KATY TALKS

There is quality in railway travel as in everything else. Trains and time are the essentials. The M. K. & T. Ry has that quality. I want you to know of it, try it and be convinced.

At this time of the year you are probably thinking about a winter trip. I'd suggest the Gulf Coast of Texas, San Antonio, Old Mexico or California, as being about as nearly perfect as climate and environment can make them. I have some very attractive literature about these resorts that I'd like to send you. May I? I'd rather talk to you, but if this is impossible, drop me a line and I'll be pleased to give you all the desired information. There are some special inducements too in the way of rates and through Katy Sleepers that I'd like you to know about. Address

MAGIC IN THE ZUNI TRIBE.

Priest Apparently Lifted a Jug of Water with a Feather.

"The most startling feat I ever saw" said a guest at the Diller last night, who has made a study of Indians in various parts of the United States for his own edification, "was performed by the priests of the Zuni tribe in Arizona, or, as they were called, 'The Ancients of Creation.' They seat themselves in a circle on the clay floor, around a jar that will hold perhaps a gallon, an ancient and sacred earthen vessel, which is filled with water. The chief priest carries in his hand two ordinary eagle feathers, which are tied together at the quill ends so that they make a fork. Behind the circle of the priests are other members of the tribe and the musicians with their drums and gourds, who join in the chants with emotion.

"The incantations continue for several hours and when the participants and spectators are brought up to a proper pitch of excitement the priest dips the feather tips into the water, lifts the jar with them and holds it suspended for a minute or two at a height level with his face or breast. Then he lowers it slowly to the ground. This feat is repeated several times during the performance. Apparently there is nothing in the hand of the priest but the feathers and they appear to be inserted into the mouth of the jar only two or three inches. Of course, there is some trick about it, but I was never able to discover it."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Kitten Nursed by a Pigeon.

In a cottage near the village of Newcastleton, Roxburghshire, a pigeon has evinced great friendliness for a kitten. With the consent of the old cat the bird has been sitting on the kitten and helping to look after it and play with it. The three constitute an incongruous but happy family.

ANOTHER LIFE SAVED.

Mrs. C. W. Fooks, of Salisbury, Md., wife of C. W. Fooks, Sheriff of Wicomico County, says: "I suffered with kidney complaint for eight years. It came on me gradually. I felt tired and weak, was short of breath and was troubled with bloating after eating, and my limbs were badly swollen. One doctor told me it would finally turn to Bright's disease. I was laid up at one time for three weeks. I had not taken Doan's Kidney Pills more than three days when the distressing aching across my back disappeared, and I was soon entirely cured."

Yaquis Not Savages

(Special Correspondence.)

"The Yaquis have broken loose again!" It is an old story. They have been engaged in intermittent wars with the Spaniards or Mexicans for nearly 400 years, and since 1825 the tribe has at no time been really at peace. Does this mean that they are bloodthirsty savages with an insatiable appetite for fighting? By no means. Dr. Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian institution, who has just returned from a visit to their country, made for the purpose of studying these interesting people, says that they are the finest and most virile race of natives in all Mexico.

The only trouble with them is that they want to be free, and will never give up their struggle for liberty. From their viewpoint, the Mexican government has no right to exercise authority over them, and their resistance to its control has found expression in a long series of rebellions.

The Yaquis, in fact, are the only tribe on this continent that, surrounded by whites from the beginning of modern history in the new world, has never been subdued. They have many wrongs of which to complain. The government of Mexico wages against them a war which spares neither age nor sex, and the militia largely recruited from criminals) commits many outrages against them. At the same time, the low class Mexicans are eager to get possession of their fertile lands. These conditions naturally give rise to much bitterness of feeling, and at intervals outbreaks occur, in which the Indians are not always defeated. This it will be, the Yaquis declare, until the very last of them is dead.

Former Homes Abandoned.

Until within very recent years, the Yaquis lived mainly in seven large towns of their own, and subsisted by cultivating the fertile neighboring country. But most of these settlements have now been abandoned to the Mexicans, and the former inhabitants are scattered all over southern Sonora. Some of them, who are called "free Yaquis," live a wild life in the mountains, or prowl in the almost impentrable mesquite and other forbidding undergrowth that covers the country along the river, harassing the soldiers whenever possible. But the majority are employed as laborers or artisans, on farms or in the towns, the Yaquis being the most capable and industrious workmen in Mexico.

