CHAPTER XXVIII.

"Gen. Carden attends a banquet to-morrow evening, but Edith and I will be some and will be delighted if you'll drop in to relieve the monotony," replied Jessie...

THE LOVE OF A MAN FOR A WOMAN.

"Ah! I presume this is it!" he exclaimed. He adjusted his monocle with elaborate care, broke the envelope and read: "My Dear Morris: The Comopolitan franchise was defeated by a practically unanimous vote...

THE LOVE OF A MAN FOR A WOMAN.

"No," he said pushing his chair from the table and rising unsteadily to his feet. "The note is ghosted."

"A family fry dill occasionally, where there are little children, is an excellent plan. Provide them with a wooden tray, or rug over head and shoulders, and if possible a cork-handkerchief, preferably silk, over their mouths and then take the mother and go."

THE LOVE OF A MAN FOR A WOMAN.

"The voice was calm, but it held a note of triumph and of quiet confidence. It hit the nerves of the situation, and Blake drew a long breath of relief as he thought of his third escape."

THE LOVE OF A MAN FOR A WOMAN.

"This is my last speculative campaign," said John. "For years I have been a gold-grubbing and money-making man, but now I have decided to retire from active participation in its affairs."

THE LOVE OF A MAN FOR A WOMAN.

"The impending overthrow of Morris had the same James Blake's interest in the game."
