Countess Boni De Castellane has arented a new gambling fad, but most are of the old ones will suffice the verage pocketbook.

The wisdom of the rest cure is universally acknowledged, but the trouble is that most people do not take it until they die.

John L. Sullivan is reported to have igned the pledge, but probably on the Meredith marriage plan in an ex-remely modified form.

The authorities have not succeeded et in getting on the track of the counterfeit patriot who tried to wreck are battleship Connecticut.

A very excellent quality of glass bricks is now being made. Those bricks are even better than the fam-ous and much more costly gold ones. There are still a good many people who can see lots of bad ears in our big corn crop. These were born to tribulation, and they are acquainted with grief.

There is apparently no royal road for automobilists. The Duke of Con-maught, brother of King Edward, was thrown from his machine by colliding with a cart.

Probably the offer of a suitable re ward for the apprehension and conviction of that missing $10,000 hill would result in bringing it forth from the retirement.

A ban'er advises those who want to save to hoard all they receive of a particular coin or piece of currency. Wherefore we have decided to spend no more $1,000 bills.

A New York judge has decided that irectors who sign a prospectus of a orporation are liable for the state-nents contained in it. This will be a set blow to Wall street.

Can it be possible that the Hon-leth Low, late president of Columbia miversity, actually made use of such a expression in his speech as "Why-nonkey with the system?"

As if divorced persons didn't have enough trouble with allmony and beartaches and a few things of that agrit without having every church gathering that meets proceed to rub it in!

According to recent investigations it now costs Americans an average of $17.42 a year for clothing, as against $12.80 in 1897. This doubtless is large-by due to the present style of women's steeves.

Nevertheless, the man who swapped he parlor carpet for a drink of thisky may have just been preparing at fall housedeaning by getting rid f one casus belli and bracing himself at meet the others.

We feel quite sure that Miss Victorias Kopwigs of Newark, N. J., who is goling to try to get rid of her asthma by not eating anything for two mouths, will not be troubled with asthma much longer.

William Rochediller has been compolited to pay over $100,000 for a lide yard about forty feet wide in New York. At that rate even a Rockefeller might turn out of cash before he succeeded in getting the earth.

In the discussion of "Who is the real American?" somebody answers that it was an Italian, anyhow, who first revealed this continent to the civilized world. But here again we enter the realm of controversy.

Perhaps the bishops will say that a mock marriage ceremony between five-rear-old children, with elaborate details for exhibition, is not one of the things that conduce to increase ademnity in the popular view of mar-
