BY ANNIE ELISS WILLIS

Tom and Dick were two poor little waifs... From mountain side the clouds came...

He believed a living was to be had for the asking if anybody would only...

Now this was a very magnificent offer, for Tom lived nowhere or anywhere...

With a sudden spring he was over the side of the boat.

"Of course, it was useless; the boat was moving so fast that he could not find him."

The mate had tears in his eyes when, passing across the deck, he spoke Dick.

"I'll take you home and you shall live with me," said the mate, putting his arm around him.

Dick had never been so happy in his life. Though he could not talk about his gratitude as many people do...

One day they started out for the boat. It was not what Tom wanted to do. He longed with all his soul for the blue water rolling at his feet and splashing in his face...

The Unselfish Woman. When all accounts are really balanced, the book-keeper to be closed when he is standing of the unselfish woman...

There is nothing at all the matter, my boy. You've only lost your head. Get back to your work and your hands to do."

There is nothing at all the matter, my boy. Stand by your task like a man. It may be that you are in the world's mad race."

Japan's purchases from the United States in the fiscal year just closed amounted to $1,744,728, an increase of $27,000,000 over 1907.

Two poor little waifs, soft, green grass beneath him, clover and daisies gently waving as he walked...
