THE BIRMINGHAM ECCENTRIC

ONE CENT PER COPY. WHITEHEAD & MITCHELL, PUBS.

BIRMINGHAM, FRIDAY, MAR. 2.

In time John Harveyson, in the struggle that makes all of the pugilistic champions groggy.

Mr. Hanna will be pleased to learn that Philadelphia has stopped talking through her hat and is passing it around with gratifying results.

A Chicago woman married a man on fifteen minutes acquaintance. She is now bewailing the fact that it is much easier to get into trouble than to get out of it.

Edly of Minnesota is said to be one of the honestest men in congress. He rather chooses in the distinction, especially as all his other characteristics are unobtainable.

During his last campaign the members of Mr. Edly's party were being done for. He met the change in a manner that disconcerted all who expected to see him in the saddle.

Mr. Edly, in his opinion, would not think that if he had been a Jew he would have done any better.

One of the best farmers in Michigan is a man who has a farm of 100 acres. He has a fine stock of horses and a large number of head of cattle.

Large tracts of land are now being sold in the State of Michigan. The land is fertile and well adapted for agriculture.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"PRODIGAL SONS," THE LATEST SUBJECT DISCUSSED.

From Luke Xv. 11, as Follows: "The Younger Son Gathered All Together and Took His Journey Into a Far Country."

Today the old homestead is turned upside down. One of the boys, the younger, is about to leave the parental roof. The eldest is tired of being warmed by the wings of the old birds and with rattled feathers stands upon the edge of the eye, ready to fly off.

It is a sad sight to see a home being broken up. When the children are about to say good-by to the family, talk and joke up to the last moment, but they are only trying to keep the courage up. Even the wedding bells ring as well as chime.

The younger son gathered all together and took his journey into a far country. In Christendom it is only one step from the father's house to a swindler's rascal.

The trouble with many swindlers, Christian preachers is that we put a halo over our heads and think we are better than the rest of the world.

When the younger son gathered all together and took his journey into a far country, he was a prodigal son.

The prodigal son is a man who has a farm of 100 acres. He has a fine stock of horses and a large number of head of cattle.

town opening the best bottles of wine, driving the fastest horses, and living with evil companions whom he dare not introduce to his sisters. He does not describe him in some low dance hall, intoxicated with flattery as much as with wine. He does not have a palooza of three filled with princes and princesses the walls pictured, the floors of mosaic, the banquet table groaning under the weight of gold and silver as well as fruits and viands.

He does not trace him on and on running into debt, having his friends leaving him one by one, as humming birds with their pretty wings will flutter away from a flower as soon as the wind is gone. He does not describe him at last so poor that he is begging alongside of the beggars whom he once ostracized in the street. No Jesus comes up the months of woe, ill, thirst and cold, and conveys with the simple sentence of mercy. The younger son gathered all together and took his journey into a far country.

could teach many of our legislators that the whipping-post ought not to be obsolete in our treatment of social irritants. In the sins of Lady Macbeth all the evil deeds of his reign to make the very fingers soak the blood.

When you think of the injustice toward the Jew in "The Merchant of Venice," we hear poor Shylock turn upon his persecutors and demand a pound of Antonio's flesh in revenge for stealing his daughter. What is William Shakespeare's testimony in reference to children who have been brought up by too lenient parents? When King Lear as king had the two daughters at his feet, when the two daughters were opening the poor old man was driven from house to house.

But sometimes the father's mistakes sharpen the poisonous fang. The best way to hold the affections of your children is to be independent of them. Never let them finger the purse strings, divide not into them the luxuries, not only for your own sake, but for theirs. The younger son will not find much fun in having a bottle of champagne at the top of a bottle of beer.
