

THE MICHIGAN NEWS

What is Doing in All Sections of the State

It looks as if Pennell concluded take a change of venue.

As Sir Thomas confidently remarks, all is over now—except the trial.

A defeated prize fighter can find more success than a woman suing for divorce.

It is almost time now for patriotic poets to bring rhyme defiance with defiance.

Prof. Wallace's idea that the earth is at the center of the universe does not surprise Boston.

Robbing the Standard Oil Company is like spilling oil from a man's box—just a matter of time.

Ladies, drop a sympathetic tear. The man who originated the theater paper dress pattern is dead.

The bartenders have formed a total abstinence society. They know the character of the stuff they fix.

Are we to have a snapshot at Reggie snapping his whip? It all depends upon who got the first snap.

A second hurricane in a period of four years is more than the Samsons Islands ought to be called upon to endure.

The mushroom crop is now ready to be picked. But be careful that the footstool of commerce doesn't butt into the mess.

Dakota divorces and New Jersey chatters seem to be catching it all around. They are companions in judicial misery.

The activity of the volcanoes in Mexico and the West Indies indicates that some kind of an underground war is going on.

As to Mrs. Russell Sage's remarks on echoing social life, Uncle Russell may be depended upon for a roundabout answer.

J. Pierpont Morgan is going to Europe next week, but there seems to be no indication that he has resigned his job or intends to.

William Waldorf Astor has bought another castle, but he has not as yet decided to find a title that seems to fill all requirements.

When the date of his coronation King Edward has ordered four barrels of Kentucky whiskey. There must be a leak somewhere.

"If you want to get an office in London," advises the Philadelphia Ledger, "commit a crime. So? Weather still bad? Or is it despicable?"

Mrs. Rah of Baltimore, herself seventy-eight, has three friends, each over 100 years old, for whom she does and provides. Hurray for Mrs. Rah!

These Sam will have jobs for about 40,000 men who are being laid off from the big ditch. But he says your hands don't blister early for you apply.

Having so many good excuses to offer, Whitaker Wright should be glad to get back to London and bring them conscientiously to notice before a court of law.

Gotham has had to stand a good deal, but he designated as the "South American revolution factory" is straining the limit severely.

The drinking of kerosene as a beverage is said to have increased to alarming proportions in France. Perhaps it is this that makes the Parisian so light-headed.

Edward Ascher was convicted in Detroit Saturday night. He was sentenced to 18 months in the Michigan State Prison at Marquette for the crime of larceny from the person. Ascher was arrested at his home in Detroit on the charge of larceny from the person of a woman named Edna. Ascher was found guilty of the crime and sentenced to 18 months in the Michigan State Prison at Marquette. Ascher was arrested at his home in Detroit on the charge of larceny from the person of a woman named Edna. Ascher was found guilty of the crime and sentenced to 18 months in the Michigan State Prison at Marquette.

Robbing the Standard Oil Company is like spilling oil from a man's box—just a matter of time.

Ladies, drop a sympathetic tear. The man who originated the theater paper dress pattern is dead.

The bartenders have formed a total abstinence society. They know the character of the stuff they fix.

Are we to have a snapshot at Reggie snapping his whip? It all depends upon who got the first snap.

A second hurricane in a period of four years is more than the Samsons Islands ought to be called upon to endure.

The mushroom crop is now ready to be picked. But be careful that the footstool of commerce doesn't butt into the mess.

Dakota divorces and New Jersey chatters seem to be catching it all around. They are companions in judicial misery.

The activity of the volcanoes in Mexico and the West Indies indicates that some kind of an underground war is going on.

As to Mrs. Russell Sage's remarks on echoing social life, Uncle Russell may be depended upon for a roundabout answer.

J. Pierpont Morgan is going to Europe next week, but there seems to be no indication that he has resigned his job or intends to.

William Waldorf Astor has bought another castle, but he has not as yet decided to find a title that seems to fill all requirements.

When the date of his coronation King Edward has ordered four barrels of Kentucky whiskey. There must be a leak somewhere.

"If you want to get an office in London," advises the Philadelphia Ledger, "commit a crime. So? Weather still bad? Or is it despicable?"

Mrs. Rah of Baltimore, herself seventy-eight, has three friends, each over 100 years old, for whom she does and provides. Hurray for Mrs. Rah!

These Sam will have jobs for about 40,000 men who are being laid off from the big ditch. But he says your hands don't blister early for you apply.

Having so many good excuses to offer, Whitaker Wright should be glad to get back to London and bring them conscientiously to notice before a court of law.

