A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me. I felt that my sun had set, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily and each dose added health and strength. Am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use.—Miss FLORENCE DAKORRA, 1007 Miles Ave., St. Joseph, Mich.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equaled by any other medicine the world has ever produced. Here is another case:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I was troubled with falling of the womb, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, bearing-down pains, backache, headache, dizzy and fainting spells, and stomach trouble. I doctored for about five years but did not seem to improve. I began the use of your medicine, and have taken seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, three of Blood Purifier, and also used the Sassafras Wash and Liniment, and am now enjoying good health, and am glad to have my health restored to me. I thank you very much for what you have done for me, and heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women.—Miss EMMA SYDNER, 218 East Center St., Marion, Ohio.

The last notes of the voluntary died away in whisper. For a moment, restless congregation was hushed. Only the muffled roar of the stamp mills on the opposite side of the church broke the silence with a monotonous reminder of something dearer than a day of rest. Through the open windows of the church came the odor of pines and the damp sweet freshness of spring. A small boy looked wistfully out and thought of the crowd of blossoming trees and the blissful. A young girl, with her eyes on her prayer book, let her fancy stray to a winding mountain road, and a young mixing expert driving along.

Into the waiting stillness of the church floated the faint, sweet strains of the processional, and above them clear and shrill rang the notes of a popular tune a man was whistling in the street. Following the glittering cross came the altar came the vested choir, led by the thin, shrill treble of the little children. In the rear walked the soloists, marking the notes of the hymn with their pointing lips to save their voices. One of these was a stranger; the other, in spite of dark rumors concerning his fitness to wear a surplice, for the favorite at St. John's. He could sing like an angel, if he didn't live like one. His hair, which had been brought out in sharp contrast the year, almost spiritual beauty of the new tenor.

As the singers filed into their places and the belated worshippers who had been detained in the vestibule hurried to their pews, a striking looking woman followed the soloist down the aisle to a seat. The people in the pew crowded closer together to make room for her, and some opened their prayer books. No one noticed her again until her voice rang out on the chant. Then the people turned to look at her. He had never known her; most of the men did.

"Then We'll Go Up to the Rectory and Be Married." leading to Main street. "I have always known that song, and long before I lost my voice I'd have given up this sort of singing. You know what I mean, we've talked it over often enough. It's my better self that sings in church on Sunday mornings. It's the man I might have been. When I sing sacred music I always imagine I'm that other fellow I might have been and I've known that the time would come when I would be too far from him to do it any longer."

"Yes," the woman said softly, "but I don't understand why it has come to you so suddenly. The matter today? Is it this new singer, this boy? He doesn't sing as well as you do, you know he doesn't. Yet he's thrown the choir and the soloists. I saw that in church and I don't understand."

"Don't you know," De Vere said quietly, "I don't know either, but I've always and always will, because back of his beautiful voice and musical temperament is a pure soul and a character that is worth something. Don't you know that his personal beauty has little or nothing to do with it? He is only too fond of what hangs but he lives it seven days a week. He has had the dead line and were in the bad lands, the district of darkness has had satisfaction in his silence that had fallen between them the woman was waiting breathlessly for that which was to come. She had never before walked down Main street with De Vere in the broad glare of noon. "Something unusual was bound to happen."

"Well get dinner now," he said in his cool, practical fashion of arranging commonplace details, "and then we'll go up to the rectory and get give us a sort of a start in the next."

Another John, at the Southwestern Reformed Church, the pastor was telling the children of the Sunday school that the man who was making his remarks by relating to them the life of St. John, says the Philadelphia Ledger. When he had finished he wanted his wife to give him the brief, paying attention to his sermon and asked if any of them could tell him of the life of St. John. After a few minutes a little girl in the end of the Sunday school raised her hand and said:

"Yes, sir, I can tell you about him." "Oh," said the minister, "I am so glad some one has been paying attention to the little remarks. Now let us hear about St. John."

"John, John, the piper's son, Stole a pig and away he run."

He Took No Chances.
White & District Attorney James D. Ridgway of Brooklyn was strolling from the railway station to the Coney Island police court one morning recently with ex-Judge Finerty, a big dog ran out from Deacon Overton's, a bark and a growl, and the judge, Ridgway immediately took to his heels in rather undignified fashion. After running a block or so he halted, all out of breath.

"What are you so frightened about, Jim?" asked Judge Finerty. "Don't you believe in the old saw that says bark is no bite?" "I know, that's all right, Judge," answered the former district attorney excitedly, "but I don't know how soon school boys will be eyeing me and barking."—"New York Times."

For Resuscitation.
They were just concluding a series of "first aid to the injured" lessons in one of the settlements, and the worker in charge thought it might be a good idea to have written notes. Among other questions she wrote:

"How would you restore consciousness to a person who had been rescued from drowning?" In answer to this a maiden with an affection for polyglots wrote: "When the resuscitated victim is complete plump the person on a barrel will be thoroughly exhausted."

HEALTHY WOMEN

Praise Pe-tu-na as a Cure for Colds and a Preventive of Catarrh.

MISS ELIZABETH UEBER.
In the crowded vestibule at the close of the service, she met the soloist, who had just finished her song. She looked startled, but the hard, dark face softened a little and De Vere showed no concern as he walked beside her down the steps and out into the bright sunlight with the church people he knew so well. "I'll never sing in church again," he said as they turned down the steps.

MISS SYBILLE A. HADLER.
The first symptoms of catching cold he should at once begin the use of Petrus according to directions on the bottle, and the cold is sure to pass away without leaving any bad effects. Unless this is done the cold is almost sure to end in the second stage of catarrh, which is making the recovery miserable. If Petrus was taken every time one has a cold or cough, chronic catarrh would be practically a unknown disease.

MISS SARA MCGAHAN.
How could I get over a cold in more than a week? It is less than two weeks I was completely cured.—Miss A. Hadler.

MRS. M. J. BRINK.
FIRST STAGE OF CATARRH.
A Serious Mistake Which Thousands Are Making.
The first stage of catarrh is what is commonly known as "catching cold." It may be in the head, nose, throat or lungs. Its beginning is sometimes so severe as to cause a chill and considerable fever, or it may be slight as to lead to a cold or influenza. In perhaps a majority of cases little or no attention is paid to the first stage of catarrh, and the result is that nearly one-half of the people have chronic catarrh in some form.

MISS ELIZABETH UEBER.
I have always dreaded winter weather because of my extreme liability to catch cold. I was a certain time when I was quite well, but I had a cold, which it would take me a long time to get over. I am sure that if I had used PETRUS I would not have had the cold. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since.

MISS SARA MCGAHAN.
I have used Pe-tu-na for a long time and I have never had a cold since. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since.

I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for 30 years and I have never had a cold since. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since.

Think Life is Wasted.
Champ Clark of Missouri is opposed to creating a salary of $50,000 a year for the speaker of the house of representatives. He thinks congress wastes much time wrangling about bills that are mostly for imaginary damages, anyhow. "Here I would like to see the salary of the speaker of the house of representatives," he said the other day in great dignity, "each of whom is getting a salary of $50,000 a year, to say nothing of whatever private income he may have, and we can all be called at any time to sit in judgment over a mile."

WESTERN CANADA MILIONS.
I have used Pe-tu-na for a long time and I have never had a cold since. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since. I have used it since and I have never had a cold since.
