MR and MRS. IND. ATKINSON, Independence, Mo.

Remarkable Cures Effected By Pe-ru-na.

Under date of January 10, 1897, Dr. Hartman received the following letter:

"My wife has been a sufferer from a complication of diseases for the past twenty-five years. Her case has baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing. She was also passing through that most critical period in the life of a woman—change of life.

"In June, 1895, I wrote to you about her case. You advised a course of Peruna and Manalin, which we at once commenced, and have to say it completely cured her.

"About the same time I wrote you about my own case of catarrh, which had been of twenty-five years' standing. At times I was almost past going. I commenced to use Peruna according to your instructions and continued its use for about a year, and it has completely cured me. Your remedies do all that you claim for them, and even more."—John O. Atkinson.

In a letter dated January 1, 1900, Mr. Atkinson says, after five years' experience with Peruna:

"I will ever continue to speak a good word for Peruna. I am still cured of catarrh."—John O. Atkinson, Independence, Mo., Box 272.

Mrs. Alla Schwandt, Sanborn, Minn., writes:

"I have been troubled with rheumatism and catarrh for twenty-five years. Co ld not sleep day or night. After having used Peruna I can sleep and nothing bothers me now. If I ever am affected with any kind of sickness Peruna will be the medicine I shall use. My son was cured of catarrh of the larynx by Peruna."—Mrs. Alla Schwandt.

Why Old People are Especially Liable to Systemic Catarrh.

When old age comes on, catarrhal diseases comes also. Systemic catarrh is almost universal in old people. This explains why Peruna has become so indispensable to old people. Peruna is their safeguard. Peruna is the only remedy yet devised that entirely meets these cases. Nothing but an effective systemic remedy can cure them.

A reward of $10,000 has been deposited in the Market Exchange Bank, Columbus, Ohio, as a guarantee that the above testimonials are genuine; that we hold in our possession authentic letters certifying to the same, stating many years' advertising we have never used, in part or in whole, a single spurious testimonial. Every one of our testimonials are genuine and in the words of the one whose name is appended.

Oath According to the Koran.

Ali Achmet, an Arab, was a witness in the New York court of special sessions recently. He refused to take the Christian oath, saying he would swear as becomes a member of his race and faith. He was allowed to do so, and this was the oath he took: "I swear by the beard of the prophet, by the Kaaba, by the black stone and by my harem to tell the truth, all the truth, and only the truth."

Earthquake Source of Profit.

Earthquakes occasionally profit mankind, as in the case of Ouzoun-Ada, a town on the Caspian. The port of the town was visited by an earthquake last year, and since then it has been found open to steamers which could not enter it before, owing to the shallow water.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

Strange and Beautiful Forms and Colors to Be Seen.

You look up through the green water as if you were a fish yourself and know for the first time how it feels to be at the bottom of the sea, says a writer in Everywhere. Great, solemn, aldermanic-looking cod swim up and stare into your very eyes; enormous conger eels writhe playfully around your head; idiotic-looking dog-fish lie piled on one another and blink placidly into your face like so many sheep; while the skates and the string rays are flattened out in panting flaccidity upon the gravel at the bottom. Little silver herrings and golden-hued young salmon drift about like clouds lit by the moon and on all sides, against the rocks that vary the surface of the tanks, wave the exquisite fringes of the sea anemones. Here, above all, is the supreme beauty of the water world.

Every variety of fringe and flower-cup is mimicked here in hues that fairly rival the roses of the garden. Purest white, soft creamy yellow, rich salmon color, every shade of tender rose and glowing red and royal purple and vivid green spring from these rocks a living flower, with petals as delicate as they are deadly. For these beautiful fringes and ethereal-looking bubbles of color are so many murderous arms outstretched for food. As we watch them swaying gently in the current, a poor little transparent shrimp comes paddling swiftly by. He touches a rose-colored petal, it flashes around him, he is sucked into the gorgeous heart of the flower and it closes contentedly over his vanished form. They know their danger generally, these poor little creatures, and did they touch ever so lightly the top of a floating fringe, would spring away from it with an electrical recoil.

An Election Night Episode.

