Michigan Happenings

He Punished the Fiend Severely.

Friday night Mrs. E. P. Fulmer, the wife of a farmer living some three miles north of Mancelona, had her suspicions aroused by the actions of her eleven-year-old daughter and, upon careful inquiry from the child, the lat ter alleged she had been assaulted by Herman Frickey, the hired man, on the evening of May 30, during the absence of the family, and that the little girl also 6 son about 10 years, who was present and witnessed the act, had been kept quiet during all these months by Frickey's threats to kill them if they revealed his crime. Mrs. Fulmer's suspicions were aroused by the fact of the child taking medicine which it seems Frickey had procured for her. Frickey was absent at the time of the revelation by the little girl, but returned to the Fulmer home where he was still working, some two hours later. The father of the girl met him at the door and pistol-whipped him with the butt of his revolver, beating his face almost to a pulp during the night would every fifteen or twenty minutes repeat the punishment, and Saturday morning after breakfast Frickey in the barn the father ran to Mancelona and procured a warrant for Frickey's arrest. Frickey, who is about 25 years old, has always stood in the village as one of good character, and no sympathy is expressed for the fiend, though his appearance is such as to make even the physicians who treated his wounds unwell. It is the general pummeling which the child's father gave him during the night, sick and faint.

Railway Taxation Suits.

The railroad attorneys in the railway taxation cases on trial at Lansing, placed T. J. G. Bolt, another field man for the state tax commission, on the stand to testify as to the assessment of general property. One of his statements concerning inequality of assessment was that many assessing officers had engaged in the practice of placing a higher valuation upon the property of non residents than that of residents.

A. F. Partiarche, general traffic manager of the Pere Marquette system, testified for the railways in their suit against the state over the assessment of their properties, that the electric railways and the sleeping car companies were doing the same kind of business as the steam railway companies, yet were not taxed in the same way. The purpose of this testimony was to show that the tax law was invalid because it discriminated.

Ripper Law Attacked.

Judge Shepard has granted a writ of mandamus ordering Supervisor Edmunds, of Lilley township, to show cause why he should not present the assessment rolls of his township to the Bay county board of supervisors for the purpose of equalization and apportionment of state taxes. The petition for the writ states that the detaching of Gibson township reduces the number of townships in Bay county below the number which is fixed for a county by the constitution; that it divides a county, placing parts thereof in two separate senatorial districts, and that the transfer of Gibson to Arenac county was made without the consent of the people of either Bay or Arenac counties.

Montague's Taxes.

The latest incident in the business affairs of Charles Montague, of Caro, is the filing of a petition by Terry F. Powers, auditor-general of Michigan, in behalf of the state. He represents that the state is entitled to about $8,000 for taxes assessed upon a large quantity of land for and prior to the year 1900, and interest at 1 per cent a month. The petitioner represents that he should be allowed to sell the lands and that the title to be conveyed should cut off all other titles, claims, liens and demands. There was a decree made for distributing taxes to be a lien upon the lands February 25, 1902. These lands are the same included in the schedule of assets belonging to Montague.

Olds Wants the Flats.

R. S. Olds, of Lansing, has made a demand upon State Land Commissioner Wildey for a deed to the property of the Lake Flats Hunting and Shooting club and other Flats lands to which he was recently decreed to be entitled by the supreme court. Olds holds certain swamp land scrip, upon which he claims the lands. Commissioner Wildey declined to issue the deeds until he could confer with the attorney-general. The lands claimed by Olds do not constitute all the valuable properties at the Flats, but a large proportion of them. The title to other lands is now being tried out in the supreme court.

Cost an Eye.

A brassie wielded by H. A. Babcock with great force on the Ann Arbor golf links Saturday afternoon broke, and the heavy, flying 30 feet and struck Prof. George Hempl on the right eye with such force as to knock him senseless. Dr. Flemming Carrow, the specialist, subsequently ascertained that in order to preserve the sight of the left eye it was necessary to remove the injured one, and this was done Monday. Prof. Hempl is an eminent teacher of philology and English linguistics.

Francis Teal, the 85-year-old hermit of Six-Mile Creek who was found unconscious on the street in Owosso Saturday night with an ugly cut in his head, is said by a man who was with him earlier in the evening to have received the injury as the result of a fall while drunk. Teal cannot tell how he met with the accident.

