LIVE STOCK

Feeding Regularly.

When animals are fed in the barn, regularity of feeding is a requisite. Especially is this so in the winter time when the stock are not getting any of their feed from the pasture. The animal stomach as well as the human stomach quickly rebels if it be not treated in a perfectly regular manner. T. B. Terry, in a work on the care of horses and cattle, says:

Four years ago I bought a fine team of workhorses. They were six years old, and in extra good condition—got up to sell, the neighbors said. They had been used to grain three times a day; what as I do not feed workhorses much if any grain, but rather keep them on early-cut clover and timothy hay—dried grass—I began, after a little, feeding them on hay alone. Of course, I made the change gradually. Every few weeks I drove them to the scales and had them weighed, and they gained steadily all winter. Their total gain in weight was 320 lbs., although in prime order to start with. They were altogether too fat; but I enjoyed the experiment. My best friends could hardly believe that the horses got no grain—that such flesh and life (it was business to handle them) came from dried grass alone. They did not do much if any hard work during the winter, but were always used enough for exercise. Now; how were they fed, for dried grass alone did not do the business? Regularly, three times a day, what they would eat up clean in from sixty to ninety minutes, and then watered as regularly and as many times. Then they were regularly and thoroughly curried, and, of course, kept in a warm stable. At their best weight they weighed about 1,400 lbs. each, and ate, on an average, about 30 lbs. of hay apiece each day. It was wonderfully choice hay, however, and they were good horses; but it was only by the most careful attention in feeding that they could have been made to show any such gain. It would have been an easy matter to feed them more, and have them lose flesh; so under some circumstances it takes less feed to fat ten an animal than to run him down which goes to show that feeding is an important matter.

Selling Cattle at the Stockyards.

The stock is driven from the car onto the receiving platform, and from this it is driven by chutes to the pens in various parts of the yards. One may unload a carload of stock, drive it into an alley adjoining the platform and thence to any part of the yards desired. Cross gates are at frequent intervals, which will permit one to direct his stock at his pleasure without trouble. After the stock is placed in pens it is available for sale The shipper usually turns it over to a commission firm to sell, although this is not a necessity. Yet one not regularly on the market cannot sell to as good advantage as can the regular dealers. This is because irregular sellers are not in touch with the buyers, so as to secure a wide range of custom. The animals received in stock yards usually reach the market very early in the morning, and by noon the active business of the day is about completed. There are two classes of men in the yards about the pens, the commission men selling and the buyers. The first thing each morning these men inform themselves regarding the quotations on the various classes and grades of stock and the visible supply. If the supply is short and the demand for certain grades is active, then the buyers seek the salesmen; but if the market is dull and indifferent, then the sellers seek the buyers. Where men buy for the packing houses, they receive a daily statement of the slaughter record of the animals purchased by them at previous hours.—Prof. Chas. S. Plumb

The Unnatural Hog.

It is quite necessary to raise the hog under unnatural conditions, if it is to be kept fit for his work of fitting himself suitable to be eaten by man. Under natural conditions the hog has just the opposite object in life. He follows nature and has a tendency to escape all the animals that would make food out of him. These people are sticklers for doing every thing just as nature does it, forgetting that we have disregarded the objects that Nature had in view. If we have to follow Nature we would turn the hog out into a good-sized pasture and tell him to root for himself, and he would do it. But he would grow lean in so doing, instead of fat, and when man came to want him for a dinner he would be found wiry and tough and hard to catch. He would also be found to have become a good fighter. His meat wouldn't sell on the market at any price. With a supply of hogs of that kind the big packing plants would have to go out of business. It is the unnatural hog that suits the purpose of man. He is kept in a small area and fed heavily from birth to slaughter. He can't run and he can't fight, but his flesh is tender and keeps the packing houses going.

Bill Nye's Cow.

The story is going the rounds of the press that Bill Nye, having a cow to sell, advertised her as follows:

"Owing to my ill health, I will sell at my residence, township 19, range 18 according to the government's survey one plush raspberry cow, aged 3 years. She is of undoubted courage and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her present home with a stay chain, but she will be sold to any one who will agree to treat her right. She is one-fourth Shorthorn and three-fourths hyena. I will also throw in a double-barrel shotgun, which goes with her. In May she usually goes away for a week or two and returns with a tail, red calf with wabbly legs. Her name is Rose I would rather sell her to a non-resident."

The wise farmer feeds his land through the live stock he keeps on his farm.

DYSPEPSIA A THING OF THE PAST.