The man with the piece of chalk was busily putting down figures which she laboriously read from the "flimsies" handed him by the messenger boy.

The crowd was cheering or groaning, according to the color of the returns and the temper of the composite human units.

After the messenger had handed in the flimsies he started to go away.

First he turned to the door at his left, but a bulky man filled it.

Then he dodged to the right and attempted to duck under the support of the huge blackboard.

But the man with the chalk was too quick.

With pale face and startled eyes he leaped at the urchin and seized him by the arm.

As he was led from back of the blackboard the boy writhed in pain and said:

"Watchy doin', mister? I ain't done nothin'."

"Don nothin', indeed!" cried the man, trembling with wrath. "Wasn't you trying to go behind the returns?"

And the reckless and crestfallen lad did well to escape with his life.—Baltimore American.

Master of Dreams.

"Behold, this dreamer cometh."
They stripped me bare and left me by the way.
To pine forsaken in a lonely land;
They gave me to night-frosts and burning days
To griefs none understand.

They took my silver from me and my gold,
The changing splendors of my rich array;
Night's silver rain of dew escaped their hold,
And the fine gold of day.

On the world's highway in vain pomp
By paths unknown I stray and hidden streams;
They took all else and left me there for dead,
They could not take my dreams.

Still, morning comes with marvel as of old,
Still, its soft rose descends the eventide;
Still in the castle of my heart, grown bold,
The sweet await thoughts abide.

Pass by, pass by, O clamorous folk and cold!
To this last fortress of the soul I cling;
Men gave me winter weather from a child,
But God has given me spring.
—Robin Flower in Spectator.

Raised $100 ($. M.) a Night.

In the Victoria Hall, Cafe the other night George Grossmith Jr., told of a super who went to the manager of a successful play after it had been having a long London run and demanded a raise of salary.

"Sir," he said, "I have been playing my part for one hundred consecutive nights with the utmost zeal and care. Don't you think I should have a raise"

"What part do you play?" asked the manager.

"I am in the third act, sir," replied the actor, apparently satisfied at the question. "I have to stake twenty pounds in the gambling scene."

"Your claim is just," replied the manager. "Beginning tonight you may stake forty pounds."—New York Press.

Excellent Champagne Harvest.

This year's champagne harvest in France will rank among those of the most famous years—such as 1865, 1874, 1884, 1889 and 1892. It has been said that the vineyards of Champagne cannot produce all the sparkling wine which is sold under the name of champagne. As a matter of fact, however, the vineyards produce three times as much wine as is sold abroad, according to government statistics. La Marne possesses 26,000 acres of vineyards, which produce on an average 360,000 barrels of wine. There are 250 bottles of wine in each barrel, or 75,000,000 altogether. The export trade in sparkling wine varies between 22,000,000 and 25,000,000 bottles.

Italian Judicial Scandal.

A singular judicial scandal has broken out in Naples and the district depending upon the Neapolitan tribunal where the discovery has been made that no fewer than 13,000 public prosecutions, great and small, have during the last few years been allowed to lapse and disappear from the lists, owing to magisterial neglect and corruption. The excuse for the magistrates is that they have only followed a system of long standing.

Alaska Gold Production.

The gold production of the entire Alaskan district for the present year is estimated at $26,000,000.

FARM SCELLANY

Value of Grass for Poultry.

Though thoroughly appreciating the value of good grass range, with all that goes with it in the way of insects, worms, seeds and exercise, as well as grass, we would not wish to fully indorse the statement as to the saving in grain effected by a good grazing ground unless such statement was supported by details sufficient to demonstrate the correctness of his opinion. In our own experience we have never regarded grass, hay or bulky green foods as valuable to substitute for any considerable part of the grain ration. We have always found that chickens well supplied with green food and meat food were heartier feeders of grain than those fed grain alone, except in the extreme hot weather, when, if left to themselves, they will generally eat so much green stuff and so little grain that both growth and egg production are checked.