The Yaquis are the best miners, they are the most capable mariners on the Sonoran coast, and they are expert in fishing for pearls. They make hats and fine mats of palm leaves, as well as reed baskets, and they gather the indigo which is produced in abundance along the rivers. They are also skillful hunters, are decidedly clever and they know how to manufacture both powder and ball for war purposes, though their chief weapons are bows and arrows, and for cartridge shells they are obliged to depend upon those which have been thrown away by the Mexican soldiers.

The rebellions are always started by the free Yaquis, who on such occasions are liable to be joined by auxiliary bands from the towns, stores of ammunition having been collected during the interval of peace. Then it is real war for a while, the militia pursuing the Indians through the underbrush and over the mountains, and now and then coming to close quarters with them in a fierce fight. The Mexicans, having Mauser rifles and plenty of ammunition, enjoy a great advantage, but frequently they are defeated with severe loss. They shoot the women and children when they get a chance, and they are very apt to hang the men whom they capture, while little mercy is shown to the wounded.

How They Live.

It might be supposed that these things were done in retaliation for outrages committed by the Yaquis, but such does not seem to be the case. Indeed, these Indians are much more humane, and in some ways more civilized, intelligent and brave, loving music and sport, and greatly appreciating wit and humor.

On the other hand, some of them are inclined to drink to excess, and they have a strong tendency to superstition. Their warfare is not that of savages, and they do not engage in expeditions of plunder or maraud. No member of the tribe has ever been known to turn traitor, even when his life was offered to him as a price for betraying his comrades.

The Yaqui house is usually a rectangular structure of poles and reeds, or of mud and reeds, with a flat or slightly sloping roof of grass and mud. Attached to the main hut is a sort of shelter in which the cooking and most of the indoor work are done. There is hardly any furniture. The inmates sleep on reed mats. A water jar, a saddle, one or more water gourds covered with mesh or rawhide, a violin or harp of native make, perhaps a blanket or two, a few crude pictures of religious subjects, and some more or less primitive cooking utensils make up the list of the family possessions.

Dress Much Like Mexicans.

The Yaquis of both sexes dress much like the everyday Mexicans. When a girl is of marriageable age, the bridegroom is chosen by her father. Young men who are ambitious of recognition as full-fledged warriors undergo tests of endurance, such as laceration by eagle's claws. Formerly there was a custom of exchanging wives, practiced at an annual ceremonial feast, and those who did not exchange wives on this occasion were not considered good Yaquis. The women carry their infants on their backs, attached to a baby-board of bamboo splints, at the head of which a bent hook supports a cloth to shade the head of the child.

There are still about 20,000 Yaquis, and their number seems to remain about the same, notwithstanding the losses of war. Fortunately the women are prolific.

Uncle Sam's Copper Pocket.

Walter Harvey Weed, in a recent number of the Mining Magazine, gives the following interesting facts:

The production of metallic copper in the United States for 1903 was 698,044,517 pounds, of a value of $91,506,666. In 1903, 41 per cent, or about 289,000,000 pounds, were produced from an area a mile long and one-half mile wide, at Butte, Montana; 26 per cent, or about 156,000,000 pounds, from a strip of country two to six miles long, extending through the corner of Keweenaw peninsula, Michigan, and 18 per cent, or 120,000,000 pounds, from four isolated districts in Arizona; of the remaining 12 per cent, the greater amount comes from Bingham, Utah; Keswick, Cal., and Ducktown, Tenn. The gold, and silver values of the country, notably those of Colorado, contribute about 1 per cent of the total production, which is obtained as a by-product in smelting for the precious metals.

Of the six largest mines in the world four are in the United States, the Anaconda mine of Butte itself furnishing one-seventh of the entire supply of copper, and the Calumet and Hecla nearly one-eighth.

Tibetan Costumes.