City Hall Burned.

Fire gutted Cheboygan's city hall Wednesday morning, leaving nothing but the bare walls standing. The building was erected in 1887 at a cost of $35,000, and the upper portion was used for an opera house. The origin of the fire is attributed to electric wires, and the supposition is that the fire burned for some time before eating its way to an air vent. The insurance on the building and furnishings amounts to $27,000. It is thought the old walls will do to rebuild on. The burned building and the records destroyed in the fire are a total loss.

Resist Tax Computation.

It was announced Monday at a meeting of the special committee that Wayne county supervisors are seriously considering the advisability of unanimously refusing to spread the tax bills, thereby placing the burden upon the ship assessment rolls and forcing the commissioner to file the whole duplicate with the auditor general. Should the matter come to a vote it is believed that a majority of the members would refuse to spread the tax, in consequence of the prosecuting attorney's decision.

Food and Gun.

Seraphin Vizzo, of Ellisville, Otsego county, while cleaning a rifle in the hands of Pat Connors. There was a search at Connors' house Saturday night, and about 2 o'clock in the morning Vizzo's body was found in the woods. Dr. J. A. Bliss, of Otsego Lake, was called and pronounced the case one of suicide. Vizzo was 22 years old and resided with his parents. He left a wife and child.

Dowie in New York.

"Elijah" Dowie's entrance to New York at the head of his 4,000 crusaders of the "Restoration Host" was not as "pleasant as he might have wished. In the first place he arrived at the Grand Central station, thus passing the crowds who were awaiting him at the West Shore railroad ferry, and where his private carriage with his blooded horses was awaiting him. So Dr. Dowie leader, with his host and two companions took a public hack to the Plaza hotel, where "Elijah" and his chief officers have splendid apartments. Arriving at the hotel Mr. Dowie discovered that many of the contingent at the Grand Central station to disembark at their own expense to the palace on Fifth avenue and have robbed the Restoration host of $1,000 or more.

Senator Platt's Wedding.

Senator Thos. Collier Platt stole a march on his friends and others interested in the plans for his marriage to Mrs. Lillian F. Janeway, which was announced for next Thursday morning at the Marble Collegiate church. The wedding party did not appear and there was no explanation until nearly noon, when it was announced from Senator Platt's office that they had been married early today at the residence of the immediate members of Mr. Platt's and Mrs. Janeway's families.

Mrs. Janeway's home is a handsome one, and the ceremony was performed in the parlor, which had any profusion of bunting or flags, but still for breath of perfume against Senator Platt, she charged her friends to keep secret the affair. Miss Wood's presence in New York was one of the chief reasons for the wedding preceding at the time and manner.

Miss Wood is reported to be about $2,000 better off than she was earlier in the week.

Was Neglectful Jailer.

Tried Guy James B. Tillman, who has been on trial for shooting and killing Editor Gonzales at Columbia, S. C., some time ago, was Thursday morning found not guilty. Tillman, who is a nephew of the notorious Senator Tillman, last January murdered Editor Gonzales, of the newspaper called the State, on the streets of Columbia, and shot him down in cold blood. Gonzales was not armed. Gonzales, through his paper, had opposed Tillman's political views. Tillman, it is declared by the jury, was justified in killing Gonzales, because he had threatened to kill Tillman and one of his fellow workers that if Tillman attacked him he (Gonzales) would "shoot him so full of holes that he would look like a sieve." This fact was brought out by the defense during the trial, but nothing was adduced to show that Gonzales had ever threatened to shoot Tillman except in self-defense.

The Smit Plants.

The Canadian Soo is in a fever of excitement and the American Soo is to a certain extent affected by the news from Toronto that some of the plants, at least of the Consolidated Lake Superior Co., are soon to be operated. The reports in full vouching be confirmed at the offices of the company, but Mr. Coyne did say that men were to be sent into the woods soon to take out what timber had already been cut and if affairs were satisfied before this work was done these men and others would be kept in the woods. The provincial government is to guarantee the wages of these men.

Gompers' Warning.

