While away one day last week F. F. Richardson was attacked by a bilious chill which almost floored the old veteran, but not quite, because he is still grinding away at the old stand.

William Brown, of the Detroit Floral Co., Detroit, was in Birmingham one day this week visiting his cousin Miss Tillie Walker. It really too bad, poor Willie. His little sister can't take it.

The reunion of the 4th Michigan Cavalry is being held in Detroit this week. It is a grand affair. Grand Army Hall, Grand River Avenue. Many of the old veterans from this county are attending.

It is a very interesting affair with the business part between Wing Lake and Birmingham at any time. Saturday night, you can receive a letter from Wing Lake, by leaving one at the Exchange Bank. It was the left hand glove.

Does it pay to raise apples? Well, just ask John Evans, of Southfield, and he will tell you that it does.

This year he has about 1,000 crates of apples and has sold them to Mr. Rauland, of Grand Haven, Michigan, at the depot in this place.

When this company strikes Detroit all of Mr. Maxwell's Birmingham friends will attend in a body—see if they don't. We are indebted to Mr. Maxwell for a theater edition of his Highways and Byways. It is a real gem. It is a real gem. It is a real gem.

A Fiendish Attack
A fiendish attack was made on C. P. Cooper of Chelsea, Wis., that nearly proved fatal. I am through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not sleep without a pain in the soles of his feet. He was unable to get on his feet. He was unable to get on his feet.
