Pharmacia A. G. of Philadelphia. It is declared that the discovery was made by Dr. C. P. Brady after Gill had entered Northern dispensary to have the illness caused by falling from a roof cart attributed to him.

There is said to be a strong bond of friendship between Empson, William and a Norwegian peasant named Christy, who was known as 'Mollie,' a village girl of the coast. The latter never visits Norway without giving his old friend a call, and the two converse like a pair of old times, addressing each other as 'William' and 'Christy.'

The interview finally ends by the peasant playing something on his accordion and then, munching leaving him a good night.

A pretty, well-to-do girl of 28 years known among her friends as Miss 'Red,' and among the whites as Miss 'Red,' is the editor and proprietor of 'Linn's' territories, an illustrated magazine published in the Indian territories and devoted to the interests of the Indians of that territory and Oklahoma.