A warning to capital against cutting wages, if financial depression comes, by President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, and a plea for harmony between employers and toilers by Senator Hanna were made at the closing session of the National civic federation conference in Chicago. He said: "If the time comes to suggest the advisability of the employer to cutting or making any attempt to cut wages it will be disputed by us. We will not be that easily. We will make a stand against it, not alone because it is uneconomic and unwise, but because it simply accentuates the evil underlying crisis and gives it greater strength."

Senator Hanna, as did a number of the other speakers, including those for the capital and labor, advised conference in all questions to look at both sides, and praised the element of industrial peace. The success in main taining industrial peace said Mr. Hanna was a great factor in the solution of questions of wages. The present chairman of industry, he said, and the leaders, he added, were willing to extend to forces organized by labor the recognition which is not the unit disposition of those who do not belong to organized labor, and this was necessary.

Extra Session in Cuba.

The special policy issued is practically called upon the Cuban congress in extraordinary session on Nov. 12 to consider the annexation states that the purpose of this session is to submit to the congress the convention between the United States and Cuba, which requires the approval of congress. United States Consul-General Steinhart, at Havana, says: "Cuba is bankrupt and cannot pay the rate of $20,000,000 a year, and I confidently believe that in six months after the passage of the treaty the total will be doubled. Most of the increase will be in coffee, the good effect of which upon the prosperity of the island will be quickly regain the Cuban market and sell much more to the island than ever before."

The Alaskan Boundary.

The Alaskan boundary commission has sent agreement signed by all the commissioners, including Lord Alverstone, with the exception of those interested in the Portland canal, which Canada wins. All that now remains to be done is for the commissioners to affix their signatures to the decision and complete the maps which will accompany it. On the map will be marked the boundary line definitely fixing the status of Pyramid Point and Perish Island, on which a basis that no American citizen will have a foot of land he already believed he held, while all United States will get all the waterways to the rich Alaskan territory with the exception of the Portland canal, which gives Canada the only outlet she so much needed.

Bryan Says Issue Is Dead.

Prof. James W. Bradshaw, of the Iowa Commercial college, presents the views of his party on the issues that Bryan, in an interview with him, had declared the silver issue dead and quotes the apostle of 16 to 1 further to this effect: "Had I dropped free silver in 1896 I would have been elected president." Bryan, Bradshaw repeats, not only admitted that free silver would not be an issue before the convention of 1904, but that it is his opinion that it never again would be a national problem in the United States. Bradshaw says Bryan based this theory on the fact that the nations of the world will not change their gold basis, and it would be impossible to change the current of the ways.

Gushing Letters Read.

For the first time since the commencement of the famous Adams-Baker breach of promise case in trial in Grand Rapids several letters written by the pretty plaintiff were read in court Saturday. The first dated October 9, 1901, and was mailed by defendant while the latter was working in the northern part of Minnesota. It read in part:

My Dear Stuart: You would not have kissed me tonight for Ned Hurd was standing on the sidewalk. You would have to take me on the side of the house in the shadows. I am very lonesome tonight. * * * * * Stuart, darling, I cannot stand it much longer. I hope he himbee soon, or break up soon, so that you can return to me. I am proud of my boy for you. I wish you were near me. Lowood else anything to hold you close. There is nothing so good as to care for one like I do you. Stuart, I hope you just feel it way off where you are. Here is a close kiss for you. Yours lovingly, HENRIETTA.

Miss Adams on the witness stand that there was nothing indelicate in her request. "Stuart, hold me close." In explanation to what she meant by certain parts of her letter that are omitted she gave a reason that need not be elaborated upon.

The letters of the defendant read were of such a character that they aroused great interest. During the reading of them Miss Adams wept. Her brother who sat beside her, looked sternly at the defendant and it seemed that he was exerting the greatest control over himself to prevent himself from using something rash.

The Blockade of the Flats.

The steamer John N. Glidden, sunk in St. Clair Flats canal by the barge Maxima of the steel trust fleet, will be a total loss and will be abandoned by the government as an obstruction to navigation. The work started by the Maxima Friday morning when she crashed through the bank of the lake and carried away everything back almost to the pilot house and nine feet down from the main deck was completed by six other boats which, seeing the wreck in passing and practically broke her to pieces.

Two negro women inmates died from fright as the result of a fire-in Grady hospital, Atlanta.

Senator H. A. Aldrich and Cornelius N. Bliss, representatives of the interests have left Prescott, Ariz., for Los Angeles.
