

THE LIGHT OF LOVE

By T. V. McFarland

The county courtroom of St. Anne's was crowded to the door: It was an assemblage unprecedented even in that country where trial by murder trial had ways exercised an irresistible fascination...

Never before within the memory of those present had a white woman entered under the menace of a possible capital sentence. Indeed there lurked some trifling doubt as to the propriety of the circumstances...

There had been no doubt as to the identity of the murderer. The dramatic evidence was complete. In addition, the widow herself had frankly admitted that she had done it.

A man's god is a lady even if she stands within the shadow of the gallows. He said she told the truth about his son and he here to maybe swear her life away. And you thought your husband would make me do it. Why, Judge, this man offered me my life to go back on her.

She did not even give him a glance as he was led out. Her whole soul was in the contemplation of a smiling innocent with which she favored the outraged prosecutor. It was a smile that later became a badge of triumph as the white and black women...

And two weeks later the county seat again became a Mecca. It was the day when the trial of the woman who had been hanged to justice in the morning...

In the intense stillness every sound without was audible—the rambling of the train; the stoppage at the station; and the ring of footsteps on the flag that led from the road to the court-house. An instant later there was an agitation about the entrance...

"Gentlemen," said that officer, "I do not propose to discuss any matter in this said occasion, but what I do intend is to be present at the burial."

Experience of a Teacher. To scientific investigation of the ignorance of children in the meaning of the names they are required to learn in public and private schools these two examples are submitted by the Philadelphia Times.

Little Girls Abroad Resolving. Resolved that the habit of smoking cigars and smoking pipe should be abolished in the London Chronicle tells of a little English girl who was asked to read a sentence aloud and stopped at the word "singular."

Jenny Haskell was the wayward and the gaze of the negroes who hung over the rail at the rear in stolid bewilderment. The prisoner was livid and stared appallingly at the witness.