According to our experience and way of estimating values, these accessories of the grain ration do not so much economize in actual cost of food as increase the capacity for digesting and utilizing the staple grain foods. That is, they increase production. We have found, too, that they increase it, as a rule, much more than enough to pay for the increased cost of food. Another point to be considered is that the use of rations so balanced not only increases the efficiency of the digestive organs, but by preserving their efficiency prolongs the useful life of the fowl. As Mr. Strickland says, a bulky ration distending the stomach serves certain useful ends. The trouble with the all-grain ration is that it is too concentrated. It turns out the digestive apparatus. It can stand it for awhile, and may grow better or lay better on it than they would on a ration containing much green stuff, but they will not last so long.

Some say and think it the better policy to feed grain only for all they are worth, and when they are exhausted turn them off, but the wisdom of that policy is open to doubt. Indeed it has been discredited in many experiences.

In most northern sections grass cannot be grown during the winter. Where our winters are quite reliably "open" enough to give fowls a good many opportunities for foraging, winter rye is the favorite crop for poultry, and it could be used much more than it is.

Exciting a Dairy Cow.

I have made a close study of dairy problems during the last fifteen or twenty years, and I think I have picked up some experience by which others should profit, writes a South Dakota farmer. I refer especially to the matter of exciting the dairy cow. In the first place, I have no use for a dog around a dairy farm. One that is properly trained and is looked after by a sensible person may often be useful about home, but harmful, but where there are a number of individuals looking after the cows I think the dog should be dispensed with. I have many times noticed a falling off fully one-half in the quantity of milk given by my cows after they have been given a chase by the dog, while I have in mind a few cases where cows under normal conditions gave six quarts at a milking would not give a pint after being chased by a dog. Now, a repetition of this experience for a few times may occur even after a lactation period of only three or four months.

Proper Food for Hens.

Clover, alfalfa or grass is a perfectly balanced food for stock and poultry, and to one who never gave the matter much attention the quantity poultry will eat is an astonishment to him. This will be seen very plainly when hens are confined to runs; they eat up every blade of grass in an extensive yard and then pine to get out for more. In the normal condition of things a hen will live on grass; but if she is laying, she must have something in addition to furnish the egg material, and this can be supplied more cheaply than in any other way by giving her corn. Long observation convinces us that corn fed to laying hens makes the yolk of eggs a richer yellow and gives solidity to the whites. Eggs laid by a half-fed hen have whites that are thin and watery and the yolks are often pale and thin, falling flat when the egg is broken instead of standing up in the shape of a half globe.—Kansas Farmer.

Lard Good for Healing Cuts.

Most farmers are acquainted with the difficulty in milking the cow that cuts her teats on the barbed wire fence. A little lard put on the cut a few moments before milking will so soften it that the cow will give the milker no trouble. An application of lard or butter after milking hastens the healing of the cut.

Avoiding Drafts.

Some of these days let us look over the buildings carefully, and see that no open places are left to cause drafts on the animals, for they might better be left outside than obliged to stand in a draft. If you have any doubts on this subject, just try it yourself. Oblige yourself to stand in a place where the wind is drawing through for a while, and then go out, even where you are fully exposed to the elements, and see how much more comfortable you are where you can change your position and not be obliged to keep still.

Keeping and Shipping Apples.

A series of experiments conducted at the Ontario, Canada, Agricultural college tend to confirm the conclusions reached by the United States Department of Agriculture that apples can be kept in better condition at a temperature of thirty-one degrees, Fahrenheit, than at a higher temperature. Both agree that a great advantage is gained by wrapping each apple in paper and carefully packing them in shallow one-bushel boxes.

RAPID SPREAD OF PLANTS.

Seize Wide Stretches of Land in Glorious Profusion.

It is marvelous how rapidly some plants will spread themselves over wide stretches of land, says Longman's Magazine. The writer was struck with the way in which the yellow charlock took possession of the line when the Meon Valley railway was being made a few years ago. The very next spring after the embankments were thrown up their sides were clothed with this rampant and conspicuous crucifer. A line of yellow across the country marked in many places the course of the railway. Poppies, too, for some unknown reason, will occasionally appear in strange and wonderful profusion. The striking instance related by Lord Macaulay may be quoted by way of illustration. After the batte of Landen the ground, he tells us, "during many months was strewn with skulls and bones of men and horses, and with fragments of hats and shoes, saddles and holsters. The next summer, the soil, fertilized by twenty thousand corpses, broke forth into millions of poppies."