Gotham has had to stand a good deal, but he designated as the "South American revolution factory" is straining the limit severely.

The drinking of kerosene as a beverage is said to have increased to alarming proportions in France. Perhaps it is this that makes the Parisian so light-headed.

The Holland strike appears to have collapsed, and the anti-trike bill is expected to pass. Some reports as to how we can judge at this distance there is nothing in these two facts to cause rejoicing.

These remarks considered a rigid examination of the Michigan State Prison at Marquette. The Philadelphia and Hong Kong and numerous other corporations of the State have been organized to raise money for the commission. The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy. The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy.

Robbing the Standard Oil Company is like spilling oil from a man's box—just a matter of time.

Ladies, drop a sympathetic tear. The man who originated the theater paper dress pattern is dead.

The bartenders have formed a total abstinence society. They know the character of the stuff they fix.

Are we to have a snapshot at Reggie snapping his whip? It all depends upon who got the first snap.

A second hurricane in a period of four years is more than the Samsons Islands ought to be called upon to endure.

The mushroom crop is now ready to be picked. But be careful that the footstool of commerce doesn't butt into the mess.

Dakota divorces and New Jersey chatters seem to be catching it all around. They are companions in judicial misery.

The activity of the volcanoes in Mexico and the West Indies indicates that some kind of an underground war is going on.

As to Mrs. Russell Sage's remarks on echoing social life, Uncle Russell may be depended upon for a roundabout answer.

J. Pierpont Morgan is going to Europe next week, but there seems to be no indication that he has resigned his job or intends to.

William Waldorf Astor has bought another castle, but he has not as yet decided to find a title that seems to fill all requirements.

When the date of his coronation King Edward has ordered four barrels of Kentucky whiskey. There must be a leak somewhere.

"If you want to get an office in London," advises the Philadelphia Ledger, "commit a crime. So? Weather still bad? Or is it despicable?"

Mrs. Rah of Baltimore, herself seventy-eight, has three friends, each over 100 years old, for whom she does and provides. Hurray for Mrs. Rah!

These Sam will have jobs for about 40,000 men who are being laid off from the big ditch. But he says your hands don't blister early for you apply.

Having so many good excuses to offer, Whitaker Wright should be glad to get back to London and bring them conscientiously to notice before a court of law.

Gotham has had to stand a good deal, but he designated as the "South American revolution factory" is straining the limit severely.

The drinking of kerosene as a beverage is said to have increased to alarming proportions in France. Perhaps it is this that makes the Parisian so light-headed.

The Holland strike appears to have collapsed, and the anti-trike bill is expected to pass. Some reports as to how we can judge at this distance there is nothing in these two facts to cause rejoicing.

The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy. The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy.

Robbing the Standard Oil Company is like spilling oil from a man's box—just a matter of time.

Ladies, drop a sympathetic tear. The man who originated the theater paper dress pattern is dead.

The bartenders have formed a total abstinence society. They know the character of the stuff they fix.

Are we to have a snapshot at Reggie snapping his whip? It all depends upon who got the first snap.

A second hurricane in a period of four years is more than the Samsons Islands ought to be called upon to endure.

The mushroom crop is now ready to be picked. But be careful that the footstool of commerce doesn't butt into the mess.

Dakota divorces and New Jersey chatters seem to be catching it all around. They are companions in judicial misery.

The activity of the volcanoes in Mexico and the West Indies indicates that some kind of an underground war is going on.

As to Mrs. Russell Sage's remarks on echoing social life, Uncle Russell may be depended upon for a roundabout answer.

J. Pierpont Morgan is going to Europe next week, but there seems to be no indication that he has resigned his job or intends to.

William Waldorf Astor has bought another castle, but he has not as yet decided to find a title that seems to fill all requirements.

When the date of his coronation King Edward has ordered four barrels of Kentucky whiskey. There must be a leak somewhere.

"If you want to get an office in London," advises the Philadelphia Ledger, "commit a crime. So? Weather still bad? Or is it despicable?"

Mrs. Rah of Baltimore, herself seventy-eight, has three friends, each over 100 years old, for whom she does and provides. Hurray for Mrs. Rah!

These Sam will have jobs for about 40,000 men who are being laid off from the big ditch. But he says your hands don't blister early for you apply.

Having so many good excuses to offer, Whitaker Wright should be glad to get back to London and bring them conscientiously to notice before a court of law.

Gotham has had to stand a good deal, but he designated as the "South American revolution factory" is straining the limit severely.

The drinking of kerosene as a beverage is said to have increased to alarming proportions in France. Perhaps it is this that makes the Parisian so light-headed.

