THE LUCKY TWENTY "DEBATING SOCIETY" BANQUET

Thursday Evening, Feb 21, 1901, a Success in Every Way.

Over 500 People Present and Standing Room was at a Premium. Speaking, Music, Recitations and Dialogues Among the Features. The Patrons of the Leonard Harvey Mass Good Reason to be Proud of their School.

On several weeks past there has been great activity among the pupils of the Leonard Harvey, and much work has been done preparing for the banquet which was held to take place at the school home on that delightful Thursday evening, Feb 21, 1901.

Something that was very interesting to the teacher and students was the fact that the patrons of the district were all present and seemed to be very well pleased with the work that has been accomplished in this school district.

A valuable man by Ray Butler was the first speaker on the program. He is a young man did very nicely indeed. Mr. Chittenden then gave a very interesting address entitled "American Liberty" which was well received.

The next on the program was a tangible dialogue entitled "Doubtly Doubtful" in which one of the participants did some very good acting. Then the audience had the pleasure of listening to an address by E. E. Haines, Editor of the subject which dealt to the hearts of the assembled ones.

Receptions by other pupils of the school were next in order and these were most interesting and enjoyable. Miss Deane then read a beautiful address which was very well received.

The first speaker on the program was a tangible dialogue entitled "Doubtly Doubtful" in which one of the participants did some very good acting.
