

The appearance of the rat indicates that the season for plagues is at hand.

No matter how pretty a girl is, she can't afford not to know at least a little something.

If the man who rocks the boat were the only one to drown, the mourning wouldn't be so general.

Now is the time for the Russian people to give us something about the "mines they left behind."

Joe Jefferson states that comedy is serious business. We've seen so many faces that were painfully tragic.

Lord Lansdowne's statement that what exists in Tibet is somewhat tardy. The Tibetans realized it weeks ago.

Baseball is said to cure insomnia. But what we want to know is what will cure some of the baseball players.

Bishop Anderson's objection to having his salary increased makes him one of the most looniest persons in the country.

Considering the number of men who have roared plans to be surprised if they took so long to think of the idea of burning them.

A New York man was made crazy by consuming an over-supply of lobster. It was simply a case of "becoming what you eat."

The man who is always complaining about his poor health seldom has the satisfaction of hearing anybody ask him how he is.

A contemporary millionaire declares that "control of the market is essential to success." He unfortunately neglects to say whose success.

The New York banks are now said to have too much money on hand. Some of those crooked cashiers will soon correct this evil.

A Pennsylvania woman who died the other day left $600 for her pet dog. It ought to be easy enough for some sharp lawyer to get that.

Whatever reason the Yale students may have for going barefoot, according to their latest fad, it isn't to save the expense of shoes.

A Chicago woman claims that she read character by the voice. This is probably just her cute little way of saying that monkey talks.

The fashion arbiters have failed dimly in their efforts to abolish the shirtwaist girl. The bosses can't do feat the will of the whole people.

From the way the South American nations have been selling their warships, we may infer that they have been hereafter to live together in peace.

The Boston papers tell us that the water girls have been so annoyed by male flirters that in order to protect themselves they are carrying revolvers. Where?

A Boston humorist who undertook to scare a night watchman got shot for his pains. Nothing is more dangerous than to suddenly awaken a heavy sleeper.

A man in Dover, Del. recently went to the slipping post for stealing a railroad tie. Had he taken the whole road he would have gone to the winning post instead.

There is to be a scientific collector of mosquitoes at St. Louis. Most people will be far more interested in designing the uncollected ones when the hot weather comes on.

Out in Indian Territory a man was recently blown a quarter of a mile in a tornado. He could have done better than that at one of our little wind jamming political orgies.

Andrew Lang's effort to wrestle with the earlier English attempt to understand Mark Twain, but it belongs to the same brand of obtuseness.

An old atlas, printed in 1796, says that the climate of this country is a combination of all the other climates in the world. That atlas must have been written in March and printed in April.

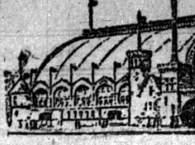

Lord Brooke, who is only 22 years old, who has no prejudice against cash, is coming over to this country from England. This particular British is a bachelor, but he does not intend to get on so forever.

Seneca Bernhardt is suing a Paris editor for damages because he reviewed her new play too soon. On this side the disposition is to wreak vengeance on the newspapers because they put off noticing the plays until too late.

A Philadelphia court has decided that a man does not have to tell his wife how much money he makes or how he spends it. Before being asked to do this the man is supposed to do most men to find out what their wives think about it.

Probably Mr. Michael Lynch, the famous Brown university pitcher, who has signed a contract to play with the Pittsburgh Pirates, will get a larger salary right away after graduation than any other pitcher in this year's crop of college graduates.

A Kansas experimenter is studying the cat language and for this purpose is taking their voices in a phonograph, as cats' voices in a phonograph are not sufficient to drive the world to the point of distraction.
