

GEORGE WASHINGTON

FIRST IN WAR,
FIRST IN PEACE,
FIRST IN THE
HEARTS OF HIS COUNTRYMEN

HIS WORD OF HONOR.

A Tale of the Blue and the Gray.

BY E. WEBNER.

CHAPTER XI. (Continued.)

Maxwell remained behind, as a physician he was too familiar with death to be shocked by that of a man who had been almost a stranger to him and had not himself possessed his sympathies. Besides that, the immediate relations left the count, when he had made his final arrangements, to be taken care of by his friends. He had no relatives in the army, and he had no friends in the army.

Maxwell remained behind, as a physician he was too familiar with death to be shocked by that of a man who had been almost a stranger to him and had not himself possessed his sympathies. Besides that, the immediate relations left the count, when he had made his final arrangements, to be taken care of by his friends. He had no relatives in the army, and he had no friends in the army.

THE HOSPITAL.

CHAPTER XII.

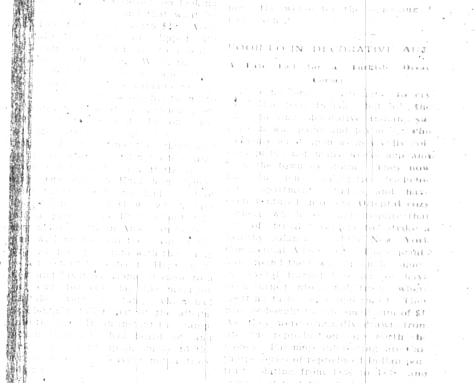

It was a fine day, and the sun was shining brightly. The soldiers were in high spirits, and the camp was in a state of activity. Maxwell was standing in the middle of the camp, looking towards the horizon. He had a thoughtful expression on his face, and his hands were clasped behind his back.

CHAPTER XIII.

The day was a fine one, and the sun was shining brightly. The soldiers were in high spirits, and the camp was in a state of activity. Maxwell was standing in the middle of the camp, looking towards the horizon. He had a thoughtful expression on his face, and his hands were clasped behind his back.

CHAPTER XIV.

The day was a fine one, and the sun was shining brightly. The soldiers were in high spirits, and the camp was in a state of activity. Maxwell was standing in the middle of the camp, looking towards the horizon. He had a thoughtful expression on his face, and his hands were clasped behind his back.

THE HOSPITAL.

CHAPTER XV.

The day was a fine one, and the sun was shining brightly. The soldiers were in high spirits, and the camp was in a state of activity. Maxwell was standing in the middle of the camp, looking towards the horizon. He had a thoughtful expression on his face, and his hands were clasped behind his back.

CHAPTER XVI.

The day was a fine one, and the sun was shining brightly. The soldiers were in high spirits, and the camp was in a state of activity. Maxwell was standing in the middle of the camp, looking towards the horizon. He had a thoughtful expression on his face, and his hands were clasped behind his back.

WHY WASHINGTON LIVES.

Why does the name of George Washington live? It is because he was the first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen. His name is a synonym for courage, wisdom, and integrity.

THE RESIDENCE OF WASHINGTON.

The residence of George Washington was a grand and imposing structure. It was built on a hillside overlooking the city, and it was surrounded by a large garden. The house was a masterpiece of architecture, and it was a fitting home for the first president of the United States.

THE COURTYARD.

The courtyard of the residence was a beautiful and well-kept area. It was filled with flowers and trees, and it was a place where the president and his family would often spend their leisure time. The courtyard was a reflection of the care and attention that was given to the residence.

THE MOUNTAIN OF WASHINGTON.

FIRST MONUMENT OF WASHINGTON.

The first monument of George Washington was a simple and elegant structure. It was built on a hillside overlooking the city, and it was a fitting tribute to the first president of the United States. The monument was a symbol of the respect and admiration that the people had for their leader.

FIRST MONUMENT OF WASHINGTON.

The first monument of George Washington was a simple and elegant structure. It was built on a hillside overlooking the city, and it was a fitting tribute to the first president of the United States. The monument was a symbol of the respect and admiration that the people had for their leader.

WASHINGTON AS A Youth.

Washington as a youth was a brave and adventurous spirit. He was a member of the British Army, and he served with distinction. His early experiences in the military shaped his character and prepared him for the challenges of leadership.

STRUGGLE WITH A PYTHON.

From 'Wild Animals in Captivity,' by Edward Barrett. Some few years ago I was invited to the house of a surgeon who had just returned from Ceylon, to see a freshly imported serpent of this species. Upon arriving at the house I found that the doctor was absent and that his wife and maid servant were the only inmates. Upon mentioning the nature of my visit to the larger box in the greenhouse I was handed the key of the box and I found that there was no danger in opening it because the serpent was confined in a large box in the greenhouse. I was able to see it without the aid of a net or a stick. I was very much interested in the snake, and I was particularly struck by its size and its color. I was very much interested in the snake, and I was particularly struck by its size and its color.

PHOTO IN DISGUISE.

A man in a military uniform was seen in a public place. He was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people. He was seen in a public place, and he was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people. He was seen in a public place, and he was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people.

A Visit to a Prison.

A man in a military uniform was seen in a public place. He was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people. He was seen in a public place, and he was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people.

How George was Caught.

A man in a military uniform was seen in a public place. He was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people. He was seen in a public place, and he was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people.

Kate Old Bible Found.

A man in a military uniform was seen in a public place. He was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people. He was seen in a public place, and he was wearing a dark uniform and a hat. He was walking towards a group of people.