now they did not know what to do, and the blessing of the nation seemed to be the prophet of a man of woman who had not satisfied his own soul. How long has it been since we have had such a prophet to give us counsel and to show us the way to the land of the living?

Why do you not find out whether you are his or not? There are all the broad invitations of the gospel. Accept them. There are all the assurances. Apply them. There are all the hopes of pardon and heaven. Adopt them. There is the Kingdom of the darkness to read the words on the finger board of the road to see if it be the right road, and if it be the wrong road, you cross over to the right track. If you are in the sea, you know how to know into what port you will run or upon what rocks you will break. If you are in the forest, you know how to find the path to the house of the living.

anxieties. They sit with great emphasis that old hymn which we have all sung:

"Tis a point I long to know;
Of it causes anxious thought;
Do I love the Lord or no?
Am I his, or am I not?"

colds that threaten now one kind of disease and now another? That mother watching at home as much please the Lord as the mother who at church takes the sacrament or in the mission school takes the waifs of the street how they may become sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty. That mother at home is deciding the destiny of the state by the way she leads that boy into right thinking and acting and is deciding the welfare of some future home by the example she is setting that girl, and though the world does not appreciate the unswerving work leaves watches and rewards. On the other hand, you have known women who are off at meetings humanitarian and philanthropic, planning for the destitute and the outcast, while their own children went unwashed and unkempt, their garments needing repairs, their names impudently forgotten, thus showing a general neglect for the common duties in which they live.

The Distribution of Secular Education. One that has been a great cause of concern in England, as well as in this country, is the question of the distribution of secular education. There has been a great deal of talk about it, and many plans have been proposed. It is a question that will affect the future of the nation, and it is one that we should all be interested in.
