Relieve heart palpitation, sleeplessness, headache, nervousness.

TELL CRY, I'm—I received the free trial of Doan's Kidney Pills. It was splendid. I had an awful pain in my back on taking the pills the pain left me right away and I feel like a new man.—Stephen Schaefer.

Mrs. Anne Andrews, R. F. D. No. 1, Housatonic, Wis., writes: I received the free trial of Doan's Kidney Pills with much benefit. My little nephew was suffering terribly with kidney trouble from overeating. Two doctors failed to help him and he finally went into spasms. His father gave him Doan's Kidney Pills and on the second dose the pain was less. He began to gain and in a few days his life was saved by Doan's Kidney Pills.

THE PINKHAM CURES

ATTRACTING GREAT ATTENTION AMONG THINKING WOMEN.

When Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies were first introduced skeptics all over the country frowned upon their curative claims, but, year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by the new discovery have grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands, doubts and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty flood, until today the great good that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her other medicines are doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many of our leading scientists, physicians and thinking people.

Merit alone could win such fame; yet, therefore, is the woman who for a cure relies upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Frances Stafford, of 243 E. 114th St., N.Y. City, adds her testimony to the hundreds of thousands on Mrs. Pinkham's files.

EXTERMINATED BY THE BOERS.

The Quagga Hunted Out of Existence in South Africa.

The quagga, a South African animal of the horse family, resembling the zebra, which was hunted out of existence by the Boers for its hide, is now extinct in the world. The last survivor of its kind, as far as is known, died in the London Zoological Gardens in 1883. In an article on the subject in Knowledge (London), says:

"Even in the days of its abundance the quagga (which, by the way, takes its name from its cry) had a comparatively limited distribution, ranging from the Cape Colony to the eastern side of Africa, as far as the Vaal river, beyond which it appears to have been unknown. In this respect it closely resembled the white-tailed antelope, which, however, is known to have crossed that river in one district. Curiously enough, the two species lived in close comradeship, and in the old days their vast herds formed a striking feature in the landscape of the open plains of the Orange River. Colony. Owing to its rare flavor and especially its yellow fat, the flesh of the quagga was almost unobtainable by Europeans, although it was heavily relied by the Hottentots, who, in the early days of Cape Colony, were largely fed upon it by their Dutch masters."

NEW LITTLE OF BUSINESS.

Ingenuous Ministers Furnish Material for Two Good Stories.

The Rev. Dr. Parkin in his address before the Ministerial Union at Withington hall, on Friday, told two good stories. The first was of a young minister in the coal regions who had an impediment in his speech. He tried many remedies, without avail, till at last, after giving a goodly proportion of his salary by sending himself the contents of life, he came to Philadelphia to be cured, because he had heard that there were so many "speakers" in business.

The other was a minister whose education in business matters had been sadly neglected. He had a small head and a small mind, but a living by writing for the papers. He came to Philadelphia to be cured, because he had heard that there were so many "speakers" in business.

Wind and Sea.

The sea is a jolly comrade.

And who, when he goes, his merriment shines in the dimpling eye.

That wrinkle his hale repose; He lays himself down at the foot of the ship.

And shakes all over with aloe.

And the broad-backed billows fall on the shore.

In the mirth of the mighty sea!

But the tide is sad and restless.

And, when the wind is high, you may mark it with valley or hill.

But you hear him when you sit on his waits on the barren mountains.