A traveler from Tibet reports that the native dress consists essentially of a very wide gown five and a half feet long, with long sleeves, tightened in at the waist and gathered up so as not to fall below the ankles of the men of quality, or the townsmen, nor below the knees of the common people, who are much walking and work to do. Thus gathered up, the gown puts out at the breast, forming a huge pocket. At night the wearer lets it fall and is thus wrapped up from his ears to his feet, as in a bed. Tibetan women wear the same gown—it is called a "chuba"—letting it hang down to the ankle. Their dress varies according to the locality to which they belong.

Latest Universal Language.

The work of forming new and scientific languages for universal use goes merrily on, and the newest candidate for a position with Volapuk and Esperanto is "Latin without inflections," the result of the labors of Prof. Giuseppe Peano, a mathematician of Turin. He has proposed to do away with genders, persons and cases, as was suggested by Leibnitz, but also with the moods and tenses.

Increasing Alpine Accidents.

All previous records in the matter of Alpine accidents were broken this year. Nearly 300 accidents occurred, while last year the number reached only 148. In fact, the accidents have increased eightfold within the last seven years.

AS HE UNDERSTOOD IT.

Salesman Had Broad Definition of the Word "Voluntary."

"Some men don't always understand what another means by the language he uses," said William P. King of the Merchants' association the other day in talking of the difficulties that salesmen sometimes have to contend with. "Now there is one of our salesmen whom I overheard the other day boasting that a Western buyer, who is celebrated wherever salesmen congregate as a hard man to do business with, had come into the store voluntarily and bought a large bill of goods. As soon as the other man had gone I asked our man if he really meant that the buyer had come in voluntarily.

"'Sure he did,' was the reply I got.

"'How do you account for it?' I asked.

"'Oh, well,' said the salesman, 'it's simple enough. The day he arrived in town I sent him a special delivery letter at his hotel, and followed it up in the afternoon with a call at which I showed him a couple of samples. The next day I met him as he was going to lunch, and blew him off to the best meal he ever ate. That night I took him to the theater, and the next morning met him at his hotel before breakfast. Of course I never let a chance slip to talk up our goods, and this morning he just walked into the store and bought the biggest bill we ever got out of him.'

"Well," said Mr. King, "that was what the man called coming in voluntarily, and he meant it. Of course he didn't have to hit him over the head with a club and drag him in. Every man is entitled to his own definitions."—New York Times.

CAT'S GREAT WALKING FEAT.

It Tramped Eighty-Five Miles to Regain Its Home.

What is probably another record has been created, this time by a cat, which has walked from London to Oversdale, near Rugby, a distance of eighty-five miles, says the London Mail.

"Jummy," as the "tramp" is called, belongs to Mrs. Mark Robinson of 9 Belsize grove, Hempstead, and is just an ordinary medium-sized black cat. Although 7 years old, "Jummy" had never before displayed any marked nomadic tendency, its previous ramblings having always been confined to the neighborhood of its home.

About the beginning of June Mr. Robinson brought the cat to Hampstead from Oversdale, and it was at once apparent that "Jummy," like the Rev. Mr. Spalding, didn't like London. The climax came when some furniture was moved into the house. This was too much, and "Jummy" took his departure.

Nothing more was heard of it until about a fortnight ago, when news came from Oversdale that "Jummy" had returned, its coat a trifle rough, its limbs a trifle thinner, but "Jummy" nevertheless.

As the cat was brought to London in a closed basket its achievement in walking back is really remarkable.

"Jummy" has a rival in the walking craze for a cat belonging to a friend of Mr. Robinson walked from Rugby to Kenilworth and back the other day, leaving about the empty house there which its owner had left. It has since returned to Rugby, having taken three months for the double journey.

WILL COME BACK FOR CUP.

French Rider Determined to Win Automobile Trophy.

Albert Clement, the French rider, who participated in the Vanderbilt automobile cup race, has sailed for Paris. A few days after his arrival there he will enter upon three years of military duty in the French army. He will act as special automobile driver to the general in chief, driving him on all military inspections, army maneuvers, etc. During these three years he is in the army young Clement is not allowed to indulge in automobile racing to his heart's content. He will be allowed time to prepare his machine for any race he may enter, in short, his army service will in no way interfere with his racing, unless definitely announced that he will come over and drive in next year's Vanderbilt cup race, and in his broken English add: "Next time I get it."