Photography Foreshadowed.

La Fontaine, who died long before Scheele was born, gives in one of his fables a method of picture-making which may be regarded as foreshadowing the beautiful art which is now of service to mankind in so many different ways. It occurs under the title "Voyage Suppose," and a description runs as follows: "There was no painter in that ought; but if anybody wished to have the picture of a friend, of a picture, a beautiful landseape, or of any other object, water was placed in great basins of gold or silver, and then the object desired to be painted was placed in front of that water. After a while the water froze and became a glass mirror, on which fa ineffaceable image remained."—T. L. Hopkworth in Chambers' Journal.

Memories of Lady Tennyson.

Shortly after Lady Tennyson's marriage one of her women friends wrote the following: "We would find Mrs. Tennyson alone in the large drawing room—always writing—arrayed in a dress of soft gray merino trimmed with velvet of the same, and with a long train, a piece of rich old lace, worn instead of a cap, drooping over her hair behind and coming to a point in front. She was extremely kind in lending us books; among these I particularly remember a set of Shakespeare's plays, which she admired greatly. Her manner was always most gracious and dignified—perhaps rather languid, but this arose chiefly from lack of vitality or physical strength."

Games and Brains.

I have spent twelve years at the University of Cambridge and nine years of this period I have spent in teaching. I have always found that the fool at sports is the fool at books. Conversely, the good athlete is also a good student. The explanation is perfectly simple. A man or woman without brains cannot learn anything. They will be as great fools at games as they are fools at study.—Letter in London Mail.

FLOCKING INTO CANADA.

Immigration From Dakota and Adjoining States—Major Edwards, United States Consul General at Montreal, Describes the Movement as Due to Scarcity of Land.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—Major Allison Edwards, United States Consul General, who returned to-day from a visit to his home at Fargo, North Dakota, said in an interview: "The proper way to describe the manner in which the people you are getting are flocking over into Western Canada is to say they are coming over in droves. Among the people there did not seem to be any thought of there being a boundary line at all. It is simply a question," added the major, "of there not being any more land in North Dakota and the surrounding States, and the people are flocking to Canada to get good farms. Naturally the number that will come over will increase all the time, and I may say the people of North Dakota are component people in the west. They are well supplied with money and are well acquainted with the conditions under which they will have to work." The agents of the Canadian Government are prepared to give the fullest information regarding homestead and other lands.

Boat Made From a Pearl.

A jeweler in Turin has made a tiny boat of a single pearl. The hull is finely shaped and might serve as a model for a racing sloop, the sail is of beaten gold, studded with diamonds and the binnacle light is a perfect ruby. An emerald serves as its rudder, and its stand is a slab of ivory. Its weight is less than one ounce, and it is said to have cost $5,000.

Excitement Over a Pearl.

Great excitement has been caused in Ceylon by the discovery of a pearl of unusual size and beauty. The pearl was found by a native diver, who, after bringing it to the surface, hid it in the sand on the beach, intending to secure it when he left the water. Unfortunately for him, he was seen by a companion, who informed the police. The finder was arrested and the pearl found in his possession. He was fined $100 and the pearl was confiscated by the government.

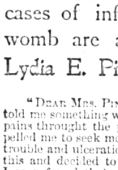
Lady Skin Talk

The letters of Miss Merkley, whose picture is printed above, and Miss Claussen, prove beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains throughout the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well.

"My heartiest thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me."—Sincerely yours, Miss MARGARET MERKLEY, 275 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Miss Claussen Saved from a Surgical Operation.



"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It seems to me that all the endorsements that I have read of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound do not express one-half of the virtue the great medicine really possesses. I know that it saved my life and I want to give the credit where it belongs. I suffered with ovarian trouble for five years, had three operations and spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicines but this did not cure me after all.

"However, what doctors and medicines failed to do, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Twenty bottles restored me to perfect health and I feel sure that had I known of its value before, and let the doctors alone, I would have been spared all the pain and expense that fruitless operations cost me. If the women who are suffering, and the doctors do not help them, will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they will not be disappointed with the results."—Miss CLARA M. CLAUSSEN, 1307 Penn St., Kansas City, Mo.
