THE RIGHT KIND TO BUY. You can buy Trusses for almost nothing, or you can pay a very high price for them; but the price of a Truss does not prove that it does not fit or stay in the place you need. Every case has to be fitted individually. That is where we have our big success with Trusses. No one goes out of our store with a Truss that does not fit perfectly. Therefore a great many people are wearing our Trusses and sending their friends to us for Trusses. If you are wearing a Truss and it does not fit right or stay in the place you need, come in and see us about it. We will tell you whether it is the right Truss for you to wear.

Poultry House Floors. It is much easier to build good walls to a poultry house than it is to build a floor that will be satisfactory.

A good many people try to get along with earth floors. These, however, have the great detriment of being damp, especially in cold weather.

As a result of damp floors come rheumatism, colds, run and digestive disorders. Cement floors also develop more or less dampness. This dampness, however, might be obviated by putting in a floor of concrete.

When a farmer has pure bred birds he should keep them pure and select from the general public to purchase the high quality birds they are producing for breeders.

Every breed was brought to its present perfection by selection and this process should be kept up so that the breeds may not deteriorate, but may continue to improve. There is room for improvement in every breed. If left to themselves all breeds tend to deteriorate, because inferior birds are being consorted with the general public and breeders they will help the work of reversion. It must be remembered that all that is good in the breeds is artificial. It would take a long time for some of our breeds to go back to the primeval form if they were left alone and pure, but it would take less time if they were allowed to mingle freely with all other kinds of poultry. In the barnyards of most of our farmers there is little select made to keep the fowls from mixing.

The result is that from year to year the standard becomes less reliable, and the water and more indistinct. When a farmer has pure bred birds he should keep them pure and select from the general public to purchase the high quality birds they are producing for breeders.

At the Illinois State Fair there was one exhibit that was very suggestive. It was of a portable poultry house, large enough to be used for camping out in it. It is a thick layer of broken stone. Generally our builders get back to the board floors raised the floor, and the floor is not above the earth. If it is desired to make this particularly good it should be Corbitt with tarred paper between. If the use of boards for flooring should be seen that the ventilation is good and that the floor is not approachable by rats. If the rats cannot get a foothold they cannot gnaw a hole through the floor.

Help the Creameryman. The creameryman and the cheese-maker are bound up with the man who produces the milk. That is the ordinary manufacturer badly made that the poultry would be exposed to drafts constantly throughout the winter.

The advantages of portable poultry houses are many, especially for tenants. There are many people who do not care to construct a poultry house to be on the place when they move. The portable poultry house can be made to suit the place and it makes the best possible bulk when placed on a wagon. Whoever builds such a house should make himself patterns beforehand that he may avoid mistakes in the construction.

Eggs in Winter. Some writer has said that if eggs could always be produced as abundantly in winter as in summer poultry would ways be profitable. It is hard to agree with the statement. If eggs were naturally as abundant in winter as in summer they would be no reason for high prices in winter. The reason why eggs are high in winter is because they are scarce. But for the good of the poultry industry and of the general public eggs should be produced about equally in all the months of the year. To be average prices might be a matter of care only and management. For the present the man or woman that will so care for their poultry and how neglected will produce the most eggs will be produced during the time when eggs are high in price will be making a large profit for themselves.
