Rock Band won its English Derby. His American jockey also had plenty of grit.

It is easier to get married than divorced. That is one reason why there are more marriages.

The shipbuilding trust seems to have run on the rocks, although it drew a great deal of water.

Mr. Chamberlain seems to have come out of the mixup with his monochrome on straight, at all events.

Automobilists are protesting against critics running down the sport. But the public also has that rummy feeling.

One New York bank has paid a dividend of 125 per cent. This must make the average loan shark green with envy.

A Richmond newspaper suggests that the name be changed to slaughterhouse. What's the matter with automobiles?

Readers of the news from Serbia, the Sultan of Turkey is suddenly reminded of something he has for years been trying to forget.

Hetty Green had her permit to carry a revolver renewed. She is still as firmly determined as ever not to give up any of it.

Speaking of Boston and Emerson, we never could understand how so heavy a diet of beans is conducive to transcendentalism.

Occasionally you get a man you can't admire, but you can't help admiring that you want to beat him to death.—Arthur Globe.

Max O'Rourke's disinclination to exchange his hat for a halo is one that is shared by a great many people much more religious, ostensibly, than he was.

The botanist who has discovered a new kind of rubber makes his announcement in the nick of time. The old kind is about played out, even as a joke.

That alliance of South American republics will be a grand work if it can keep a "Monroe doctrine" which will evolve out the South American revolutionist.

A newspaper epigrammatist says: "Every wife is the architect of her own husband." Then she shouldn't be too severe on the editor when she catches the job.

The six girls who rushed at Korian, the violinist, just before his attack, called from New York, and lavished kisses on him, did not face the violinist. He assisted.

Stojan Protic is Serbia's new minister of the interior. "The supposition that he was a new kind of breakfast and appetizer, therefore, to have been entirely erroneous.

It is estimated by experts that John W. Gates worth only $200,000. This will come as a complete surprise to the public. It was generally supposed that Gates was rich.

Of his own recent illness Mark Twain blithely says: "Oh, that was a pleasant adventure, a sort of vacation, that gave me a legitimate excuse for spending five weeks in bed."

The Los Angeles Times feels hurt because the may department has given the name of "Cruiser" to a new "cruiser." And California has more than a thousand miles of coast line, too.

Andy Carnegie has denied that he is a member of the "smart set." Well, we don't know. Andy is smart enough to get $200,000,000 worth of gold-plated steel bonds. That wasn't so slow.

According to Prof. Fitzsimmons, the accomplished coniferous in albatribing, the greatest strike of the year will be that which will take place when the coniferous with Corbett in the rear future.

When Gov. Bailey says that he never read the 1500 letters addressed to him by women all over the country, proposing marriage, he taxes the credulity of inquisitive people away beyond the limit.

A Utica, N. Y., man has gone crazy because a report that he was heir to fortune proved to have been false. It is always well to refrain from getting worked up over such stories until one can put his hands on the money.

The scientists are right. This is the time of year to be specially careful that the children have their milk and drink. Their elders, of course, will continue the customary diet of beer and frankfurters.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Announcement is made that Olga Neterova will star as a "Gipsy Queen" at the next season, which will cause some to wonder what new law, conventionality or whatever it may be she has now discovered that she may ignore it.

New French theologian tells us that old-fashioned truthfulness is out of date. This may go into the box with the criticism that our Sunday schools are not swift enough.

Once more we have an opportunity to refresh our memories by running over the list of assassinations of rulers, beginning with Czar Caesar.

Perhaps Joseph Chamberlain would see things more clearly if he would give his single eye a pair of pair of gold-bowed spectacles.

Accident or Murder?

The incident in the case of the death of Warren Thorpe, the Black man township farmer, who was shot in his own house Sunday, June 14, is being investigated by the coroner. At the time, it was reported that he shot himself, and the report was generally accepted. The death was caused by some interested party who must have been in the house at the time. Powder marks on the face of the dead man, and other circumstances supported the theory that the murder was committed. The jury returned a verdict that the person who had killed the man had killed him. The theory of the verdict is that there is much mystery in connection with the death of the victim. It is believed Mrs. Thorpe is an object of suspicion. If Thorpe did not kill himself, it is believed that the person who did it is one who has been in the house.

THE OIL INDUSTRY

The announcement of the appointment of C. L. Benjamin, of Saginaw, as oil inspector for Michigan, will be a surprise to many. The appointment will be made, but the date is not yet fixed. Benjamin's term will expire June 30. Both Judson and Benjamin were in Saginaw on Thursday, although Benjamin was the governor. Judson suggested that it was a bad time to stop the middle of the year, and Benjamin declared that it was pretty busy just at this time himself. They agreed to the governor's suggestion that it was a good plan to permit Judson to serve until January 1, and upon finding a law which would permit Benjamin to take office on January 1, Benjamin agreed to the arrangement, which was an amicable one at all times. ### Horribly Injured.

Miss Anna Leatham, of Grand Rapids, 16 years old, while returning from work Wednesday afternoon, was severely injured by a vicious cow that had been grazing in the street. The cow caught her on the neck and threw her into the air, where she fell to the ground. Labors at work nearby found her and carried her to the hospital. She was terribly injured, and one of her arms was broken. She is now in the hospital, and her condition is very serious. Her father, John Taylor, the 70-year-old pioneer resident of the lake Superior copper country who is a well known lumberman, is very anxious to see his daughter recovered.

Miss Anna Leatham, of Grand Rapids, 16 years old, while returning from work Wednesday afternoon, was severely injured by a vicious cow that had been grazing in the street. The cow caught her on the neck and threw her into the air, where she fell to the ground. Labors at work nearby found her and carried her to the hospital. She was terribly injured, and one of her arms was broken. She is now in the hospital, and her condition is very serious. Her father, John Taylor, the 70-year-old pioneer resident of the lake Superior copper country who is a well known lumberman, is very anxious to see his daughter recovered.
