"It will soon be possible," said the chief of police, "for people to say where in the city without fear of crime or violence."

"Do you speak with knowledge?" asked the reporter.

"Sure I do," replied the chief. "The people are taking their automobiles for the winter." - Cleveland Leader.

"An Awful Mistake. Wife—"My dress-fashions to suit altogether too old-fashioned to getting."

"Opposed to intervention. "I was watching the bulletins, when my attention was attracted to two youngsters who were squared off at each other in Queensbury style. While I watched they rolled into the gutter, scratching like cats."

"I separated the belligerents. Then they turned on me. They mistar, what yer doin'?" yelled one. "Can't two friends fight without somebody buttin' in?" I permitted the fight to go on.—Washington Post.

"Evidence. "But," questioned the conductor, "are you sure it is under 12?"

"Certainly," said the irate mother. "It has just written a volume of poetry."

Convinced by this proof, the conductor passed on down the aisle.—New York Sun.

Heard at Newport.

Cholly—"Percy Funk is getting more and more effeminate every day."

Madison Square—"In what way?"

Hoffman Howes—"Why, don't you remember?" It was impossible for Noo Yawk to get news of the outside world, don't you know?—Louisville Courier-Journal.

New York Sufficent Unto itself. Hoffman Howes—"Hab Jove, that storm laid week was a serious thing for Noo Yawk."
