

PARIS IS ABOVE ALL.

Most Beautiful and Attractive of the World's Cities—French Capital Exercises a Charm That Is to Be Found Nowhere Else.

(Special Correspondence.)

HE CITY OF PARIS, after all, is the most attractive city on the globe. London is larger, New York is grander, Berlin and Vienna are splendid capitals, but none appeals to the visitor like Paris.

When it comes to triangles and crooked streets she is far and away ahead of any of the above mentioned towns; but she also has her matchless boulevards, her noble parks, her intensely interesting historical buildings, more palaces than any other metropolis.

Paris has so many squares, avenues, circles, etc., at the intersection of wide, beautiful and well-shaped avenues that it is a task to keep track of them all.

Paris is the greatest art center in the world. Berlin and Vienna dispute this, but they are impartial observers, who look into the matter coming to any other conclusion. There are over 200,000 students in Paris and the number is crowding. None of her German rivals has half as many only.
