way between the two streets named by the time the monument is in place the two large hotels which the Astors have planned to erect facing the square, one on the east and the other on the west, will have been completed. Other improvements soon to be made in that locality include the building of a fine theater.

The monument proper will be fashioned of Tennessee marble and will rise to a height of sixty-five feet, measuring from the base to the top of the shaft.

The base will extend a considerable distance to the right and left of the shaft of the upright portion of the monument. It will be a shaft and have a decorative design.

At the base of the shaft there will be some beautiful sculpture in bronze, and the two great vaults which wash the shores of the United States, the Atlantic and the Pacific, will be adorned with a group of statues which will have a plain, simple design, the running water, which will represent the Atlantic on the opposite side will be a group of statues and of appropriate strength, temperament and a more placid stream, symbolical of the Pacific.

At the base will be the main entrance, in the form of a triumphal archway, representing the respective power and glory of the two oceans.

The monument will be erected in Long Ave. square, the corner formed by the intersection of the street with the city hall, in the combined width of the two streets, as now and on the north side, from Fifty-fifth street on the north to Forty-eighth street on the south. It will stand on the corner of the block which will be situated about 1870 feet from the city hall.