If You Have Indigestion

this article ought to interest you. No matter what else you may do unless you study proper hygiene and diet your efforts will not amount to much. The Laxakola Co., 45 Vesey St., New York, have published a remarkable little book, "Advice to Dyspeptics," free to those who ask for it. It tells all about dyspepsia, its causes, what to eat and what not to, and if the advice is followed no one really need be troubled with indigestion. We sell their dyspepsia cure, Pepsikola Tablets, 25 cents, and are authorized to refund the money if the purchaser receives no benefit. Pepsikola Tablets tone up the stomach to do its own work by increasing the gastric juice and saliva. It is particularly recommended to those whose appetite is poor, with coated tongue, distress after eating and the other ills always attendant on dyspepsia.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR
stops the cough and heals lungs

MONEY DISEASES CAUSE ONE-THIRD OF THE TOTAL DEATHS.

When the Kidneys fail to perform their functions properly by not straining out the poisonous waste matter from the blood as it passes through them, the poisons are carried by the circulation to every part of the body, deranging the different organs. This causes heart trouble, stomach trouble, sluggish liver and a host of other ills, all due to deranged Kidneys.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

corrects irregularities and cures Kidney and Bladder diseases in every form, tones up the whole system, and the diseases that have resulted from disordered Kidneys disappear, because the cause has been removed. Commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at the first sign of danger. Do not risk having Bright's Disease or Diabetes.

CURED OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Mr. Robert G. Burke, Elnora, Saratoga Co., N.Y., writes:—I am glad to have an opportunity of telling what magnificent results I have had from using FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE after having tried other advertised medicines and several physicians. Before I began it I had to get up from 12 to 20 times each night to relieve my bladder. I was all bloated up with dropsy and my eyesight was so impaired that I could scarcely see any of my family across the room. In fact, I was so badly used up that I had given up hope of living when I was urged by a friend to try FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. One bottle built me wonderfully, and before I had taken the third bottle the superfluous flesh had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Kidney trouble. My friends were surprised that I was cured, as they all thought I was going to die. Every few days some one comes to see me to learn the name of the wonderful medicine that cured me of Bright's Disease, and not one that has tried it has failed to be benefitted.

School Notes

EDITED BY THE PUPILS.

Editor-in-Chief—CLARENCE WEST.

Mrs. Barr visited the school Tuesday.

Roy Terwilliger entered the 3d grade this week.

Mrs. J. N. Nye visited the 4th and 5th grades Monday.

The senior girls gave another of their debates Tuesday morning.

Mr. Clizbe was seen in the school building Tuesday morning.

Come in some morning and hear the beginners in German talk.

Miss Leepla reports two new pupils: Stewart Wirgman and Floyd Turner.

Wednesday afternoon the Misses Wallace and Miller, '03, visited the school.

The Geometry classes are having an interesting time in the exercises of book one.

The class in American Literature will take up the study of "The Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin" as soon as the books arrive.

For the first time this year all the kindergarten scholars were in their places this week. Miss Jenks is assisting Miss Hulburt.

"Dad" Lamb is a strong Ferris man. Many of the boys are Warner men. It is very interesting to hear the discussions that take place between them.

The boys of the football squad have purchased their uniforms and they may be seen every night on the gridiron. A game is promised in the near future.

The class in 9th grade English has taken up the subject of English grammar. It was found that many did not have even a fair understanding of this important branch.

The lower rooms have been deprived of their regular recess and instead the scholars are exercised under the supervision of the teacher. They receive more benefit in this way and much of the unnecessary noise is done away with.

During the past week a cement walk has been laid from the east entrance of the school building to the street walk. It is the desire of the school board to have a lawn on the southeast portion of the grounds. We would ask as a favor of the people who are in the habit of using this ground as a public thoroughthat they please use the walks and allow the board to beautify the school grounds. If all will aid them it can easily be done.

What is a kindergarten? A kindergarten is a garden of children, a guarded company, cared for as a gardener cares for his plants. The aim is the development of the physical, mental and moral nature. It is possible to so train the spontaneous activity of a child to reach this result. In so doing the basis is laid for a thorough education. The child at this early age takes his first lessons in self control, consideration for others, mastery of self, self help, self respect and industry. These all better opportunity offered for the education of the child and the teaching of the logical thinking, both of which are conducive to the future usefulness and happiness of the child.

AMATEUR PHILOSOPHY.

All the world despises a quitter.

Patience is an uneventful way that leads to success.

Some people are like a locomotive when the wheels slip. They make a lot of noise, but don't get ahead much.

The principal difference between a wise man and a fool is that a wise man doesn't make the same mistake more than once.
