Against Winter Catarrh in Its Many Phases.

Neglected Colds in Children Often Bring Disastrous Results.

Pe-ru-na should be kept in the house all the time. Pe-ru-na should be kept in every home where there are children. Don't wait until the child is sick when you should have it.

Pe-ru-na Protects the Entire Household Against Catarrhal Diseases.

As soon as the value of Pe-ru-na is fully appreciated by every household, both as a preventive and cure of catarrhal affections, tens of thousands of lives will be saved, and hundreds of thousands of suffering, lingering cases of disease prevented. Pe-ru-na is a household safeguard.

ANNA R. BROWN

Mrs. J. M. Brown, Danvers, N. H., writes: "My little daughter three years old was troubled with a very bad cough which remained after an attack of catarrhal fever. She has taken one bottle of Pe-ru-na through which she has obtained a complete cure. She is now as well and happy as a little girl can be. Her friends say how well she looks! I tell them Pe-ru-na did it."

Later letter she says: "Our little daughter continues to have good health."

Mrs. J. M. Brown, Danvers, N. H., writes: "In the early part of last year I wrote to you for advice for my daughter Alice, four years of age. She has been a pesty, sickly, ailing child since her birth. She has had several attacks of catarrhal fever. I was always doctoring until we commenced to use Pe-ru-na. She grew strong and well. Pe-ru-na is a wonderful tonic; the best medicine I have ever used. I was in a very wretched condition when I commenced to take Pe-ru-na. I had catarrh all through my whole body, but thank God, your medicine cured me all right. I would not have any other medicine. Pe-ru-na cured my baby boy of a very bad spell of cold and fever. He is a big healthy boy fifteen months old. I have given Pe-ru-na off and on since he was born. I think that I have no one so well. I cannot praise Pe-ru-na enough. We have not had a doctor since we began to use Pe-ru-na—no price to it."—Mrs. Schafer.

Be Sure to Have Pe-ru-na on Hand During the Inclement Months of Fall and Winter. Croup, capillary bronchitis, and asthmatic rheumatism are the special braves of childhood. These all strike most fatally in the winter months. One child catches cold and scours its mother into hysterics by leaving coughing all night. Another child catches cold and develops that most fatal malady of childhood, capillary bronchitis. Still another child catches cold and develops that most fatal malady of childhood, capillary bronchitis. The doctor is called, pneumonia is the result, and the child is lucky enough to live if he does not develop lung fever from which it may never recover.

IS A GAME FIGHTER. OLD CUSTOMS THAT SURVIVE. Preparing Bulgarian Bridgework for Wedding Ceremony.

The shaving of the bridegroom on his wedding day is an ancient custom which, handed down from pre-Christian days, is still observed with due formality, especially in country districts. While the barber is at his task a dancing crowd of young folks surrounds him and the bridegroom, as the latter's hair is cut the spectators are carefully selected by some of the girls for preservation in one of the bride's chests. The barber, when his work is done, receives a small white linen cloth as a present, and also a trilling sum of money from each person there. Then the bridegroom kisses the hands of all the girls, washes his face and dries his wedding dress, which must first be carefully weighed three times by one of the girls.

"Dusted, Gash!"

"I'm the gent was the 'miser from the North Pacific Coast"—Yes—that's me! As I're true I had the million, putty near, that almost—

An' they said the 'game was easy'—so I confidently came. An' o' course I didn't understand that I would be the 'game'!

"They ketch me long o' Copper, an' they ketch me long o' Steel; Some see the fault is Morgan's—some talks a lot o' Well—They ketch me long o' Margins, an' they swiped me hard-earned cash—An' I drifted from th' Waldorf 'till the place the gals love 'tashed!"

"I was long o' Steel at 40, 'averaged it at 25; Put some to rest on 'em, 'bored again at 20; At 15 they tetch me gently—I was 'most hated there— But they still ketch 'em 'n' 'n' 'n'—so 'till you get me out at 10!"

"I've borrowed '200—'an' I'm gosh' back out West. Where a feller buys his counters and then faces just like the best. I'm gosh' 't found a Stock Exchange, or traps a gambler's dive, Or some other decent callin', with a 'chance 't keep alive!"

Dwell as Brothers

Baron Kotama, the Japanese minister of finance, recently made a visit of inspection to a remarkable village in the Sanmy district of Chikugo. The minister's curiosity had been aroused by reports regarding the communal system in the village, and he went there to see for himself how the system worked.

The name of the village is Minamoto. It contains about 300 families, the total number of inhabitants being 1,200. It is to be noted that the village, Namihi, that the credit of having brought the community to its present condition is almost wholly due to the efforts of Baron Kotama. He has after having directed the village affairs for nine years.

In educational matters Minamoto is not behind the most advanced of the Japanese cities. Every one of the 120 boys who have reached school age is attending school. Of the 102 girls 80 attend school, while of the 100 others most are only reading temporarily in the community. The school has a permanent fund, amounting to about 12,000 yen ($5,000), which yields an income more than sufficient to pay the school expenses, although but a cent is asked in the way of fees for the children.

This system of managing the village is practically the same as that of other public affairs, and beginning this year the village office has begun the work of creating another permanent fund of 10,000 yen, the interest of which is to be used to meet all the rates and taxes the villagers have to pay. When this fund is complete the villagers will be practically exempt from the payment of any public taxes.

To accidental eyes the most remarkable feature of the community is the absence of crime, which is strictly enforced. No silk garments are tolerated and the giving of banquets on the enrollment or disbandment of conscripts, a customary throughout Japan, is discouraged. No plans are made to inculcate habits of thrift and diligence among the villagers.

Every one of the members of the community are all zealous Buddhists—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mrs. Weisslitz, president of the German Women's Club of Buffalo, N. Y., after doctoring for two years, was finally cured of her kidney trouble by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Of all the diseases known to which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. It is, indeed, unless promptly and correct treatment is applied, the worst patient seldom survives.

It was in the year 1900, early in her career, that Mrs. Weisslitz was afflicted with kidney trouble. She was then 35 years of age, and she had been married for two years. She was then 35 years of age, and she had been married for two years.

For two years my life was simply a burden. I suffered so with female troubles, and pains across my back and loins. The doctor told me that I had kidney troubles and prescribed medicine. My husband then advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought home a bottle. It is the greatest blessing ever brought to our home.

My pain had disappeared, my complexion became clear, my eyes bright, and my nerves in good shape.—Mrs. L. A. WEISSLITZ, 170 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Prof that Kidney Trouble can be Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel very thankful to you for the good your medicine has done me. I had doctoring for years and was steadily growing worse. I had trouble with my kidneys, and two doctors told me I had Bright's disease; also had falling of the womb, and could not walk a block at a time. My back and head ached all the time, and I was so nervous I could not sleep; had hysteria and fainting spells, was tired all the time, had such a pain in my left side that I could hardly stand at times without putting my foot on something."

I doctoring with several good doctors, but they did not help me. I took all twelve bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of Liver Pills, and took three packages of Sarsaparilla Wash, and feel like a new woman, can eat and sleep well, do all my own work, and can walk two miles without feeling tired. The doctors tell me that my kidneys are all right now. I am so happy to be well, and I feel that I owe it all to your medicine.—Mrs. URSULA STROGGS, Dalton, Mass.

LEGEND OF THE SEA. There's a bell that warns seamen of imminent danger. There is a delightful legend among the people of Point Prim to the effect, that when the English attacked the French fort at that place, a chain-belt from one of the attacking vessels cut the stepple from the old church located on the very point. In falling, it toppled over the promontory and carried the bell which it contained into the sea.
