To rent the Slade house on Maple street very reasonable. Call on Mitchell at Eccentric office.

A good time in store for one at the masquerade to be given by the Lady Foresters Wednesday evening, January 23rd.

Do you want good reading for your long winter evenings? For small sum of cents invested in our address given you a number of books. Among them are hundreds from standard authors and many of the latest books both English and American.

The next supper given Monday night by the Patriotic Patronesses of Compen was a very pleasant affair. A good supper was served, a fine program rendered and one and all voted it a success. Quite a snug sum was added to the exchequer of the society.

Gilbert's orchestra, of Pontiac, will furnish music for the masquerade to be given by the Lady Foresters, Jan. 23d, at Library Hall. Tickets for the masquerade may be obtained from any member of the committee or at the hall the night of the dance.

George Purdy and James Tobin are the local agents for the Detroit Sugar Co. in this vicinity, and either of these gentlemen will be pleased to have farmers contract with them for the sugar beet crop of 1901, or contracts can be obtained at the Exchange Bank.

Kenneth Kinnisten did not forget his mother's birthday which occurred Wednesday of this week. He presented her with a very handsomely framed picture, entitled "Jesus Blessing Little Children." Mrs. K. is very much pleased and prizes it very highly.

Mrs. H. W. Baxter is able to be out again after a very serious illness. One day recently while suffering with an attack of la grippe she nearly had a stroke of paralysis. Prompt measures by her husband with the efficient aid of Dr. F. Mather probably averted a paralytic stroke.

A pedro party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mudge on Tuesday evening last. First prize was won by Charles Shain and the booby prize was captured by Mrs. G. E. Hartley. Refreshments were served and a right good time enjoyed by all. Sixteen were present.

If the parents of to-day would fully appreciate the importance of training their sons to be industrious, and keep them on the street, says an exchange, the coming generation would be mentally better off. Any honest labor is much more desirable than being about at the rear end of a gazette stump, or spurring all of the vices and some of the virtues of the day.

William A. Brewster, sheriff of Oakland county has announced the following appointees: Charles H. Richmond, of Drayton Plains, undersheriff; John Soody, Pontiac, turnkey; Richard Bennett, Royal Oak; Morell E. Dennis, Birmingham, and Charles S. Chalaston, deputies; Bert Wellman, undersheriff, will serve Saturday evening, Jan. 12th. A full attendance of members is desired. K. S. Alger, Sec'y.

After several weeks' sojourn in Northern Michigan, Callie D. Ellenwood has returned to his home in this village. He returns in the best of health and spirits and his friends are glad to see him here once more.

Have you noticed that proud look on Frank Blakeslee's face the past week? Well, there is a reason for it. Frank is grandpa to one of the finest boy babies in the state as will be seen by the following: Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Blakeslee, at Bay City, Jan. 2, 1901, a baby boy. Everyone doing nicely.

Bishop W. X. Ninde, one of the brightest stars in the Methodist Episcopacy and especially beloved throughout this state as Michigan's resident bishop, was found dead in bed at Detroit Thursday morning of last week.

Elizabeth Richards, of Royal Oak, has begun suit against the Detroit, Rochester, Romeo & Lake Orion Railway Company for $10,000. Mrs. Richards alleges injuries received in alighting from a car at her home last September.

Married, Dec. 29, 1900, at the home of the bride at Ann Arbor, Charles Reynolds, of this place, and Miss Louise Kanski, Rev. Newman, of Ann Arbor, officiating. The young couple will reside here where they have many friends.

Mr. Tobin, of Detroit street, who brought home from his work Friday evening a very sore toe. He is employed by the D. & P. Ry. Co., and at this writing is still in dangerous condition. Stomach trouble was the cause of his illness.

"What I am most worried about," said the doctor to the sick editor, "is your blood. I want to find out about the circulation." "Circulation," gasped the patient, "don't bother here, doctor, it isn't a square deal to work me to a death bed's confession."

Do you want good reading for your long winter evenings? For small sum of cents invested in our address given you a number of books. Among them are hundreds from standard authors and many of the latest books both English and American.

The usual meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Rogers Monday evening last and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present. Officers for the ensuing six months were installed. Refreshments followed to which everyone present responded either with a select reading, recitation or story and everyone did exceedingly well. One of the most striking responses was made by little Lloyd Crary who represented his mother, rendering the song, "Little Black Mel," in a manner that greatly pleased his hearers.

A newspaper reporter dreamed one night that the editor had decided to get out a paper that was satisfactory. Every item that was brought in was carried around to different houses, and at any object it was were made it was promptly scolded. At 4 p. m. the paper went to press as usual, and when the patrons unfolded it that evening they found nothing but a blank sheet. The editor slept sweetly that night, realizing that he had printed nothing to offend anybody, and that his paper was entirely satisfactory.

A year ago the Literary Digest placed before the American people a new kind of periodical literature. Harper's Monthly, The Century and Scribner's Magazine, The Atlantic Monthly, The Forum, The Cosmopolitan, McClure's Magazine, and all other publishers of high-class literature followed with the result that each of these publications has increased its circulation from 50 to 100 per cent. Now, the Literary Digest has entered the field with the hope that each of these publications will increase