Must Have the "Thunderer."

J. H. Frazier-Walter, great grandson of the founder of the London Times, is on his way east from San Francisco on a tour of the country with John Large. Mr. Walter is first cousin of the present head of the Times and is himself a stockholder in the paper. It is his first trip to America. He has been traveling through Canada, going to San Francisco by way of Portland. Walter states that his inherited taste for and close relationship with the Times have made it impossible to locate the news in American papers, and that he therefore has a copy of the "Thunderer" specially sent him daily and served to him wherever he may be at 10:30 each morning.

Called for Explanation.

George H. Fahrbach, who was one of the leading lights and office holders in Tammany hall before he started in business as a wine agent, was entertaining some friends in the parlors at the Grand Union hotel, in Saratoga, during the recent Democratic State convention.

"Here, have something to drink," said Fahrbach to Senator Riordan.

"No," said the senator. "This is only afternoon, and I never drink before night."

"Huh!" retorted Fahrbach. "What's the matter? Afraid to get it before dark?"—New York Times.

The Garden.

Under the gloom of the shivering pines,
That whisper when it blows,
Behind the creeper-covered wall,
Is a garden that always grows.

In summer and in springtime,
And when the winter snows
Bend the dark branches to the ground,
The garden always grows.

The hand of man has made it.
The white stones stand in rows;
The tears of the world have watered it,
And the garden always grows.

There are many gardens like it,
Their number soon known,
Each day, till the world is ended,
This garden always grows.

A prominent Southern lady, Mrs. Blanchard, of Nashville, Tenn., tells how she was cured of backache, dizziness, painful and irregular periods by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Gratitude compels me to acknowledge the great merit of your Vegetable Compound. I have suffered for four years with irregular and painful menstruation, also dizziness, pains in the back and lower limbs, and fitful sleep. I dreaded the time to come which would only mean suffering to me.

"Better health is all I wanted, and cure if possible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness in a few short months. I feel like another person now. My aches and pains have left me. Life seems new and sweet to me, and everything seems pleasant and easy.

"Six bottles brought me health, and was worth more than months under the doctor's care, which really did not benefit me at all. I am satisfied there is no medicine so good for sick women as your Vegetable Compound, and I advocate it to my lady friends in need of medical help."—Mrs. B. A. Blanchard, 422 Broad St., Nashville, Tenn.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, extra ability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

A Severe Case of Womb Trouble Cured in Philadelphia.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have been cured of severe female troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was nearly ready to give up, but seeing your advertisement I purchased one bottle of your medicine, and it did me so much good that I purchased another, and the result was so satisfactory that I bought six more bottles, and am now feeling like a new woman. I shall never be without it. I hope that my testimonial will convince women that your Vegetable Compound is the greatest medicine in the world for falling of the womb or any other female complaints."—Mrs. Max Cody, 2660 Birch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Her address is Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it.

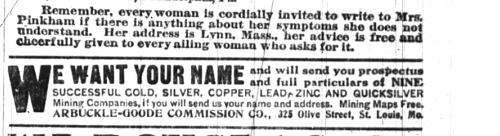
W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 SHOES



W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

The reason W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes and the high-grade leathers used, you would understand why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1904, were 883,743,044,646.

W. L. Douglas guarantees their value by stamping his name and price on the bottom. Look for it—take no substitute. Sold by shoe dealers everywhere.

SUPERIOR IN FIT, COMFORT AND WEAR.

"I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes for the last twelve years with absolute satisfaction. I find them superior to $5 shoes in fit, comfort and wear in every respect."—Jos. Banigan, Providence, R. I.

$2.00 to $3.00—R. S. McVEY, Dept. Civil, U. S. Int. Revenue, Richmond, Va.

W. L. Douglas uses Corona Coltskin in his $3.50 shoes. Corona Colt is conceded to be the finest Patent Leather made. Fast Color Eyelets used exclusively.