The Holland strike appears to have collapsed, and the anti-trike bill is expected to pass. Some reports as to how we can judge at this distance there is nothing in these two facts to cause rejoicing.

STATE LEGISLATURE

Brief Chronicle of Matters of Importance

The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy. The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy.

Robbing the Standard Oil Company is like spilling oil from a man's box—just a matter of time.

Ladies, drop a sympathetic tear. The man who originated the theater paper dress pattern is dead.

The bartenders have formed a total abstinence society. They know the character of the stuff they fix.

Are we to have a snapshot at Reggie snapping his whip? It all depends upon who got the first snap.

A second hurricane in a period of four years is more than the Samsons Islands ought to be called upon to endure.

The mushroom crop is now ready to be picked. But be careful that the footstool of commerce doesn't butt into the mess.

Dakota divorces and New Jersey chatters seem to be catching it all around. They are companions in judicial misery.

The activity of the volcanoes in Mexico and the West Indies indicates that some kind of an underground war is going on.

As to Mrs. Russell Sage's remarks on echoing social life, Uncle Russell may be depended upon for a roundabout answer.

J. Pierpont Morgan is going to Europe next week, but there seems to be no indication that he has resigned his job or intends to.

William Waldorf Astor has bought another castle, but he has not as yet decided to find a title that seems to fill all requirements.

When the date of his coronation King Edward has ordered four barrels of Kentucky whiskey. There must be a leak somewhere.

"If you want to get an office in London," advises the Philadelphia Ledger, "commit a crime. So? Weather still bad? Or is it despicable?"

Mrs. Rah of Baltimore, herself seventy-eight, has three friends, each over 100 years old, for whom she does and provides. Hurray for Mrs. Rah!

These Sam will have jobs for about 40,000 men who are being laid off from the big ditch. But he says your hands don't blister early for you apply.

Having so many good excuses to offer, Whitaker Wright should be glad to get back to London and bring them conscientiously to notice before a court of law.

Gotham has had to stand a good deal, but he designated as the "South American revolution factory" is straining the limit severely.

The drinking of kerosene as a beverage is said to have increased to alarming proportions in France. Perhaps it is this that makes the Parisian so light-headed.

The Holland strike appears to have collapsed, and the anti-trike bill is expected to pass. Some reports as to how we can judge at this distance there is nothing in these two facts to cause rejoicing.

The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy. The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy.

Robbing the Standard Oil Company is like spilling oil from a man's box—just a matter of time.

Ladies, drop a sympathetic tear. The man who originated the theater paper dress pattern is dead.

The bartenders have formed a total abstinence society. They know the character of the stuff they fix.

Are we to have a snapshot at Reggie snapping his whip? It all depends upon who got the first snap.

A second hurricane in a period of four years is more than the Samsons Islands ought to be called upon to endure.

The mushroom crop is now ready to be picked. But be careful that the footstool of commerce doesn't butt into the mess.

Dakota divorces and New Jersey chatters seem to be catching it all around. They are companions in judicial misery.

The activity of the volcanoes in Mexico and the West Indies indicates that some kind of an underground war is going on.

As to Mrs. Russell Sage's remarks on echoing social life, Uncle Russell may be depended upon for a roundabout answer.

J. Pierpont Morgan is going to Europe next week, but there seems to be no indication that he has resigned his job or intends to.

William Waldorf Astor has bought another castle, but he has not as yet decided to find a title that seems to fill all requirements.

When the date of his coronation King Edward has ordered four barrels of Kentucky whiskey. There must be a leak somewhere.

"If you want to get an office in London," advises the Philadelphia Ledger, "commit a crime. So? Weather still bad? Or is it despicable?"

Mrs. Rah of Baltimore, herself seventy-eight, has three friends, each over 100 years old, for whom she does and provides. Hurray for Mrs. Rah!

These Sam will have jobs for about 40,000 men who are being laid off from the big ditch. But he says your hands don't blister early for you apply.

Having so many good excuses to offer, Whitaker Wright should be glad to get back to London and bring them conscientiously to notice before a court of law.

Gotham has had to stand a good deal, but he designated as the "South American revolution factory" is straining the limit severely.

The drinking of kerosene as a beverage is said to have increased to alarming proportions in France. Perhaps it is this that makes the Parisian so light-headed.

The Holland strike appears to have collapsed, and the anti-trike bill is expected to pass. Some reports as to how we can judge at this distance there is nothing in these two facts to cause rejoicing.

The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy. The Michigan State Prison at Marquette is a model of efficiency and economy.