This village for the Prince farm of 65 acres in Southfield. All the parties interested are well satisfied with the change and both secured a good bargain. Mr. James and the family will occupy the farm at once and the property received by Mrs. Prince will either be for rent or for sale.
Messrs. Neal & Wieland, of the Orion Revue, are usually up to date in news matters, but when in issue of May 3, 1901, they tell of the death of one of Birmingham's most respected residents, a gentleman we know throughout the state, who was very much surprised to say the least. The gentleman in question had just left and how the Boston call use the time a piece of business in this late date passes our understanding.
Typographical errors will occur and it is very annoying for instance, last week when we were made to say 'W. W. N. N.' when it should have been 'W. W. N. N. N.' and so on.
